BRITISH CABINET REBUILT IN WAR DEFENSE DRIVE

Chamberlain Acts to Protect Nation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, obviously alarmed over the lack of defense in the British Isles, today acted to prepare the nation for any future war.

Sir John Anderson. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

He appointed Sir John Anderson—iron man of Bengal—to strengthen Britain's home defense of 50 million civilians in his rebuilt government. Anderson will be delegated to build up the air raid precautions army. He entered the cabinet as lord privy seal. The post of lord privy seal became vacant last week when Earl de la Warr was shifted to the board of education.

Anderson, who is 56 years old, stamped out widespread disorders in Bengal when he was governor general there. Three attempts were made to assassinate him during his campaign.

Gives Runciman a Post.

Viscount Runciman, who attempted to serve as mediator in the German-Czechoslovak crisis, was returned to the cabinet as lord president of the council. He succeeds Viscount Hailsham who resigned. Malcolm MacDonald, secretary for colonies, was given the further portfolio of dominions secretary. The vacancy in the dominions office was caused by the death of Lord Stanley.

The cabinet shakeup, coming on the eve of tomorrow's reassembly of parliament, was aimed to strengthen Chamberlain's hand in carrying out his policy to pacify Europe and to enable the government to present a united front in the face of criticism over wide gaps in Britain's defenses.

Chamberlain put Anderson in the cabinet largely because of weakness and inefficiency in defense plans, which suddenly appeared when the British seemed on the verge of war. The lack of preparedness gave the British a shock from which they have not yet recovered.

Demand Something Be Done.

Bungling and plain shortsightedness all had their parts in preventing smooth and efficient preparation to meet attack from the air.

There were loud demands on all sides for "something to be done."

Those who had been organized and trained to combat air raids responded nobly, but in many cases there were shortages of equipment and inadequate organization to get persons to their proper posts and ready for action.

Would-be volunteers complained there was no proper organization to decide what they should do and then instruct them to do it. Many minor points had not been thought of at all. Only about 100 of London's projected 3,000 emergency fire pumps were ready.

A Ludicrous Blunder.

In one case naval reservists who were sent to man a shore signal station, came back to report that the admiralty had sold the station to local authorities. It had been converted into a public comfort station.

That blunder was more ludicrous than dangerous, but there were others that could have caused real trouble.

Official secrecy has prevented most of the details from coming out, but those that are known have upset the public.

When London's much-publicized balloon barrage against air raids was tested—after all danger of war was over—it was a distinct flop. During the war it was said to have reached a fair degree of efficiency.

Short of Anti-Aircraft Guns.

There was a shortage of anti-aircraft guns as well. How much of a shortage is another official secret. But the public was not reassured by the number of old model 3-inch guns it saw being put in place for possible raids.

Four hundred guns is said to be the present objective. In June, 1918, there were 46½ ready for action.

New linings and increased charges are said to have given the 3-inch

HE'LL HAVE THE FUN ON $1,000 SET ASIDE FOR HIS WAKE PARTY

Council Bluffs, Ia., Oct. 31.—(AP)—George S. Wright planned a good time for his friends at his wake when he took out a $1,000 insurance policy for that purpose 10 years ago, but he'll have the fun instead. The policy matured today and Wright collected the $1,000. "Most of my old friends are dead and they couldn't have come anyway," philosophized the Council Bluffs attorney, who is 70 years old.

REFUSE TO OPEN SCHOOLS DESPITE COURT'S ORDER

Dayton, O., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Despite a dramatic plea by Common Pleas Judge Null M. Hodapp and a threat of contempt citations, the Dayton board of education refused tonight to rescind its order closing the city schools because of a financial crisis.

After a five hour session with a committee appointed by Judge Hodapp the board reported it would stand firm on the closing order.

The schools were closed last Friday because of an empty treasury and a $61,000 deficit. Judge Hodapp told the board: "The money will be forthcoming to open the schools and I'll give you until tomorrow afternoon to do your duty."

The threat of contempt proceedings faced the board because schools failed to open today in defiance of an injunction against closing issued by Judge Hodapp Saturday.

PUTS 'DYNAMITE' IN MOUTH; ROBS EMPTIED SALOON

BOGOTA, Colombia, Oct. 31. — A man entered a Cali saloon at the rush hour today, placed what appeared to be a stick of dynamite in his mouth, and struck a match to light the fuse. The saloon keeper, bartenders, and customers rushed to the street, calling the police and fire department. When no explosion occurred, they returned. They found the cash register emptied and bottles of choice liquors and boxes of good cigars missing. What they had taken for dynamite and fuse lay on the bar. It was a roll of paper.

Shoots Two as They Tear His Picket Fence

Tragedy came in the wake of a Halloween prank on the south side last night. An alarmed householder fired several shots at a group of boys and young men who were tearing down his picket fence. Two were wounded, one so seriously he may die.

The more seriously injured is James Durkin, 17 years old, of 5653 South Racine avenue. He was shot in the spine. The other victim is John Conlon, 22, of 5712 Aberdeen street, who was wounded near the kidney.

Tells Police He "Lost His Head."

Their assailant, William Barger, 29 years old, 5659 South May street, service manager for a northwest side automobile company, surrendered to police.

The shooting so aroused the neighborhood that a crowd of 300 gathered in front of Barger's home. He and his wife, Rose, 27, were already at the station, and in no danger. To protect the Barger home, Capt. Healy sent two squads to the scene.

Shortly before the shooting a group of Halloween pranksters massed in Barger's front yard and began tearing his fence apart. Another crowd stayed across the street. Mrs. Barger went outside to chase the intruders away. Then she screamed.

Barger grabbed his rifle, a repeater which fires sixteen 22 caliber bullets, and ran out into the yard. He fired blindly. Durkin and Conlon fell. Police could not say how many shots Barger fired, but only four loaded bullets were left in the gun.

Cites Hoodlum Terrorism.

Fearful that he and his wife would be unsafe, Barger put her into their car and drove to the police station. He surrendered, announcing, "I think I shot a kid." The shooting was soon confirmed by a dozen phone calls. In a formal statement Barger told police that he had been annoyed by hoodlums for several months. They had broken his garage windows, punctured his tires, and stolen his lights. These incidents were in his mind, he said, when the trouble started last night.

DUMMY TOSSED UNDER CARS GIVES AUTOISTS A HALLOWEEN SCARE

Among the hard working Halloween celebrants last night were the boys who tossed a life sized dummy under the wheels of passing automobiles at Washington boulevard and Albany avenue. Half a dozen motorists broke up the game before the police arrived.

In Chicago Heights industrious Halloween merrymakers lifted a cottage on Euclid avenue from its foundations and were getting ready to heave it into Thorn creek when police interfered. Niles Center's and Maywood's bad boys tried to soap the elevated tracks. They, too, were routed. Somebody hurled a pumpkin against an automobile in Harlem avenue near Gunnison avenue.

Riot on Clark Street.

Twenty-five policemen and scores of citizens battled for ten minutes in a desperate free-for-all fight at Clark street and Berwyn avenue last night when the police tried to disperse a huge Halloween gathering.

Some 300 persons were at the intersection when the first squad arrived. Reënforcements were called from the Summerdale station. Fighting soon started and continued several blocks up Clark street. Gus Keller, 19 years old, 3178 Broadway, was knocked senseless after he had allegedly tried to grab a policeman's club.

Keller and eleven others were arrested. They will be arraigned in the Boys' court on disorderly conduct charges today. According to detectives, the Berwyn-Clark section is known to police for communistic tendencies.

2 Appraisers Learn What Third Knew; Cow Was Bull

Three appraisers who went to the Morris Dolbey farm, northwest of Elgin, got a surprise yesterday. Two of the trio, Attorneys Joseph J. Wiedemann and Almore H. Teschke of Elgin, started to examine a cow. But it wasn't a cow. 'Twas Dolbey's bull and he charged the appraisers. They escaped after a lively chase. The third appraiser was never very near the bull. He is Edward Meagher, a cattle dealer.

GRAFT EXPOSE RETURNS PENN VOTERS TO G.O.P.

Gov. Earle Accused by Democrats.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—With Democratic Gov. George H. Earle's administration smeared with charges of graft and corruption made by Democratic leaders, the indications are that the Republicans, despite President Roosevelt's eleventh hour indorsement of the Earle régime, will reclaim Pennsylvania next Tuesday.

If this estimate is correct, Republican Senator James J. Davis will be reëlected, defeating Gov. Earle, and Judge Arthur H. James, Republican candidate for governor, will defeat Charles A. Jones, the Democratic candidate.

The Republicans also are likely to make substantial gains of seats in the national house of representatives. If the Republicans should sweep the state they probably would gain about a dozen seats.

A Political Debacle.

Pennsylvania presents the most extraordinary spectacle of a political debacle witnessed in this country in generations. In 1934 the state went Democratic and in 1936 gave its electoral vote to a Democrat for the first time since the civil war and the Pennsylvania Democrats staged an orgy of political excesses.

Now Gov. Earle and his henchmen are wallowing in the mire charges that they have not dared to answer and the investigation of which they have tried to thwart by legislative action. Popular reaction against the Earle administration because of this attitude of confession by avoidance is such that the Democrats for the last fortnight have been fighting desperately on the defensive and sending up distress signals.

Rural Folk Revolt.

The most impressive evidence of the retribution the Earle régime was courting came from the rural regions. Soundings by Democratic leaders disclosed the revulsion of farmers and villagers against the graft and corruption imputed to the Earle administration in the primary campaign by Senator Joseph F. Guffey and other Democrats and the tactics of Earle to prevent an investigation.

The report relayed to the Democratic high command was that there would be an avalanche of Republican votes from the rural districts unless something were done to appease the country dwellers, who take their morals seriously.

With common accord the Democratic leaders recently turned to the President to save them. Earle, Guffey, David L. Lawrence, state chairman, and other Democratic bigwigs journeyed to Hyde Park and laid their plight before Mr. Roosevelt. But he was coy. He couldn't be convinced that he ought to dip into the Pennsylvania mess. The best the members of the delegation could do was to get their pictures taken with the President.

Pictures Fail to Help.

The delegation came home and disseminated the pictures of the President posing with Earle and associates. But the pictures failed to abate the storm. Then recourse was had to James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, who came here for a $100-a-plate harmony dinner from which $350,000 was realized. Still that chill Republican wind kept blowing from rural parts.

Finally on Oct. 26 Guffey, Lawrence, and J. David Stern, 100 per cent New Deal publisher of the Philadelphia Record, went to Washington and renewed their plea for help lest they sink.

This time Mr. Roosevelt yielded. For intervening in Pennsylvania, however, he found a pretext in the statement by Judge James that the President was holding aloof from the Pennsylvania contest because he was unwilling to put his hands in that muddy water.

Lauds Earle as Liberal.

Mr. Roosevelt addressed a letter to Michael F. Doyle, Philadelphia attorney, expressing his resentment over Judge James' remark and saying he always had found the Earle administration eager to help in carrying into effect a liberal program for social and economic justice.

Torches Light Biggest G.O.P. Rally Tonight

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

In the glow of 2,000 torchlights, Republicans will carry their victory hopes tonight to the Coliseum at 1513 South Wabash avenue while Democrats continue their drive for votes at thirteen ward and township meetings.

The Coliseum rally will be the largest gathering of the Illinois campaign, according to Edward F. Moore, chairman of the G. O. P. county central committee. The 12,000 capacity of the hall will be overtaxed, he said.

All Candidates to Attend.

Torchlight processions from every ward and every suburban township—eighty in all—will converge at the Coliseum. Powerful searchlights will flash a welcome to the complete list of candidates, led by Richard J. Lyons, nominee for United States senator, who will be the principal speaker.

At the same time that his opponent, Scott W. Lucas, was speaking at the 50th ward Democratic headquarters near by, Lyons addressed 1,000 persons from the top of his white sound truck at Devon avenue and Broadway last night.

"My opponent has deserted the boss rule issue which won him the nomination," Lyons said. "The cry was to beat Nash-Kelly boss rule. Why? So that super-boss, Horner, could dominate the state and dictate legislation and determine patronage. Now my opponent has joined the bosses.

"The only way to defeat boss rule is to vote. If every one gets out and votes, machines are useless. And that's why we will win."

Lyons here and at his two indoor meetings reiterated that the two-party system of government cannot go on unless monopoly of government by the Democrats is smashed.

Lucas on Radio Tonight.

The high spot of the Democratic campaign tonight will be a radio address on the subject of Americanism versus foreign "isms" by Lucas. At four meetings last night Lucas promised to tackle the topic boldly. His audiences ranged from 800 to 1,000.

"Communism is the same old red herring it was in 1936," Lucas said. "Anybody who knows my record as judge advocate of the American Legion and a member of congress knows that I stand four-square for the bill of rights and the Constitution.

"There is no room in my heart for anything but the good old American spirit. My opponent sees communists around the corner as often as Hoover saw prosperity around the corner."

Lucas said that during his four years in the house of representatives he had not been a rubber stamp or a vassal to any party.

Questioned at City Club.

Speaking before the City club in the Hotel Sherman the Democratic nominee was called upon to answer several questions after prepared remarks. He blamed certain business men for the delay in recovery.

"Business men who regard the present social order as only temporary," Lucas warned, "are doing themselves and the nation a disservice when they stand still instead of moving forward."

He prophesied that the country will move on to greater prosperity than it has ever known.

TEXAN REVEALS ROOSEVELT LED WAR ON INQUIRY

Ridiculed, Given No Investigators.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—The attempt of the Roosevelt administration to sabotage a congressional committee's investigation of communist activities in the United States was related tonight in a radio broadcast by Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.], the committee chairman.

Martin Dies. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Dies narrated at some length the difficulty his committee has encountered because of obstruction from the government departments. His appropriation was limited to $25,000 by congress under the specific understanding that such departments would lend him investigators. This has become a custom, the La Follette committee, for example, having a large force of government investigators in addition to an appropriation of $150,000.

Abused for Red Exposé.

When the committee confined itself to inquiries into fascism in this country, Dies said, the government tacitly approved. As soon as communistic activities began to be uncovered, a torrent of abuse was unloosed upon committee members, he declared.

Ridicule was quickly followed by anger as the committee continued its inquiry, Dies said.

"No longer do the communists and their sympathizers sneer," he declared. "We have probed too deeply to evoke smiles. Now we see pained expressions or uncontrolable anger. There is no precedent in history for this torrent of abuse.

"Here we are struggling desperately under almost inconceivable handicaps, without lawyers and with only three investigators to perform one of the most difficult and important tasks ever assigned to a committee. Although the house resolution requested the departments to furnish us with stenographers, investigators, and lawyers, this request was refused by the departments."

First New Deal Rebuff.

Dies said that he met his first New Deal rebuff on June 17 last when he requested the department of justice to comply with the house resolution. Acting Attorney General Thurman Arnold answered that he regretted that "circumstances" prevented his furnishing any assistance.

J. Edgar Hoover was then asked for help. He replied that the matter of giving the committee aid would have to be determined by the attorney general. The department of labor ignored a plea for help.

"If there had been the slightest intention of 'smearing' the New Deal, as has been charged," Dies queried, "would I have been willing to rely largely upon the New Deal appointees to do the investigating?"

Forced to employ investigators of its own, the committee hired several, Dies said. All were recommended, with one exception, by Democrats.

"Not until it was apparent that the committee was determined to proceed, even in the face of staggering odds and terrific pressure, was there any gesture to help from any one," he said. "And from whom did this gesture come?

La Follette Committee Aids.

"None other than the secretary of the La Follette civil liberties committee. He telephoned me that he could get us departmental help and, sure enough, as will be verified by all members of the committee serving at the time, two men sent by the La Follette committee tendered their services to our committee in executive session.

"One had been placed on the WPA pay roll, as was admitted by Harry Hopkins in his letter of Sept. 17 to the President, and the other was on the pay roll of either the department of justice or the La Follette committee.

"The members of our committee present were dumbfounded to learn that a clerk of another committee had more influence in securing help for our committee, in compliance with the resolution of the house of representatives than we did. Needless to say, we did not accept this Greek gift because we had good reasons to believe that these two men were assigned to the committee to sabotage our investigation.

Urged to Write President.

"After this incident, the committee instructed me to write the President and request him to urge the department of justice and the WPA to place upon their payrolls the names of 12 investigators, which we would submit to them, and several stenographers, and at least one attorney. This I did on Aug. 14, 1938.

"In this letter I told the President that we wanted to conduct a thorough and fearless investigation which would accord to all sides a full opportunity to be heard. On Aug. 27, 1938, the President wrote me that he would take the matter up with the department of justice and the WPA and let me hear from him later.

"More than a month later, on Oct. 1, the President transmitted to me a letter from Harry Hopkins [administrator of the WPA], dated Sept. 17, and a letter from the acting attorney general, dated Sept. 1, both addressed to the President and both refusing aid."

Tries to Discredit Inquiry.

Hopkins' letter, Dies said, stated that one WPA employé had been assigned to the Dies committee. This employé was the one connected with the La Follette committee, Dies said, who the Dies committee was convinced was assigned to sabotage the investigation.

The next move by the administration, Dies continued, was an attempt to "discredit the committee by ridicule and misrepresentation."

"This campaign was begun by certain radical writers whose sympathies for soviet Russia are matters of common knowledge in Washington," Dies said. He referred in particular, he said later, to Paul Y. Anderson, St. Louis newspaper man, who followed Dies on the air to answer his charges. Charles Michelson, publicity man for the Democratic national committee, admitted that he picked Anderson and helped him write his speech. Anderson is well known for his radical views. He is Washington correspondent for the United Automobile Workers' Journal, organ of the C. I. O., which has been attacked as communistic, and a writer for various radical magazines.

Committee not Frightened.

"After the communists and their sympathizers discovered that we were not frightened by ridicule or intimidated by abuse they resorted to their last desperate expedient of seeking to discredit the testimony which we received.

"The communists, as well as others, who found no objection to the way in which the Black committee and the La Follette committee were conducted, or to the character of evidence received by those committees, have suddenly become sticklers for judicial procedure although they themselves defended the Black committee on the well known ground that congressional committees are not governed by the rules of evidence.

"Considering the great handicaps under which we have labored; the fact that we have had only $25,000, and not a dollar from any other source, and the fact that we are compelled to hear our witnesses as fast as possible because expenses and salaries are rapidly exhausting our small funds, I do not fear comparison between our work and that of any investigating committee in the past.

"The people will not be deceived by this new strategy of the communists. I know of no other committee which repeatedly invited every organization or individual against whom any charge was made in the course of the hearings, to appear before the committee and disprove such charge. The very fact that only a small number of the hundreds of people and organizations who have been charged with subversive activities have sought an opportunity to appear before the committee or to file affidavits is strong proof that most of the testimony we have received is reliable. Furthermore it shoud be remembered that any witness who testifies falsely before our committee can be sentenced to the penitentiary for perjury."

Calls Inquiry Nightmare.

Anderson, who followed Dies on the air, condemned the investigation as a "nightmare." He particularly criticized the testimony concerning the domination of the United Automobile workers union [of which he is the newspaper representative in Washington] by communists. Like President Roosevelt he said that much of the testimony against Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan came from a "Republican judge and a discharged Republican city manager—both bitter political enemies of Gov. Murphy."

"I don't think any one who studied this performance could escape the impression that it was deliberately staged and that its purpose was to defeat Gov. Murphy when he comes up for reëlection next week," he declared.

Anderson had high praise for the methods of the La Follette civil liberties committee in comparison with the procedure of the Dies committee.

"To liken Dies' methods to those of Senator La Follette," he said, "is to libel the senator."

Bombarded with Messages.

For hours before the time scheduled for the broadcast, Dies received hundreds of telegrams and telephone messages from throughout the United States protesting that his speech had been barred from the air. The messages came from New York, Philadelphia, Houston, Baltimore, Portland, Ore., St. Louis, and Los Angeles.

The Mutual Broadcasting system, which carried the speech, has 108 outlets. Each of these has the right to cancel any offering and Dies drew the conclusion that White House pressure had been used to effect what was an effective censorship in many centers where Democrats are fearful of defeat on Nov. 8. The President and cabinet members have charged that the Dies inquiry has been harmful to the Democratic cause.

Complains of Radio Control.

"Evidently the word has been passed out over the country," said Dies, "that this matter has got to be made comparatively a small broadcast. It demonstrates that something has got to be done about radio. At present the freedom of radio is under the control of the party in power. Something must be done to take radio out from under the control of party politics."

The Mutual system explaining why some stations did not put the broadcast on the air said arrangements for the broadcast were not completed until this morning, about twelve hours before Dies was to go on the air. Announcement of the Dies broadcast for Monday night was made in Washington last Friday night.

The broadcasting system said it was not able to offer the broadcast formally until 5 o'clock this evening. How many stations used the broadcast and how many did not use it will not be known for several days, a system manager said.

Punished by New Deal.

Earlier in the day Dies charged he had been punished by the New Deal leaders for refusing to soft pedal the Red exposé.

In addition to a verbal castigation of the committee and its chairman, the President has ordered all New Deal benefits wrested from the voters whom Dies represents. As typical of this campaign of vengeance, Dies today exhibited a copy of a letter dated Oct. 25 canceling a $350,000 allotment for a causeway in Port Arthur, Tex., in Dies' district.

The letter was on official stationery of the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works and was written by George M. Bull, regional director of the PWA at Fort Worth, Tex., to B. T. McWhorter, chairman of the Port Arthur bridge commission. It began with the significant phase: "We have been instructed by our central office in Washington . . ."

Application Disapproved.

The central office in Washington, the letter continued, had instructed Director Bull to notify the Port Arthur bridge commission that a pending application had been disapproved and the existing allotment "is being recommended for rescission."

"This is just a sample of what has happened to me since the committee began its job," Dies commented. "The people in my district are being penalized because I felt it my duty to go ahead with an investigation which has hit certain Democratic candidates and revealed the communistic affiliations of certain government officials. I have been disinherited by the administration.

"I am still a loyal Democrat. The investigation, although hampered by lack of funds and investigators, will go on. I think it is better for the party that these conditions be disclosed now by a Democratic committee than to wait for later exposures when it might be too late."

New Deal Revenge

Tragedy in Prank

COURT ORDERS SHERIF TO JAIL POLICE CAPTAIN

Sherif John Toman yesterday received a writ of the Illinois Appellate court commanding that Supervising Police Captain Joseph Goldberg be arrested and locked in the county jail for failure to pay a $3,500 judgment.

The sherif said that the order would be carried out today. His assistant, Deputy William Milota, said that the captain would be asked to surrender at the sherif's office. He added that if he failed to do so, he will be trailed and seized.

Capt. Goldberg was the driver of an automobile that struck John Heneghan, 4630 Maypole avenue, in 1933. Heneghan, seriously injured, filed a damage suit. The jury that made the award added a malice count, under which nonpayment would result in six months imprisonment for Capt. Goldberg.

MAJ. CONNOLLY REJECTS HEALTH JOB IN NEW YORK

Maj. Joel I. Connolly, assistant president of the board of health, last week declined an appointment as deputy health commissioner of the City of New York, it was learned yesterday. New York officials said they wanted him to take charge of the health and sanitation in connection with the world's fair next year. He was offered a salary of $1,500 more than he receives here.

A graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Maj. Connolly holds a degree of master of science in sanitary engineering from Harvard university. He served at various army camps during the war and was with the Near East Relief in Turkey for fifteen months in 1919 and 1920. He was with the United States public health service for five years and became an employé of the Chicago board of health in 1925. In January, 1937, he was appointed assistant to Dr. Herman N. Bundesen.

Mrs. Alice Longworth to Visit City Tomorrow

Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth will lecture for the first time in Chicago tomorrow evening in Orchestra hall. Her subject will be "I Believe in America." The appearance of the daughter of Theodore Roosevelt is sponsored by Northwestern university. She will be introduced by President Walter Dill Scott.

NEW TROPICAL SEAL $245

The coat sensation fashion editors are raving about! Tropical Seal (a real seal from the sea) is a new fur with all the shimmering moire beauty of fine Russian Caracul, yet has five times its durability and warmth. Never a rip or tear. ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

REDS OFFER OWN PROOF THAT THEY BACK DEMOCRATS

Their Support Is Shown in Communist Paper.

In proof of charges that the Communists and Democrats are allied in the present national campaign, Edward F. Moore, county Republican chairman, yesterday cited an editorial in Chicago's communist daily urging election of 100 per cent supporters of President Roosevelt.

"A brief inspection of the editorial page and headlines of this communist organ is enough to demonstrate that the communists and the C. I. O. are backing the same candidates and have the same objectives as the Democrats," said Moore.

"The communists want to beat Dick Lyons for the United States senate and Ralph Church for congress. They want to elect County Judge Jarecki, Congressman A. J. Sabath, Scott W. Lucas, Louis E. Lewis, State Representative Benjamin Adamowski, and other Democratic nominees. They say so."

"Week-end Election Issue."

The issue to which he referred was a "week-end election issue," published Sunday. Its leading editorial, captioned "Vote New Deal," contained the following statement:

"Illinois can send to Washington a New Deal congress—one that will support 100 per cent the progressive policies of President Roosevelt. That is the urgent duty that confronts the voters."

Across the top of the front page was the banner headline:

"NEW DEAL FAVORED TO SWEEP ILLINOIS POLLS NOV. 8."

Beneath it, spread over two columns, were the headlines: "State Voters Expected to Reject Lyons. Progressives Rally to Return Bigger New Deal Delegation to Congress—Labor United in Campaign."

Church Is Assailed.

"'FOR HUMANITY IN GOVERNMENT'—VOTE NEW DEAL."

A 10th congressional district edition of the issue devoted more than a page to the cause of Joseph F. Elward, Democratic nominee for congress from that district. Of his opponent, Congressman Ralph E. Church, Republican, the newspaper stated:

"Church is a rubber stamp for reaction and Labor's Non-Partisan league is determined that he must be defeated at all costs."

Labor's Non-Partisan league is the political mouthpiece of the C. I. O. It has been denounced as John L. Lewis' Charlie McCarthy by the American Federation of Labor, which last January ordered all A. F. of L. unions to have nothing to do with it. At the recent A. F. of L. convention President William Green commented on the fact that an indorsement by Labor's Nonpartisan league in the primaries was almost invariably a political kiss of death.

Calls it Labors' Backing.

The communist journal, however, represents the league's indorsement as the backing of organized labor. Under a picture of County Judge Edward K. Jarecki appears the caption:

"Charges against Democratic nominee for county judge were blasted by Attorney General Otto Kerner. Jarecki is backed by Labor's Non-Partisan league."

"Lawyers and Unions Praise Record in Labor Cases."

The labor indorsement came from the C. I. O. league. The lawyers backing the judge are the National Lawyers' guild, a rump movement which was formed in protest against the American Bar association's harsh criticism of the New Deal. Judge Smith also received a kind word from Irving Krane, state secretary of the International Labor Defense, an organization active in defending communists.

Sabath Indorsed in Interview.

Labor's Nonpartisan league's indorsement of Congressman A. J. Sabath was also reported in a long interview with the veteran Democrat predicting that he will become chairman of the powerful house rules committee if elected.

While the typographical spread was all on behalf of Democratic candidates, some Republican candidates were included in a list represented as having the indorsement of "labor," without mentioning what labor organizations were meant. The score on this list was 64 Democratic candidates to 14 Republicans.

The plea for election of Roosevelt 100 per centers was contained in the leading editorial of the issue, beginning:

"People of Illinois: Where do you stand?"

"The Tories, under the banner of the Republican-Wall Street combine, command you to turn to reaction and super-Hooverism.

"The New Deal and its allies urge you to follow the path of Lincoln and Altgeld—to go forward to progress and democracy."

Reference to Lincoln Not New.

The reference to Lincoln is not new in communist polemics. Earl Browder, party leader in America, has frequently draped himself with the martyr President's shawl, not to mention Washington's continental uniform and Jefferson's scholarly robes. This is in accordance with the united front policy dictated to the communist party by Josef Stalin, under which its members are instructed to represent their organization as democratic and to align it with democracies in the hope of winning their support against Russia's Fascist enemies.

In accordance with this policy, the Chicago communist journal does not bear the hammer and sickle party emblem. It does not admit its communist affiliation. There is no doubt of that affiliation, however. Louis F. Budenz, its editor, is a communist party member and until recently was on the staf of the Daily Worker, the communist organ in New York. The Sunday issue contained a full page ad reciting the party platform and a front page story announcing a speaking appearance by Browder in Chicago.

Lumps Reds with Progressives.

In that appearance Browder, it was announced, will state the communist party's position.

"He and the other speakers are expected to answer the slanders by reactionaries against all progressives under the guise of an attack on 'communist,'" the report states.

The same tone, of lumping communists with progressives and labor forces, was followed in the leading story, principally an attack on Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for the senate. This story stated in part:

"Campaigning on the slogan, "Bring Back Jobs," Lyons has indulged in Red baiting and incitement to violence against progressives and the New Deal.

"His Democratic opponent, Scott W. Lucas, has made commitments on behalf of the New Deal, but has failed to bring home the issues sharply or to clarify his position on progressive legislation. Lucas has been indorsed by the Illinois State Federation of Labor.

"Morris Childs, communist party candidate for the senate, while denied a place on the ballot, is conducting a write-in campaign. Childs has come out with a challenge against the demagogery of Lyons. Childs' own platform, progressive and specific, hinges around the slogan, 'Jobs, Security, Democracy, and Peace.'"

Two Story Fall

Wahna Jane Huddleston, who fell out of second story window while blowing kisses to boy friend. She suffered fractures of one arm and one leg.

At home yesterday, Miss Wahna Jane Huddleston issued this advice, don't get romantic in an open second story window. It's dangerous. Wahna Jane, who is 18 years old, stood at a window of her home at 120 North Keeler avenue and blew kisses to her young friend, August Hoffmeyer. She blew 'em so hard she fell from the window to the hard ground two floors below. At Mt. Sinai hospital physicians told Wahna Jane that she had suffered arm and leg fractures. She is getting along fine, but she has new ideas about second story romance.

Tells of Spying for Love of Germany, Not for Reward

New York, Oct. 31.—(AP)—A statement made by Otto Hermann Voss, aviation mechanic, that he gave construction secrets of United States army and navy planes to German agents "for Germany and not for money," was read into the record today at the spy trial in Federal court.

Voss, one of three persons on trial, stood stoically erect, in German military fashion, during the reading. His counsel objected to admission of the confession on the ground that it was not voluntary.

In the statement given to federal bureau of investigation agents Voss, a naturalized American citizen, told of revealing construction secrets of planes to both Karl Eitel and Herbert Jaenichen, accused as Nazi agents who are fugitives from the indictment.

Names High Official.

The statement said he reported to Dr. Erich Pfeiffer, chief of German naval intelligence in Bremen, another absent defendant, and was thanked profusely for the good he had done his native land. Voss was employed at a Seversky Airplane factory.

"The only money I ever received was $75 which was for expenses on my trips to a hotel to report to the German agent," said the statement. "I never expected to receive any money. I told both Eitel and Jaenichen, and made it expressly clear, that I didn't want any money but was doing it for the fatherland."

Match Book Codes.

Before the statement was read Eleanor C. Boehme, a Hunter college graduate of 1936, described efforts of Karl Schlueter to make appointments with her, and related that she once received a match book with hieroglyphics inside the cover.

The government contends that Schlueter, another fugitive defendant, sent secret messages to agents here through code messages on match books.

Miss Boehme, American born of German parentage, said Schlueter, who was a steward on the liner Europa mentioned the possibility of employment in Radio City. She said Kate Moog, who testified for the government, gave her the match book. Miss Moog testified Friday that Schlueter gave her the match book to hand to Miss Boehme, and that she didn't know, until federal agents told her, that it contained a secret code.

PAY ROLL PADDING PROBE COMPLETE; IGOE TO GET DATA

Warren Canaday, assistant United States district attorney, said yesterday he will present complete evidence of the misuse of federal funds in padding pay rolls of the state highway department to his superior, Michael L. Igoe, today. He announced he has finished collecting this evidence, which consists chiefly of pay vouchers, cancelled checks, and statements from about seventy of the 450 pay rollers that they performed only political services for the Horner-Courtney-Jarecki ticket in the primaries last spring.

Roosevelt Orders Cut in Postage Rates on Books

Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—(AP)—President Roosevelt ordered the domestic postage on books reduced to one and one-half cents a pound today, asserting he hoped this would stimulate "cultural growth, education, and development of the American people." At present books come under parcel post rates which range from seven cents a pound upward, depending upon the zone. The new rate, effective Nov. 1 to June 30, 1939, is the same for all destination points.

Puts His Money, $2,850 of It, in Wrong Basket

Suffolk, Va., Oct. 31.—(AP)—R. C. Marble, elderly retired merchant, put his money in a basket and covered it with apples. In his absence, he told Sherif J. Frank Culpeper, some one entered the house and took the money—$2,850.73 in gold coin, gold certificates, currency, silver, and pennies. Sherif Culpeper asked state authorities for bloodhounds to put on trail of the thief.

The Quaker Oats company has given $20,000 to the Community fund, it was announced yesterday. The fund is seeking $3,550,000.

John Holmes, industrial division chairman, reported that eight divisions have reached the 100 per cent mark in covering their fields with pledge cards and other campaign materials. Seven divisions already have raised 60 per cent or more of their quotas, he said.

The best showing to date is from the railway supplies division with $91,020, or 75 per cent of its pledged quota. Real estate, tobacco, candy, bank, business service, and millinery were next ranking divisions.

Gov. Earle Is Denounced by Democrats.

is a matter of disputatious conjecture.

The indications are that the Republicans will carry the rural counties. The Democrats will carry Allegheny county [Pittsburgh], the remainder of the soft coal region, and two of the anthracite counties. Judge James, once a miner, probably will carry the remainder of that section. Republican pluralities are assured around Philadelphia.

C. I. O. for Governor.

While the farmers are overwhelmingly Republican, the Democrats will get the bulk of the labor vote. The C. I. O. has indorsed Earle and Jones. William Green, president of the A. F. of L., and many craft unions have indorsed Senator Davis and Judge James.

The Democratic managers are relying on the labor vote, the Democratic organization vote and the WPA vote to put their ticket across. The Democratic machine has a possible million votes from these sources alone out of a prospective poll of 3 million. Manipulation of the WPA has become notorious.

Add 10,000 to WPA Rolls.

It was announced a few days ago that Harry Hopkins had added 10,000 workers to the rolls in Pennsylvania. Thousands of temporary workers are being added to serve until election day—and vote for Earle and Jones. A correspondent driving from Allentown to Scranton found the WPA gangs on desultory road work so numerous that trafic was impeded.

Democratic leaders make no bones of summoning the WPA workers to meetings and ordering them to deliver their votes for the tickets—or else.

Senator Davis filed detailed charges of coercion of WPA. Aubrey Williams, acting Works Progress administrator, pronounced them without foundation. The Democratic Sheppard committee of the senate substantiated Davis' charges.

Many May Face Prison.

For many of the New Deal higher ups in Pennsylvania the most compelling reason for retention of control at Harrisburg is self-preservation. If the Republicans get control of the state they will rip off the lid and there will be no telling how many Democrats will face prison.

Senator Guffey said in the primary campaign last spring that the scandals of the Earle administration rival the Republican capitol building steal of 1907 that left a trail of convictions and suicides.

It was in the primary campaign that the dirt began flying. Attorney General Charles Margiotti charged that $100,000 had been paid for the legislation legalizing Sunday movies, that graft was exacted from contractors and other bidders on state requirements. Earle fired Margiotti, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, and Margiotti retaliated by inspiring a grand jury investigation of his charges.

Law Upset by Courts.

In the meantime it developed that Earle had borrowed $26,000 from Matt McCloskey, Philadelphia contractor, who got 10 million dollars' worth of state contracts. To head off the threatened investigation Earle had a law passed forbidding grand jury investigations of state officials during a session of the legislature. The Supreme court invalidated this law, but the grand jury inquiry is being held up by procedural disputes.

Earle had a Democratic legislative committee named to investigate the charges against his administration. This committee has avoided taking up the charges before the election. It has refused to call Earle and Guffey to tell how they paid their $50,000 subscriptions to stock in Stern's New York Post, the latest mystery to figure in the political picture. And Earle and Guffey have not volunteered to testify.

Vandalism

Window of Republican precinct headquarters at Chicago and Trumbull avenues after brick had been tossed through poster and glass.

DEATH CALLED ACCIDENTAL.

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday at the inquest over Robert Sorenz, 18 years old, 1531 Race street, who was fatally injured Saturday by the automobile of a companion with whom he planned to rob a truck.

Twenty Young Republican women yesterday took over a job that had frightened away union bill posters. With wire, paste and tack hammers they transformed a fleet of seven sound trucks and thirty automobiles into floats plastered with posters bearing the message: "Smash Nash-Kelly Boss Rule—Vote Republican."

They lined up the cars into seven caravans at the corner of La Salle street and Wacker drive. Each caravan was headed by a sound truck which was followed by four or five smaller cars. And shortly after 1 p. m. the roving billboards started off on a series of parades through the city and suburbs that are to continue day and night until next Tuesday.

The caravans were organized by the Republican county central committee to break a taboo arbitrarily established by local Democratic leaders. The Democrats forbade the appearance of the Republican slogan and the local bill posters union, local No. 1, refused the job of placing these posters around the county.

Otto Krueger, business agent of the union, stated his men would not place the posters because he "is afraid we might get in bad with the administration." The union had a meeting Saturday night and Krueger said afterward there would be no change in the union's policy.

Undeterred by this setback, Edward F. Moore, chairman of the Republican county committee, arranged for the automobile parades begun yesterday afternoon.

Another innovation to be placed in operation today will be the use of a corps of girls to carry the forbidden signs on sandwich signs through the loop. They will be led by Margaret and Marilyn Reck, twin sisters, 16 years old, who are sophomores at the Hirsch high school.

In addition to this, a score of men will be draped with the signs for the edification of downtown workers and shoppers.

Tomorrow the prohibited sign will be flown on a long streamer attached to the mast of a vessel engaged to cruise up and down the Chicago river.

Tonight the caravans of automobiles will be leading parades of the old torchlight days from the city's fifty wards and from thirty suburban townships, Moore said. These parades will meet and converge on the Coliseum for the party's old fashioned jamboree at 8 o'clock.

"All in all we think the Democrats and the bill posters have done us a favor," said Moore.

Yesterday morning a brick was thrown through the window of Republican precinct headquarters at Chicago and Trumbull avenues, where the "prohibited" signs had been posted.

Studebaker's the stand-out!

It's simple to shift gears in the new 1939 Studebaker. The lever is located at the steering wheel—thus keeping the flat Studebaker front floor clear of obstructions—and enabling the driver to enter or leave the car through the curb-side door.

YOU'RE seeing motor car history being made right now in the sensational sales success of this stunningly distinctive new 1939 Studebaker.

Its style, its features, its sound construction, its plainly visible value are selling it to America's most critical motorists without even a serious challenge from any other 1939 car! And no wonder. Look what Studebaker gives you:

Exterior lines and interior luxury that have won the acclaim of Europe's most famed designers! Impressive size and power with the gas, oil and maintenance economy of a small, light car! Automatic hill holder! Time-tested planar wheel suspension and its incomparable Miracle Ride! Steering wheel shift lever! Non-slam Hancock rotary door latches! The world's safest, strongest steel body reinforced by steel box-section girders! And, at small added cost, the industry's finest automatic overdrive!

A de luxe model car at a sensationally low standard-model price—that's the 1939 Studebaker! See it—drive it! Your present car will cover part, perhaps all the down payment, on easy terms.

You don't roll back after you come to a stop on an upgrade in a 1939 Studebaker. The automatic hill holder, pioneered by Studebaker, is standard on all models. You just keep the clutch pedal down, take your right foot off the brake and hold it ready for the gas.

EXCLUSIVE! REVOLUTIONARY!

STUDEBAKER'S NEW CENTRAL CLIMATIZER

The new Climatizer—a central fresh air ventilating and heating system under the front seat—takes in fresh air—filters it, heats it and distributes it evenly to front and rear seats. No cold floors—no drafts—no rain or snow! Available at small added cost.

You could ride blindfolded in a 1939 Studebaker and never be aware of a rough spot. Studebaker's planar independent suspension and finest hydraulic shock absorbers provide a ride that's a miracle of comfort and steadiness. You pay nothing extra for most of the remarkable advancements that make Studebaker the year's stand-out car.

BROOKLYN CRIME TIED TO POLITICS, DEWEY CHARGES

Assails Corruption Under Democrat Machine.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, rackets-smasher and Republican nominee for governor, tonight charged that "two out of every three murderers" in Brooklyn are walking the streets free because of the corrupt Democratic machine in power.

The young New York prosecutor placed the blame for crime conditions squarely on his opponent, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, who is seeking a fourth term. Brooklyn, most populous borough of New York City, is crime ridden because the governor has forestalled investigations into its official scandals, Dewey asserted.

Dewey's attack on the alliance between crime and politics was the sharpest of the campaign, which enters its final week tomorrow. It was delivered over a state-wide radio hookup. Dewey will carry his fight into Brooklyn later this week.

Accuses Gov. Lehman.

Dewey's appearance here tonight followed a swing through the Mohawk valley during the day in which he made back platform speeches from his special train in nineteen cities and towns. The huge crowds that greeted him along the way, coupled with straw polls showing the tide turning toward Dewey, indicate the Republicans may capture control of the state for the first time in sixteen years.

Dewey charged directly that Gov. Lehman is hamstringing the latest investigation into the office of District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan of Brooklyn. He pointed out that John Harlan Amen, whom the governor appointed as a special prosecutor recently when public outcry forced him into starting a Brooklyn inquiry, was limited in powers to "official corruption and the theft of some police records."

"No power to investigate racketeering," shouted Dewey. "No power to investigate organized crime. No power to deliver the largest county in the state from the grip of organized crime."

Recalls Druckman Case.

Dewey recalled the murder of Sam Druckman in connection with the flour racket in 1936. Geoghan failed to obtain an indictment from a grand jury for the three men found at the scene of the Druckman slaying, a Brooklyn garage, and the district attorney's office dropped the case.

Public indignation forced Lehman to appoint a special prosecutor, Hiram Todd, who sent the three killers to prison, revealed the district attorney's office as a haven for racketeers, and demanded Geoghan's removal. Lehman refused on the grounds that Geoghan was honest and there was not a shred of evidence against him. This was early in the 1936 campaign.

At that time Lehman was supplied with evidence showing Geoghan's relationship with underworld characters, Dewey declared. One of these was Leo Byk, convicted thief, slot machine racketeer, and front man for the underworld.

Cites Capone Link.

Untouched by Lehman or Geoghan, Dewey said, is Joe Adonis, who is rated as public enemy No. 1 of Brooklyn and is also a powerful Democratic politician. Dewey related that Adonis was a pal of Alphonse Capone, the Chicago gangster now in Alcatraz prison. Capone was in the Adonis "social club" one night in 1925 when three men were killed. There were no convictions.

"These men have operated with immunity in Brooklyn," said Dewey, "and the reasons lie deep in a corrupt and contented political system. Organized crime cannot exist without an alliance with politics. Scandal after scandal is only the symptom of a system which this year we must bring to an end."

Points to Records.

Dewey declared that Gov. Lehman had been supplied with evidence that grand jurors in Brooklyn were offered $100 apiece to turn murderers loose, and still the governor did nothing about it.

Dewey's tour through upstate New York today assumed the proportions of a triumphal procession. In these upstate regions the farmers, dairymen, crossroads merchants, and professional workers have clung to the G. O. P. throughout the Roosevelt landslides. Now they're saying, "I told you so!"

At Albany, state capital and camp of the enemy, a great crowd was waiting for Dewey. A roar of approval went up when he declared the outpouring showed Albany was going to free itself from the grip of the notorious Democrat machine headed by Dan O'Connell, a former convict.

Mrs. Ritchey Farrell Rasmussen.

Robert V. Rasmussen's attorney yesterday sought futilely to wring an admission from Rasmussen's young wife, the former Ritchey Farrell of Nashville, Tenn., that she wishes a divorce in order to marry another man.

Mrs. Rasmussen, 21, brunette and suave in black wool and silver fox, is suing her husband, vice president of the National Tea company, for divorce. She charges misconduct. The present hearing before Master in Chancery Louis Behan is to determine how much temporary alimony she should receive while the suit is pending. She now receives $500 a month, a spokesman said.

Thomas R. Fisher, Rasmussen's attorney, conducted a stringent cross-examination of Mrs. Rasmussen, who testified at a previous hearing that her husband told her of his misdoing last April 30, the day after their daughter, Ritchey, was born. To none of Fisher's questions implying that she was interested in another man, was wealthy in her own name, and was in reality a resident of Nashville rather than Chicago, did Mrs. Rasmussen reply. Objections to them were sustained by the master.

The defense must complete its case by tonight, Master Behan ruled.

Toledo, O., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—Arthur Coller, 18 years old, a Bowling Green university student, was killed and two other students hurt today during a dense fog when the driver of their automobile lost his bearings and plunged into a ditch four miles south of Perrysburg, O.

G. O. P. CANDIDATE FOR SHERIF RAPS OPPONENT'S PAST

Democrat Talks About Trafic Safety Plans.

Based on speeches made by the rival candidates last night, the contest for the office of sherif is one in which the stone throwing is all on one side.

Representative Thomas J. O'Brien, the Democratic nominee, spoke in Kowalski's hall, 11730 Indiana avenue. He confined his talk to his plans for extension of the public services of the sherif's office if he is elected. He dwelt particularly on public safety on the county roads.

Accuses His Opponent.

His Republican opponent, Patrick Sheridan Smith, former city clerk, spoke in Cicero at the Sokol-Jonas hall, 5510 West 25th street. He demanded that United States District Attorney Michael Igoe reinstate a 1922 indictment of Congressman O'Brien in connection with prohibition enforcement. O'Brien was an employé of the internal revenue department at that time.

"The docket in the clerk's office of the District court," said Smith, "shows the indictment number was 9,901 and that the charges against O'Brien were for taking money to have his official action influenced, the offenses relating to official duties and conspiracy.

"Since the indictment was nol prossed and there was no hearing on the merits of the case or finding on the facts, the district attorney, under the law, may at any time reindict O'Brien and bring him to trial.

"After a diligent search, the files cannot be found. They were mysteriously removed six years ago from the office of the clerk of the District court. I am wondering by whom and why."

Smith referred to O'Brien as "Pat Nash's pet candidate" and said he had been discharged as a clerk in the County court under the late John E. Owens and as a clerk in the office of the United States district attorney. Investigations, he charged, preceded both dismissals.

Calls Trafic a Problem.

"I am convinced," said O'Brien, "that one of the most serious problems in this community is that of public safety for motorists and pedestrians, and I am determined to give this matter unrelaxing attention when I have been elected sherif. I will work to reduce the horrifying slaughter which has attended the motor trafic movement in Cook county.

O'Brien said he is a candidate on his record in four terms as a member of the Illinois general assembly from the 21st district and three terms at Washington as congressman from the 6th Illinois district. He said he had been told that his majority of 106,000 when he ran for congress in 1936 was the largest recorded in the United States in that election. He said he regarded this majority and his total vote of 202,333 as a testimonial to his services for his constituents.

IGNORE 11TH HOUR CHARGES, VOTERS TOLD BY JARECKI

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, Democratic candidate for reëlection, said in a radio address last night that "this is a time of rumors and roorbacks." He made the statement in his latest discussion of charges that he permitted millions of dollars to be paid estate appraisers for little return in service. The charges were brought by Mrs. Harriet M. Robertson, president of the Women's civic council.

"Political hobgoblins and bogeyman campaign charges which no one expects to be called upon to prove are flying about for the purpose of injuring an opponent," the judge said. "It's one week before election—and Halloween.

"I am fully occupied with the discharge of my daily duties as county judge and do not intend to waste time discussing last minute law suits and campaign canards."

The reference to a suit meant a request for permission to file a suit to recover $6,000,000 from Judge Jarecki and the appraisers, filed on Saturday by Attorney John E. Northup in behalf of Mrs. Clarence Ford Smith, a member of Mrs. Robertson's organization.

U. S. JUDGE WINS PAROLE FOR SON WHO SLEW CHUM

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—Federal Judge Franklin E. Kennamer put aside his judicial rôle today to plead for leniency for his son, Phil, who is serving a twenty-five year sentence for manslaughter. Following his plea the state pardon and parole board recommended a conditional parole for six months which Gov. E. W. Marland said he probably would grant.

Young Kennamer has served two and a half years of his sentence for the slaying of his chum, John Gorrell, a dental student, in Tulsa four years ago. Dr. John F. Gorrell, father of the slain youth, protested against a parole. The slayer testified at his trial that he killed Gorrell to prevent the kidnaping of a girl he admired.

Judge Kennamer's plea for leniency was based upon the serious illness of his wife, who, he said, must be taken to Arizona to live.

BAR IS REPORTED CONSIDERING QUIZ ON COUNTY COURT

Point to Heavy Load of Cases There.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Something constructive may develop from the broiling controversy between County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki and Mrs. Harriet M. Robertson, president of the Women's Civic council, who has accused the judge of paying county funds to estate appraisers who performed little or no work.

The Chicago Bar association, it was reported yesterday, is considering making a survey of the work of the County court—entirely apart from its consideration of the charges—to determine if a part of the heavy duties might be reapportioned.

122,618 Cases in Year.

For the year 1936, the last for which an annual report of the County court is available, Judge Jarecki had a total of 122,618 cases before him. At no time did he have more than one downstate judge helping him dispose of these matters.

Lawyers yesterday appeared to be in rather general agreement that the duties of the court are more than one judge can supervise adequately. This led to the suggestion that the Bar association step in as a competent agency to examine the work and possibly recommend a rearrangement. Among the early proposals was one that assistants to the judge might be named, as in the Probate court.

Statutes Point to Growth.

As far as can be determined, no chronological history of the County court has been prepared. It is possible, however, to obtain a sketch of its growth by referring to the statutes.

The court was established by the legislature in 1849. Its original duties were set forth in the following paragraph:

"County courts shall have jurisdiction in all matters of probate, settlement of estates of deceased persons, all appointments of guardians and conservators, and settlement of their accounts; all matters relating to apprentices; proceedings for the collection of taxes and assessments; and in proceedings by executors, administrators, guardians and conservators for the sale of real estate for the purposes authorized by law, and such other jurisdiction as is or may be proceeded by law, all of which . . . shall be considered as probate matters."

Original Duties Few.

In addition, the court was given jurisdiction of criminal matters where the penalty did not exceed a fine of more than $100.

Thus, in the beginning, the County court handled only probate matters, regulated the apprenticing of young persons in the trades, supervised tax collections, and handled minor police court cases.

Control over probate matters in Cook county was taken from the court in 1877 when the legislature permitted establishment of Probate courts in counties of more than 50,000 population. Several additional duties, however, had been added prior to this separation.

Gets Election Supervision.

In 1871, supervision of county election was given the County court, and also classification of lands by drainage commissioners. The following year, jurisdiction over insolvent debtors was added, and in 1874 the court was ordered by the legislature to sit in appeals from country town justices of the peace. Child adoption supervision came in the same year.

The court's election supervision was enlarged in 1885 when the city election act was passed and control over Chicago's elections was given the county judge.

Eight years later, in 1893, the protection of insane persons and the conservation of their property was placed with the court, and in 1895, the current contentious question of the handling of inheritance tax cases was added.

In 1899 the court was charged with the control of truant children.

More Duties Added.

From that year until comparatively recently the court had a respite. Statutes show that not until 1935 were additional duties added. One of these, however, was a big job in itself—the administration of the Skarda act.

This law was aimed at delinquent real estate taxpayers and permits the county judge to place a property in receivership and name a receiver to collect its revenues until such time as the delinquent tax had been met.

Also added in 1935 was the duty to handle cases involving serious motor vehicle law violations appealed from justices of the peace.

How Cases Are Divided.

Special assessments	969
Tax objections	110,764
Lunacy	6,435
Skarda receiverships	1,477
Election fraud	67
Inheritance tax estates	1,037
Appeals from justices of the peace	843
Adoptions	1,026

The "History of Chicago," written by A. T. Andreas and published by the author in 1885, states that when the first Cook county court was established in 1845 the judge, Hugh T. Dickey, was required to hold court in Jo Daviess county as well as Cook. Galena, Gen. U. S. Grant's old home, is the county seat of Jo Daviess county.

PICK BROAD MINDED JURY IN SALLY RAND TRIAL FOR ASSAULT

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Prospective jurors in the battery trial of Sally Rand, fan and bubble dancer, professed today to be broad-minded when her attorney asked whether they objected to the scanty attire she wears on the stage. A jury of three men and nine women was selected.

Miss Rand is charged with biting and scratching Miss Hazel Drain and C. Ray Stanford, after chasing them down a theater aile into a cloakroom and attempting to take Stanford's camera.

Talesmen showed a more than passing interest in serving when it became known Sally's attorney, Milton Golden, planned to ask her to reenact in court her dance and her version of the scene in the theater last July 12 after Stanford snapped her picture.

Gets Year for Sending Obscene Matter in Mail

Ward Story, a commercial artist and deacon of the First Christian church of Waukegan, was sentenced yesterday to one year and a day in Leavenworth penitentiary on a charge of sending obscene matter through the mails and through interstate express. He pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward. Story is 46 years old, married, and lives at 604 North avenue, Waukegan.

MITCHELL ROBIN SETTLES 10,671 ESTATES IN YEAR

Probate Court Clerk Cites Record in Office.

Mitchell C. Robin reported yesterday that methods of settling estates have been revolutionized during the 12 years he has been clerk of the Probate court. The new systems he has put into effect in his office, he said, have greatly increased the speed with which estates can be settled.

Mitchell Robin.

Mr. Robin disclosed that his office has turned over $1,200,000 in profit to the county during the time he has been clerk. When he took office, he said, the county's profit averaged only $60,000 a year. On this basis the profit for the 12 years would have been $500,000 less than the county received.

Speeds Up Estate Actions.

Mr. Robin's report to Judge John F. O'Connell recalled the delays once incident to the settling of estates and the hardship these delays worked on heirs. When he assumed office, the clerk said, estates were being opened at the rate of 8,000 a year, but only 5,100 a year were being closed.

Instead of continuing to let his office fall behind in its work, Mr. Robin said, he hastened procedure so much that 10,671 estates were closed last year.

The clerk, who is a candidate for reëlection on the Democratic ticket, mentioned that his office was recently commended by the Chicago Bar association for one innovation: Having the docket clerks work at night. This makes it possible to docket all court orders the day they are signed, a great convenience to the lawyers and the public.

Stresses Value of Wills.

Mr. Robin's report was accompanied by a recommendation that the public be educated as to the need for wills and the formalities of drafting them. Those who fail to leave wills, or leave improperly drawn wills, Mr. Robin said, burden their families with trouble. Wills should in all cases be drawn by lawyers, the clerk said.

"When a man makes his will," Mr. Robin said, "he picks his own executor and saves his estate the necessity of paying for surety bond."

2 ALCATRAZ BAD MEN PLACED ON TRIAL FOR KILLING PRISON GUARD

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Two hardened criminals came off Alcatraz Island today and faced a San Francisco jury on a charge of slaying an Alcatraz guard.

The pair of youthful bad men—James G. Lucas and Rufus Franklin—sat with clasped hands in the closely guarded federal courtroom, frightened over the prospect of death in California's lethal gas chamber.

In a futile plea to Judge Harold Louderback to have a jury determine whether Lucas was insane, Defense Attorney Harold C. Faulkner said the Texas bank robber, 26 years old, is in such a condition of fear he does not understand what is happening about him and cannot present a rational defense.

Mrs. Royal M. Cline, widow of the guard who was killed with a hammer May 23, was in court. He was slain when Franklin, 24 years old, an Alabama bank robber; Lucas, and Thomas R. Limerick tried to escape. Limerick was killed.

Copr., 1937, P. Ballantine & Sons, Newark, N. J.

EXPECT a sound, ripened ale when you see the 3 rings of quality . . . Peter Ballantine originated his 3-fold test of ale in 1840. One mouthful, and he judged the PURITY of his ale. A second drink for BODY. A third for FLAVOR . . . The three moisture rings left by his glass on the table, as he made the tests, became his trademark—the mark of a great drink today, as then; Ballantine's is America's largest selling ale. Look for the 3 rings—

ROOSEVELT STIRS HIS OWN PARTY'S IRE IN WISCONSIN

Democrats Blame Him for Loss of Prestige.

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—The Democrats of Wisconsin are in revolt against the New Deal. They believe President Roosevelt's indifference is one reason for the steadily diminished influence of their party since the landslide of 1932.

Wisconsin Democrats first showed their resentment against the national administration in the September primary, when they nominated for state office three coalition candidates, two of whom are Republicans, and chose two Democrats who are and have been in open opposition to the President and his policies.

The Democrats confirmed their opposition to the party rulers in their October convention by selecting a state chairman and a candidate for governor whose legislative records showed them to be staunch conservatives who had voted against state legislation which was copied after New Deal standards in Washington.

Roosevelt Silent on Duffy.

The Democratic campaign for state office, like the one two years ago, is generally accepted as little more than a gesture.

Mr. Roosevelt, who came into Wisconsin four years ago to help defeat John M. Callahan, his party's nominee for the United States senate, has not lifted his voice this year to aid his loyal supporter, Senator F. Ryan Duffy, who is making a desperate struggle for reëlection. The President avoided Wisconsin in his recent return from Rochester, Minn., although Duffy and the state leaders urged him to say something that would lift the party out of its despondency.

Mr. Roosevelt's failure to come to Duffy's aid has given grounds to the surmise that the President is much more interested in the success of the La Follettes, who have gathered all the radicals around them in their Farmer-Labor-Progressive federation, than he is in his own party's candidates.

Points to New Deal Support.

Duffy's campaign was opened with the implied promise that the President would make a speech for him. All his speeches have been in defense of the national administration and he asks reëlection on the grounds he always was a dutiful servant of the President. On his bill boards Duffy even makes a play on the similarity of his initials with the President's He has F. D. R. under a large picture of Roosevelt and F. R. D. adjoining under his own picture.

Postmaster General James A. Farley has spoken for Duffy and Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky has made two appearances here in Duffy's behalf. That only makes the President's silence more conspicuous, the Democrats feel.

The President's lack of coöperation is generally believed to be the reason for the refusal of James W. Corcoran to accept reëlection as state chairman this year. Corcoran was industrious in the service of the party for six years but is believed to have regarded development as hopeless in view of the President's apparent preference for the La Follettes.

Situation Differs This Year.

Mr. Roosevelt received 802,000 votes in Wisconsin in 1936, compared with 380,000 for Alf M. Landon, Republican presidential nominee. Arthur W. Lueck, Democratic nominee for governor, received only 268,000. Most of the 573,000 who voted for Philip F. La Follette for governor obviously cast their presidential ballots for Mr. Roosevelt. The belief prevails that the President has given the weight of his influence to favor the two La Follettes in appreciation of their staying out of the national picture and their support in his own elections.

The situation is different this year. Gov. La Follette, in announcing the formation of his national Progressive party, criticized the New Deal in numerous speeches. The new party's nominee for the senate, Herman L. Ekern, is in no sense a dummy candidate and is making a real fight for election. If he were not in the field or if a weaker Progressive candidate were offered, most of the Progressive votes would go to Duffy.

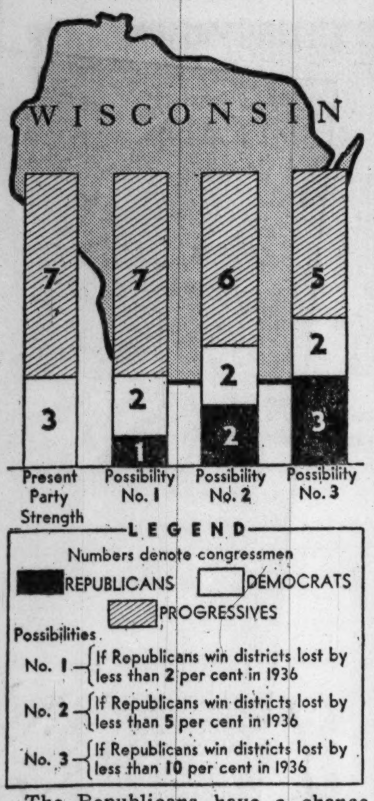
Democratic Strategy Fails.

The Democratic leaders have magnified Gov. La Follette's attacks on the New Deal as much as possible in the hope of provoking the President to reply to them. Thus far their strategy has been unsuccessful.

If the Democratic resentment against the La Follettes is as real as it has been outspoken it should operate to the advantage of the Republican nominee for the senate, Alexander Wiley, and to Julius P. Heil, G. O. P. candidate for governor. If Democratic votes on election day, Nov. 8, are consistent with the vote on primary day, it will give the Republicans the best chance for victory they have had since before 1932.

Wisconsin Possibilities

(Story in adjoining column.)



The Republicans have a chance to make gains in the Wisconsin congressional delegation this fall if they win in districts which they lost by small percentages in 1936.

LANDON WARNS VOTERS TO HALT FASCIST TREND

Bartlesville, Okla., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Alf M. Landon, 1936 Republican presidential nominee, said tonight the country must decide in its next two elections "whether we are going to be a democracy or a Fascist state."

"We cannot vest too much power in a few individuals as we have now and remain a representative democracy," said Landon in an address at a campaign rally. "We cannot transfer this power to government and last long as a democracy."

The former Kansas governor assailed the administration's failure to remedy the country's economic ills even though it "has had the most complete control over congress and the forty-eight states of any party in our history."

He called election of Republican congressmen and governors "an important step in leading the way back to economic improvement."

"A strong Republican opposition in congress means that congress will retain its prerogatives of writing legislation," said Landon, urging Oklahomans to support Harry O. Glasser, Republican nominee for the senate, and A. M. Armstrong, Republican nominee for congress, as men who would work for the "tried principles of government that are vital to solid recovery."

"The greatest weakness in the fiscal policies of the administration lies in its failure to bring home to the American people the cost of their federal government," Landon said. "As long as a great majority of our voters think federal expenditures are not costing them anything the effect on public opinion is disastrous to an economical and efficient government."

He asserted the government now is spending $2 for every $1 of income and "the discouraging thing to business is there seems to be no stopping place."

2° BELOW AT HUDSON BAY, AND COLD WAVE'S HEADED FOR CHICAGO

It's 2 below zero up in the Hudson Bay country. Chicagoans may not even care, but they will, later this week, because the cold wave is coming south. Forecaster J. R. Lloyd expects a marked drop in temperatures by Thursday night. He predicts the weather will be cloudy and warmer today, however.

October went on its way yesterday leaving several high marks in the books of the government weather bureau. Compared with past Octobers it was second in amount of sun, fifth in warmth, and sixth in dryness.

Chicago received 79 per cent of possible sunshine during the month. The mean temperature was 58.9 degrees; normal is 54.3. There was only .77 of an inch of rainfall. This is 1.69 inches below par.

AXMEN BEWITCH 12 BETTING DENS ON HALLOWEEN

Test Case Against Book Starts Before Jury.

Halloween was just another day for State's Attorney Courtney's ax raiders yesterday. They smashed 12 places, bringing the total number of demolished bet dens to 565 since the campaign started.

During the day a test gambling case was started before a jury in Municipal Judge Gibson E. Gorman's court. Armando Dalfino, the alleged operator of a handbook at 4437 Madison street, is the defendant. He was arrested by city police, armed with "foolproof" warants, on Sept. 10.

Bets with Marked Bill.

Sergt. Thomas F. Lee of the gambling squad testified that one of his detectives made a bet in the place several days before the raid. A warant was obtained and the detective returned and made another bet with a marked $1 bill. Sergt. Lee and his squad then entered and seized the operator and the marked bill.

Attorney George Crane, representing the defendant, attempted to introduce evidence that telegraph companies accept money to be sent to race tracks to be bet in the mutuel machines. Witnesses testified to this in the absence of the jury, but the testimony was ordered stricken.

Attorney Crane said his defense will be that the money may have been taken to be wired to the track. The jury will deliberate on their verdict today.

Raid City and County Dens.

The places raided by ax squads were at 25 West Adams street, 128 West Lake street, 854 North State street, 159 East Chicago avenue, 3168 and 3316 Broadway, 711 East 75th street, and 744 West 79th street, in the city. Four others smashed in the county were at 1317 South 1st avenue and 3 North 1st avenue, Maywood; 613 South 5th avenue, La Grange, and a place near Lawndale avenue and Joliet road in Summit.

Forty defendants seized by the police gambling squads over the weekend were discharged by Judge Francis Borrelli in the South State street court.

Belgium Scoffs at German Covetousness of Congo

BRUSSELS, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Belgium answered today with a flat "no" to suggestions that she might contribute in a general redistribution of colonial territory to meet Germany's demands. Albert de Vleeschouwer, minister of colonies, declared "we did not steal" the Belgian Congo and "nobody will steal it from us . . . the Belgian Congo will remain Belgian."

Graph of Heartbeat in Execution

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Dr. Stephen H. Besley points to cardigraph, the first ever made of a man's heart as bullets pierced it. The steady line shows the heartbeat as John Deering awaited the firing squad; the first flutter marks the impact of the bullets; the wild fluctuations are the death struggle; the end is death.

JAPS CLOSE TRAP ON CHINESE ARMY FLEEING HANKOW

Ring Foes in Narrow Lanes for Capture.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 1 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Japanese forces north of the Yangtze river were reported today rapidly closing a ring, 200 miles in circumference, in which they expected to trap thousands of Chinese troops.

An estimated 300,000 Chinese soldiers were in retreat from the tri-city area of Hankow, Hanyang, and Wuchang, which fell a week ago to the invaders. Japanese columns were manuvering to squeeze them into narrow areas where they could be captured or annihilated.

Move Up Han River.

The Japanese, after the occupation of Hanyang, pushed rapidly up the Han river and were reported to have occupied Hanchwan, sixty miles by river to the west.

[Canton advices reported the Japanese were driving north and west of that southern metropolis. Wuchow, inland port 90 miles west of Canton, was being evacuated under pressure of Japanese warplane bombardments. To the north Japanese captured Kwangmoon, 80 miles from Canton.]

Discuss Merger of Régimes.

In Nanking officials of the Japanese inspired and dominated Nanking reform and Peking provisional governments gathered for their second joint conference to discuss specific measures by which the two régimes would be amalgamated into a Japanese-sponsored central government to replace Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's. The Japanese were reported planning to establish provincial governments in Canton and Hankow.

Semi-official Chinese sources in Peking asserted Lieut. Gen. Kenji Doihara, Japan's "Lawrence of Manchuria," was in Tientsin awaiting Tokio's approval of a federated Chinese government headed by Wu Pei-fu, retired Chinese warlord.

It was reported in Peking at the same time that the United States consulate in Tsinan, Shantung province, would be reopened soon. It has been closed since Aug. 27, 1937.

Brush with U. S. Sailors.

HANKOW, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Tightening of Japanese military restrictions in Hankow resulted in incidents today which led to protests from United States and British authorities, but amicable settlements were reached. The United States protest was made after a uniformed United States naval messenger was searched by Japanese sentries while acting as courier between the American consulate and the gunboat Luzon. A similar incident involving British sailors brought a British protest.

Discuss "Open Door" Policy.

TOKIO, Oct. 31.—(AP)—United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew conferred today with Renzo Sawada, vice minister for foreign affairs, concerning Washington's demands that Japan maintain the "open door" for American business in China. Two or three cases mentioned in the United States' note of Oct. 6 on the open door question were discussed.

SLAYER'S HEART TRIPLES BEAT AS HE FACES DEATH

Salt Lake City, Utah, Oct. 31.—[Special.]—The heart of John W. Deering, holdup murderer, beat three times faster than normal just before he was put to death today by a firing squad in the state prison here. The unprecedented recording was termed valuable to heart disease specialists as it showed clearly the effect of fear.

An electro-cardiograph film, recorded with the condemned man's permission, showed that Deering's heart beat jumped from normal 72 to 180, although he appeared outwardly calm. It maintained that rate for the several minutes required to complete preliminaries for the execution.

When the doomed man was asked for a last statement his heart beat fluttered wildly, then calmed after he spoke until bullets ended his life. The heart beat stopped 15.6 seconds after the bullets struck, but he was not pronounced dead until two and a half minutes after the five shots rang out. Utah is the only state in the union now using a firing squad.

DEATH OF BOY, 12, CALLED SUICIDE.

A coroner's jury determined yesterday that Nicholas Bouras Jr., 12 years old, was temporarily insane and under great mental strain when he committed suicide last Friday. The boy shot himself while returning to his home at 831 East 89th place after running away.

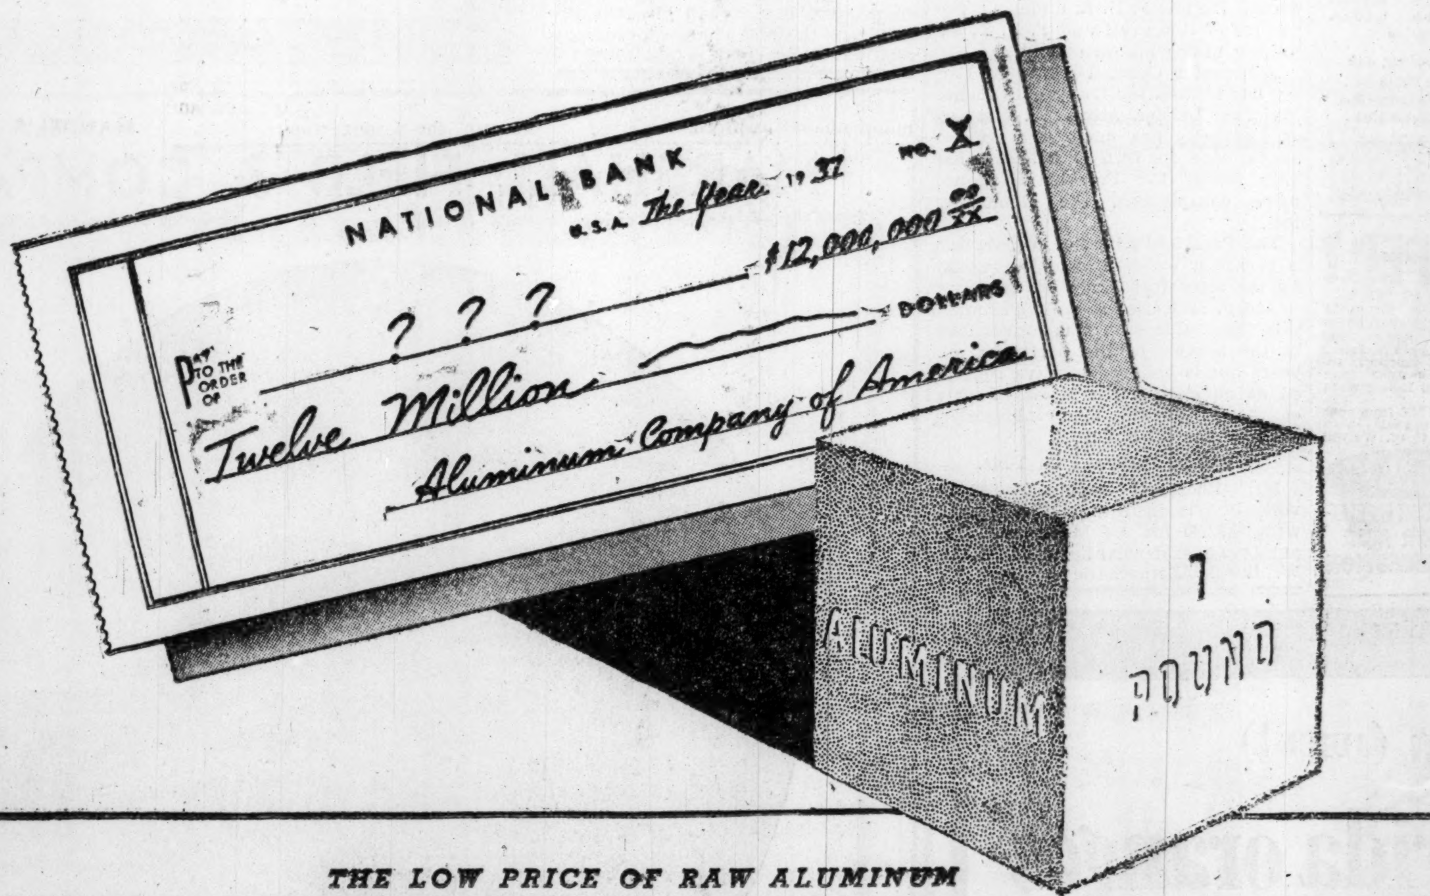
WHO GOT THE $12,000,000?



THE LOW PRICE OF RAW ALUMINUM MEANS REAL SAVINGS TO THE CONSUMER

● Last year several hundred different kinds of manufacturers, from toymakers to train builders, made articles of aluminum.

They bought more than half the metal they needed from concerns which make a business of reclaiming and selling "used" aluminum, and from other suppliers.

The aluminum and its alloys which we supplied in many convenient forms cost them $12,000,000 less than the same amount of metal would have cost them in 1929, and $21,000,000 less than in 1926.

How were these large savings accomplished?

The aluminum was extracted from the same kind of ore as in 1929 and in 1926.

The same basic processes were employed.

On an average, the workers in our plants received about 30% more for making a pound of aluminum in 1937 than they did in 1929.

The clear saving of many millions of dollars was the direct result of scientific research, organized to seek every possible efficiency and economy in production. Much money was spent in improving plants and equipment so that every pound of aluminum could benefit by these discoveries.

The hope of selling more aluminum was a guiding motive for all this effort and investment.

But who got the $12,000,000 of savings? It went to the users of aluminum—to the manufacturers who make things and to you who buy them.

TRACE EVANSTON WIFE'S DEATH WALK AT INQUEST

Woman's Dance on Street Deepens Mystery.

A midnight solo dance on an Evanston street corner preceded the mysterious death Sunday morning of Mrs. Marion L. Nichols, 30 years old, mother of a girl 2 years old. It caused a lone spectator to mistake her for a Halloween reveler and pass on.

The dance was described to the Evanston police and representatives of the coroner's office yesterday by Axel Pearson, 1234 Florence avenue, Evanston, a bus driver, as they sought without success for clews to the manner in which she suffered her fatal injuries. Mrs. Nichols, clad in knitted pajamas and silk stockings, was found unconscious on Asbury avenue near Lee street in the suburb. Her skull was fractured and there were abrasions on her right shoulder and on both elbows. Her police dog, growling, was on guard.

Continue Inquest to Nov. 15.

After preliminary testimony, an inquest was continued to Nov. 15 to permit investigation. There was no evidence at hand to indicate that Mrs. Nichols had been struck by a hit and run automobile driver.

From the testimony of her husband, Richard, a research engineer, and other witnesses it was possible to trace Mrs. Nichols' route after she set out for a walk from the Nichols home at 1235 Wesley avenue.

Wearing a swagger coat and a pair of wine colored slippers, she walked a block east in Wilder street to Asbury avenue, losing a slipper en route. Then she hurried north to Dempster street. It was there, on the southwest corner, that the bus driver, walking home from work, saw her dancing.

Pearson said she was some distance away when he saw the figure of a woman spinning and pirouetting under the street lights. She waved her coat and kicked her one slipper high in the air. As Pearson approached she retrieved the slipper and danced swiftly across the street after flinging her coat aside.

Stocking Feet Worn Through.

Mrs. Nichols then went north in Asbury almost to Greenwood avenue, the next street. One of her slippers was found about 60 feet south of the intersection. Then apparently she reversed her course and walked or ran south in her stocking feet along Asbury to the point where she was found lying unconscious on the pavement. The feet of her stockings were worn through; the pajamas were torn.

Police last night had established that only 15 minutes elapsed from the time Mrs. Nichols left home until she was found in the street and taken to St. Francis hospital, where she died.

John Poulson, 707 Ingleside place, Evanston, a milk man, found the swagger coat at Asbury avenue and Dempster street, scene of the dance. The other slipper was found in a back yard across the alley from the Nichols home.

Mr. Nichols testified that his wife had behaved strangely all day Saturday. In the early evening she attempted to leave the house by crawling through a bathroom window; later she fell down the cellar stairs. In the fall her head was injured.

It Might Have Caused Death.

Detective Robert Labbe, in charge of the Evanston police investigation, was considering the possibility that Mrs. Nichols' skull had been fractured in that fall, and that the vigor of her dance had brought on the collapse. There was also the possibility she had been attacked by an unidentified assailant. It was even possible, said Detective Labbe, that she had fallen over the dog and struck the back of her head on the pavement.

Continuing his testimony, Nichols said he had finally allowed his wife to leave the house, thinking fresh air would relieve her condition.

Screaming Fit Recalled.

The family attorney, T. R. Johnston of Kankakee told police that nine years ago Mrs. Nichols had caused an uproar in the lobby of a Boston hotel with unaccountable screaming. Her maternal grandmother, he said, had been committed to an asylum.

Mrs. Nichols' father, Prof. William H. Timbie of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, testified she was in good mental and physical health when she visited him last summer. Nichols' father also was present, but did not testify. He is George Nichols of New York, editor of Printers' Ink, trade periodical.

The Richard Nichols had been married four years. Nichols returned home late yesterday after making a statement to Assistant State's Attorney William Rotchford.

From testimony of the young woman's husband and other witnesses at the inquest, Mrs. Marion Nichols' route was traced from the Nichols' home at 1235 Wesley avenue, Evanston, on the night of her death.

ISSUE WARRANT FOR HUSBAND OF GIRL OF 10 YEARS

He Flees, but Mother and Bride Are Seized.

Prestonburg, Ky., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Rosie Columbus Tackett, bride at the age of 10 years, and her mother were jailed here today on warants growing out of the girl's week-old marriage to a mountain country coal miner, 34 years old.

But the husband, Fleming Tackett, was still being hunted by Floyd county sherif's deputies on a warant charging rape.

Deputy Sherif Tom James said the girl was taken into custody with her mother at their former home on Barnett's Creek in adjacent Johnson county.

The warants were issued here by County Judge Edwin P. Hill. In addition to the one charging the girl's husband with rape, another charged the mother, Mrs. Grace Columbus, with conspiring with Tackett in the crime of rape. The third warant charged Rosie with being a delinquent child growing up in idleness and crime.

Husband Disappears.

Mrs. Columbus told officers she didn't know where "Flem" was. Rosie shook her head at questioners.

"Flem brought us here last night, then put on a coat and his cap and left," Mrs. Columbus said.

"I'm not married, I'm not marrred," Rosie called out. "My old man run off and left me."

The bride's mother, on the automobile trip back to Prestonburg, told officers that Rose had been so "took" with Tackett that she attempted to kill herself shortly before Mrs. Columbus came to the courthouse here and took out a marriage license for the couple.

Rather Wed Than Dead.

"I was against her marrying Flem, but I'd rather have her married than dead," said the mother.

Commenting on the marriage, Judge Hill previously had said:

"An example should be set in this case. It should be an example for all the people living in the mountains." The legal age for a girl to wed in Kentucky is 14. Mrs. Columbus, in obtaining the marriage license, gave Rosie's age as 15.

Tackett previously had been married. His former wife now is the wife of his brother Archie. They live in "Flem's" cabin along with the child bride, "Flem," her mother, two small brothers of Rosie, and Backy, Rose's sick sister.

Rosie, almost 4 feet 8 inches tall and weighing 70 pounds, was in the first grade when she married the miner.

Mrs. Columbus said "Rosie and Flem had been sneakin' around and courtin' for a long time.

COURT DOUBTS CHICAGO GIRL, 12, IS LEGALLY WED

Doubt was cast yesterday by Judge Frank H. Bicek of Juvenile court on the secret marriage of Jennie Renelli, 12 years old and an expectant mother, to Frank Rota, 24, last August in Valparaiso, Ind.

Rota, an unemployed boarder in the home of Jennie's parents at 1220 Harrison street, was in court on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. The case was continued to Nov. 10 to give Assistant State's Attorney Stanley Gross a chance to study the Indiana marriage law. The couple were married by a justice of peace, but Judge Bicek pointed out that the marriage certificate had not been certified by a county official.

Robert Romano, attorney for Rota, indicated that he will contend on precedent that a girl is no longer a minor when married.

Brewing Company's Fine on Smoke Law Vacated

The Manhattan Brewing company, 3901 Emerald avenue, will not be required to pay the $200 fine which was imposed last June for violation of the city smoke ordinance. Municipal Judge Erwin J. Hasten yesterday vacated the fine when Frank J. Chambers, head of the department of smoke inspection and abatement, said that the company has changed its boilers to comply with the ordinance and no longer creates a nuisance.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

LEST WE FORGET

By CALEB

NOW THAT the janitor winds of Autumn have swept our parks and boulevards of their screening foliage, there comes to many of us a new awareness of things we have often looked at, but never seen. For the loveliness of trees and shrubbery is a concealing loveliness. With its removal arrives a greater appreciation of the man-art planted here and there midst the art of Nature.

Sometimes, however, it takes the eye of the stranger to note these disclosures most clearly. Such a one, perhaps, as the English visitor whose remarks recently came to us after he had motored through Chicago's famous park system—and paused to appreciate as well as appraise.

"I wonder"—ran one of his interesting comments—"how many of you Chicagoans really stop to study and evaluate the numerous statues that adorn this great city of yours? My own impression is, not many. You take them for granted—just as do our own residents in the neighborhood of Westminster Abbey. Perhaps it's their 'scatteredness' that defeats their appeal. Collected in one huge area, you might find these memorials in bronze and stone as distinctive and delighting as my first impressions have found them.

"Your 'Fountain of Time' in Washington Park, for example, has given me a full hour of the keenest imaginable enjoyment. One cannot whirl past it at the steering wheel and even begin to identify its values. In that lyrical parade of figures, Lorado Taft has immortalized the whole drama of humanity. Monks, peasants, warriors, toilers, statesmen, kings, babes in arms, and knights in armor, singing youth and sighing age, fiery-eyed success and stumbling failure—all are in that single majestic arc of sculptured stone . . . yet the hour I spent beside them was a solitary one."

He went on to speak of other remembered admirations: the splendid bronze of Shakespeare; the classic bust of Beethoven; the imposing Linnæus group; the fanciful Hans Christian Andersen; the naive Eugene Field; the towering Schiller; the gallant Ulysses Grant; the gigantic Goethe—all pedestaled in or near Lincoln Park. The La Salle and Garibaldi along Clark street; the debonair Burns and stalwart "Rail-splitter" in Garfield Park; the dashing Sheridan on his charging ride to Winchester; the heroic size Indian horsemen that front Grant Park; and the commanding St. Gaudens' Lincoln—these, too, he exclaimed, would be among his lasting memories when more commercial Chicago landmarks were forgotten.

Somehow, his conversation lingered in our minds. Perhaps in that kindly criticism lay a definite justice. At any rate, lest we forget too long, and remember too seldom, let us take a good second look, now that the winds of Autumn bring us a new sense of things we have often glanced at—but only too casually seen.

NAZIS AND POLES FIX FATE TODAY OF 9,000 JEWS

"Exiles" Are Huddled on German Side of Border.

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Some 9,000 Polish Jews huddled together in temporary quarters tonight on the German side of the Polish frontier. They anxiously were awaiting results of negotiations in Warsaw tomorrow between the two nations.

They hoped their lot might be more favorable than that of an estimated 13,000 Poles, mostly Jews, who were dumped across the border into Poland up to last Saturday midnight.

It appeared that these 13,000 would not be permitted to return to Germany. Once having been conveyed across the frontier they were regarded as "checked out" and reëntry would amount to the illegal return of undesirable, deported aliens.

Victims Are Mostly Men.

Unless Poland has powerful arguments to advance for those already returned to their homeland it seemed likely the diplomatic conversations would involve those who were quartered on the border but had not yet been taken across when a truce was called in the movement. The estimated 9,000 awaiting determination of their fate on the border were mostly men.

Germany has been represented as fearing thousands of Poles living in the reich were about to lose their citizenship under a Polish regulation requiring the renewal of all Polish passports held abroad by last Saturday midnight.

Become Public Charges.

Finding shelter and food and later homes and jobs for those already returned to their homeland caused the Polish government and private relief organizations considerable concern.

Having neither friends nor money, these repatriated Poles became public charges.

Dispatches from Warsaw said one outstanding difficulty was attributed to the fact many had been away from Poland so long that they no longer have relatives or friends able to look after them. Those returned from Germany were said to have been permitted to take only ten marks [about $4] apiece wtih them.

Swings Ax at Policeman; Fatally Shot by Another

Robert Taylor, 40 years old, colored, was shot and fatally wounded by Policeman Cyril Dixon yesterday when he swung an ax at Dixon's partner, Policeman John Boyle. They were called to Taylor's home at 3646 Federal street when Taylor drove his family to the street and began chopping up the furniture. Taylor died in the Bridewell hospital.

BRITISH USE FIELD GUNS; ROUT ARAB REBELS AT JAFFA

2,000 Troops Assault City at Dawn.

JAFFA, Palestine, Oct. 31.—(AP)—British troops today seized control of Jaffa, ancient Mediterranean port of 50,000 population, and cleared it of Arab rebels who had made it a headquarters in their fight against British rule. Artillery was used in the action.

Dawn had just begun to illuminate the rocky reefs of the city, the largest purely Arab town in Palestine, when 2,000 picked British troops from Sarafand and Jerusalem made a surprise raid, swooping down on the sleeping populace from all sides.

The raid was part of a relentless drive which the British army is making against rebel strongholds to pave the way for orderly introduction of governmental reforms.

In entering the city, the British employed artillery for the first time during the present revolt. The populace scattered in all directions with the first intimation of the troops' arrival.

While the army with the aid of police made a systematic search of the crowded city, additional British units cordoned the town into five districts and imposed a 24 hour curfew. Other units surrounded Jaffa to prevent rebels from escaping.

After day long searches military authorities detained seventy suspected Arabs at the race course.

Order Three Day Strike.

JERUSALEM, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Arab rebel leaders today ordered a three day general strike, beginning tomorrow, in an attempt to frustrate a British military order requiring all male residents over 16 years of age to obtain permits for travel. Rebel leaders already had warned the Arab population against taking out permits on pain of death.

British authorities have insisted the government had no alternative but to arrest all who were not provided with the passes which permit travel between urban areas. If rebel strike orders are carried out a serious predicament threatened. Trafic would be disrupted throughout the country, forcing all travelers to employ Jewish or British chauffeurs. This in turn would expose every one riding Jewish or British conveyances to attack from the rebels.

Jewish national institutions today called out all Jews on a "solidarity strike," lasting until nightfall, when special canvassers collected money for funds to be used in Jewish defense.

NIGHT COUGHING CAN OFTEN BE PREVENTED

If your child often coughs at night because of even a slight cold—do this at bedtime: Thoroughly massage Vicks VapoRub on throat, chest, and back. VapoRub's poultice-vapor action tends to keep the air-passages clear, helping to maintain normal breathing through the nose, and so reducing mouth-breathing (the frequent cause of night coughs). Try it tonight—learn for yourself another reason why VapoRub is a family standby in more homes than all other medications of its kind put together.

NAZI ARMY CHIEF QUITS IN MYSTERY PURGE BY HITLER

Two Generals Replaced in New Shakeup.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—Adolf Hitler tonight relieved Gen. Ludwig Beck of his duties as chief of the army general staf and appointed Gen. Franz von Halder of the artillery in his place.

Gen. Ludwig Beck.

An official announcement said Hitler, after accepting Beck's resignation, had promoted him to the rank of colonel general with the right to wear the uniform of the 5th artillery regiment.

Col. Gen. Gerd von Rundstedt, commander of one of the armies which marched into Sudetenland after that territory's acquisition from Czechoslovakia by Germany, also presented his resignation. It was accepted. Hitler named Col. Gen. Fedor von Bock as Von Rundstedt's successor as army group commander.

Mystery Shrouds Shakeup.

The official announcement of the shakeup did not disclose any reasons for it. Certain quarters expressed the belief Beck was forced to resign because he had disagreed with Hitler's policy toward Austria and Czechoslovakia.

Beck's successor, Gen. von Halder, was reported to have been acting as chief of staf since September when the German-Czechoslovak crisis threatened to plunge Europe into war.

Mystery also shrouded the reason for Col. Gen. Rundstedt's resignation.

That Gen. Beck was having trouble with the Nazi régime was disclosed in a dispatch from the Berlin bureau of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on Sept. 4.

Threatened to Quit in Crisis.

At that time it was reported that the general, who was considered one of the ablest officers in the army, had threatened to resign on learning that Hitler's government was considering warlike measures against Czechoslovakia.

It was said the general and his aids feared Hitler's moves would complicate the international situation. Beck and his staf maintained that despite her tremendous rearmament, Germany was not in a position to fight a war on two fronts—in the east and the west.

Two weeks later it was reported that Beck had been appointed chief of a "special mission in the west"—far away from Czechoslovakia. It was said the appointment was made to conceal from the public the fact that he had fallen into the bad graces of Hitler.

Recall Purge in February.

The resignations of Beck and Von Rundstedt and their speedy acceptance was the first important change in the army command since Hitler conducted his "purge" of army leaders on Feb. 4. At that time he ousted Col. Gen. Werner von Fritsch as chief of staf and Field Marshal Werner von Blomberg as minister of war.

Von Blomberg was dismissed after his marriage to Erika Gruhn, a carpenter's daughter. The army considered she was too humble a person to become the wife of a general.

News of today's resignations was accompanied by announcement of promotion in the air force. Among those to receive promotions were Gen. Erhard Milch, who was advanced to colonel general; Hans Joergen Stumpf, chief of the air force general staf, from lieutenant general to general, and Ernst Udet, from major general to lieutenant general. Udet, a world war ace and noted speed and stunt pilot, has participated in the national air races at Cleveland.

guns greater effectiveness. However, neither the planned force of 400 guns nor the 600 suggested by Lieut. Gen. N. N. Golovine, author of "Air Strategy," sounds impressive when it is remembered newspaper correspondents said the Germans had 1,500 planes assembled for their first raid on London.

British sources estimated it took between 5,000 and 6,000 shells to account for an airplane during the world war. Assuming efficiency increased a hundredfold, it would still take fifty to sixty shots for each of those planes.

In the army dangerous shortages of weapons exist. Though the Bren light machine gun was adopted three years ago last summer, a military writer recently said, "Supplies of this excellent weapon have come through so slowly that they are still a rarity."

Anti-tank rifles are even more scarce, though those that do exist are claimed to be the best of their kind. During military maneuvers this year, troops with ordinary rifles had to be detailed to represent anti-tank riflemen.

One of the flaws revealed in naval mobilization was that many reservists had to travel the length of England to report and then travel back again for duty. Efforts are being made to establish naval depots in northern England where reservists can report directly to increase speed and efficiency.

Britons repeatedly have been assured the huge rearmament program had already put them in a safe position. Charges of inefficiency in the air ministry and other departments were denied by cabinet members before parliament.

If anybody had details to prove such inefficiency, he was barred by the official secrets act from publishing them.

The public believed all was ready if the worst came. Recent disclosures jarred that belief and there is a growing public demand for thorough investigation and rapid remedy.

REBELS SHOWER BOMBS ON EAST COAST OF SPAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PERPIGNAN, France [At the Spanish Frontier], Oct. 31.—Spanish rebel bombing planes today blasted towns of loyalist Spain's Mediterranean coast while Generalissimo Francisco Franco's land forces continued in the second day a powerful new offensive on the Ebro river front.

More than seventy persons were killed and 200 wounded in the raids yesterday and today on towns from Alicante to Sagunto, a distance of 250 miles. A train was bombed at Almagesi station, twenty miles south of Valencia. Seventeen persons were killed outright and several others died in hospitals. About eighty persons were wounded.

The Ebro river drive was carried forward so rapidly that the rebels declared their forces now threatened Mora de Ebro, the loyalists' chief base west of the Ebro.

for good health but be examined by your doctor or this responsible clinic and make sure that you have neither syphilis nor gonorrhea!

HAVE YOU a puzzling and persistent ailment—one you can't seem to identify but that keeps you feeling run down and generally miserable? If so, it is entirely possible that an unsuspected venereal infection is the cause of your disturbing condition!

Syphilis, in particular, can be contracted from a drinking cup, towel or other innocent source, and exist for years without its victim's knowledge. Often it is not discovered until much damage of an extremely serious nature has been done.

This being true, isn't it better to know the facts than to continue groping blindly in the dark? Perhaps no venereal disease will be found, but if it is it should be put under treatment just as quickly as possible if destructive complications are to be avoided.

Untreated syphilis, for instance, may cause paresis (softening of the brain) or some other form of insanity; locomotor ataxia or some other form of paralysis; apoplexy; blindness; deafness, or diseases of the heart and arteries. Untreated gonorrhea may lead to sterility; stricture; painful arthritis; a sight-destroying eye infection, or disorders of the prostate, bladder or kidneys. In addition, untreated venereal infections in parents may result in stillborn, blinded, deformed or feeble-minded babies!

Obtain an examination!

In view of these possible dangers, why not make up your mind to have a physical examination that will include rigid tests for both syphilis and gonorrhea? Such an examination can be obtained from your family doctor, or you can get it at the Public Health Institute.

The Public Health Institute has been protecting Chicagoans from the ravages of venereal infections ever since 1920. Because its friendly, sympathetic physicians devote their entire efforts to such diseases, the Institute is qualified to render a specialized medical service of undisputed dependability!

In its downtown clinic the Public Health Institute devotes six entire floors to its battle against venereal infections. It maintains its own laboratory to insure the accuracy of its tests, and dental, eye and X-ray departments are available to such of its patients as require those services. To date the Institute has given more than 5,000,000 examinations and treatments for syphilis and gonorrhea!

No one is turned away

Organized by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois, the Public Health Institute puts specialized medical attention within the reach of those with limited incomes. A thorough physical examination for syphilis and gonorrhea, including blood tests, urinalysis and gonorrheal smears, costs only $3.00, while some treatments for syphilis cost only $1.00 and some of those for gonorrhea still less.

Thus there is no necessity for any man or woman to go on month after month feeling half sick and half well. For not only can a searching examination be obtained inexpensively, but even those temporarily short of funds will not be turned away!

ULSTER GUARDS FREEDOM WITH DICTATOR RULE

Premier Is Endowed with Drastic Powers.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Oct. 31.—Northern Ireland has a smooth running dictatorship. This is shown by talks which THE TRIBUNE correspondent has had this week with Prime Minister Viscount Craigavon and a number of his colleagues.

These men have no intention of letting the dictatorship weaken. They maintain that their drastic laws are necessary to prevent outbursts of terrorism between warring factions.

And while they keep their powers there will be no merger with Ireland unless the British force them into it. That, apparently, is what Ireland hopes for—that the British will think it worth while to swap Ulster for Ireland's good will.

Craigavon Does Dictating.

Meanwhile, though it is possible for Britain to dictate from the outside to Viscount Craigavon, he is the person who does the dictating in Ulster. Since Northern Ireland became a separate political unit nearly 18 years ago he has been prime minister. What he says goes.

Without presuming to say whether it is desirable or not, it is an obvious dictatorship. Viscount Craigavon's Unionist party holds 39 of the 52 seats in the Ulster house of commons. Of the 13 members making up the so-called opposition, six never attend. They are Nationalists—in favor of a united Ireland—and they boycott Craigavon's parliament on the grounds that it is a farce.

Two other Nationalists attend chiefly to heckle the government party with embarrassing questions. Of the five remaining members of the opposition, one is Independent, two are Independent Unionists, and two are Socialists.

Follow Parliamentary Forms.

Parliamentary forms are carefully followed in the sessions of the house, but to the onlooker it is obvious that they are no more than forms. Any effort to oppose Craigavon is futile. The opposition seems to serve chiefly as a source of tolerant amusement for the members on the government side.

Sometimes an oppositionist is goaded into unparliamentary shouting by his inability to make headway against the scornful superiority opposite him. In that case he is suspended. Thomas Henderson, Independent Unionist, was suspended last Wednesday for a week. There have been times when police were called into the chamber to remove turbulent members of the opposition.

The majority is so one sided, so single minded and so sure of having its way that the passing of a bill is merely putting a rubber stamp upon what the government already has decided. One politician of Craigavon's own party admits it is a "damned dictatorship."

Protestants Back Craigavon.

This dictatorship can exist because the old feud between Orangemen [Protestants] and Roman Catholics keeps the Protestants together behind Craigavon. A member of parliament said that the determining factor when the present boundary between North and South Ireland was drafted in 1921 was to avoid getting so many Catholics into Ulster that they might some day have a parliamentary majority.

If all of Ulster had been included [Ireland still has three Ulster counties of Donegal, Cavan, and Monaghan] there would have been twelve or thirteen more Nationalist members of parliament and they might some day get the whip hand.

As it is now, the same bitter religious enmity that has caused all of Ulster's internal troubles also serves as grease to make the government machine run smoothly.

The Catholic-Nationalist group is not large enough to outvote its opponents. Those opponents will not turn on Craigavon because they know that as long as he runs the government they will not become a Protestant minority in a Catholic country.

The feud between the Protestants, originally of Scottish and English stock, and the Catholics, of Irish stock, is the key to the government's power and to most other situations in Ulster.

To keep their opponents in hand, a series of drastic "special powers acts," for which they prefer the less sinister name of "civil authorities acts," gives the Protestants all the power of a Fascist government.

Under these laws the government last Thursday banned the erection of a monument to Irish republicans killed in fighting the British. It was to have been put in Newry, which is the center of Nationalist sentiment in Ulster.

Censorship in Force.

Censorship is included in these laws. No censor sees a newspaper's copy before it is printed, but editors are punished if they publish anything the authorities dislike.

Among the features of the special powers acts is the death penalty for the throwing of bombs, but for the death penalty jury trials are necessary. Other penalties, including flogging, can be imposed by "summary procedure" without a jury.

The crowning touch is the provision that "any act of such nature as to be calculated to be prejudicial to the preservation of peace or maintenance of order in Northern Ireland" is an offense even if it is not covered by any other provision.

But it is not necessary even to bring any of those charges. Prisoners can be held for "investigation" as long as it suits the authorities to hold them.

Cahir Healy, a nationalist member of the Ulster parliament and at that time a member of the British parliament, was held for two years on a prison ship with a large number of other nationalists. He was released after two years only because fellow members of the British parliament stirred up authorities in London.

Merely the withholding of information or refusal to answer police questions also are offenses.

To back up all that there is, first, the Royal Ulster constabulary with 2,867 men. Second, there are the "B special"—the civilian special constables. There are officially 11,514 of those, but opponents have put the estimate three times that high. All are equipped with firearms. All are Orangemen picked for political reliability. Finally, there are nearly 3,000 British troops in Ulster.

WOODFORD COUNTY FARMER IS WINNER OF HUSKING CROWN

Modesto, Ill., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—With a crowd of more than 50,000 persons looking on, Irvin Bauman of Woodford county today won the fiftieth annual Illinois corn husking contest. It was the second time in three years he had won the state title.

Irvin Bauman.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Bauman, who lives near El Paso, Ill., husked 32.759 bushels of corn in eighty minutes. He won the state championship in 1935 with a record of 36.52 bushels. In winning his county contest this year Bauman husked 41.28 bushels.

The runner-up was Ecus Vaughan of Piatt county with 31.174 bushels. In third place was William Rose of Henry county, state champion in 1937. He husked 31 bushels. Bauman and Vaughan will represent Illinois in the national contest next Thursday near Sioux City, S. D.

Clarence Endress of Marshall-Putnam county took fourth place with 30.8 bushels. Donley Martin of La Salle county was fifth with 29.322 bushels. There were twelve contestants.

The battle of the corn rows started shortly after noon on the C. W. Moffet farm one mile north of this small central Illinois village.

WASHING MACHINES DO GYRATIONS FOR PATENT SUIT JUDGE

St. Louis, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Today was washday in the 8th district U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

A dozen washing machines, exhibits in a patent case, swished merrily while attorneys for the General Electric Supply company of Kansas City and the Maytag company of Newton, Ia., argued over the "gyrator" principle of clothes washing.

The appeal was from a decision by Federal Judge Merrill E. Otis of Kansas City, who ordered the General Electric subsidiary to cease using the principle. The Maytag company claims its patents cover the method. General Electric claimed the patents were void.

The court took the case under advisement.

2 SAY SHANAHAN'S MIND WAS CLEAR BEFORE WEDDING

Brig. Gen. Burnett M. Chipperfield of Canton testified yesterday that David E. Shanahan seemed fully competent and aware of what was going on three weeks before his deathbed marriage. Chipperfield, a former member of the legislature, was called by attorneys for Shanahan's widow, Mrs. Helen Troesch Shanahan. Two cousins of Shanahan are seeking to prove the marriage invalid before Judge George W. Bristow of Paris in Circuit court.

Miss Agnes O'Mara of 6401 University avenue, a nurse, was another of Mrs. Shanahan's witnesses. Miss O'Mara testified that she talked with Shanahan in his room in the Mercy hospital three days before the marriage.

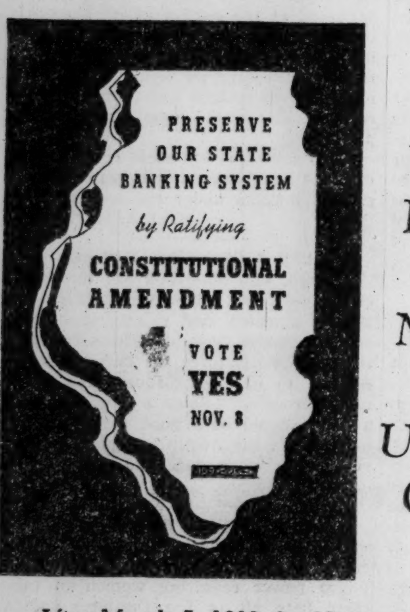
FIRST ESSENTIAL DURING A BANK CRISIS



Illinois Legislature Powerless to Act Until Next General Election Under Present Constitution

After March 5, 1933 the National Congress was able to act speedily. In a few days adjustments were made and banks reopened with the confidence of the public.

The Illinois State Legislature was in session at the time. But its hands were tied by the State Constitution written away back in 1870, which prohibits the revision in any detail of our State Banking Act without approval of the voters at the next general election—not due for almost two years. Our Legislature could do nothing—in time. Hundreds of good State Banks were destroyed, leaving many communities without a bank and causing staggering losses to stockholders, depositors and other bank patrons.

Most of these communities must continue to get along without a bank unless the proposed CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT IS RATIFIED November 8th, giving our Legislature power to bring our banking laws up-to-date and in line with the new banking laws of the Nation and other States.

Help prevent a repetition of 1933 and help make it possible for outlying business centers in Chicago and other community centers throughout our State to have banking service by voting "YES."

NEW DEAL HUMANITY.

"For humanity in government—vote Democratic." That is the billing of the New Deal for the congressional elections next week.

Mr. Roosevelt's administration has been very humane to the Roosevelts and the political in-laws, the next of kin, and persons with whispering privileges and keys to the side door. The human attributes of the administration which asks that its humanity be endorsed again can be summed up in the phrase "Jimmie's got it."

The White House family has taken very good care of itself in many sidelines made profitable by position in the American totalitarian government, Jimmie in insurance, Elliott in airplanes and radio, and all of them in the publishing business. The by-products of public office have brought fat contracts and rich marriages. An autograph in a book worth $2.50, if worth anything, brings $250, even from corporations which are prohibited by federal law from making forced contributions of such a character.

The national debt is up 17 billion, unemployment has increased, destitution has grown more distressing, taxation has been punitive, and anxiety walks beside most of the people of the country. The occupants of the White House during this time have had no worries which have been revealed in word or act. The family has been carefree and extraordinarily prosperous. Worry stops at the government and family door.

The administration has been humane and kind to many other people. Its humanity has extended to Mr. Hines in New York, saving him from the unpleasantness of having a jury pass upon his connection with the criminals protected by the New Deal Tammany wing. Its humanity has been extended to Mayor Hague of Jersey City and to Gov. Quinn of Rhode Island. It was so kind to Senator Barkley of Kentucky that he could account for the expenditure of $300 for every vote he received in getting the Democratic nomination.

Humanity has dropped the mantle of its charity and its benevolence as well upon the frightened shoulders of Gov. Earle and Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania, two of the borrowing boys who get their money from gentlemen who in turn get legislative favors and government contracts. The New Deal has been a powerfully good thing for the demi-reps, confidence men, fake reformers, and swindlers who have rolled their open barrels out under the shower of gold.

Mr. Roosevelt says his name has been misused in Pennsylvania—meaning by the Republicans who said he did not care to get his hands into the dirty mess. They misunderstood Mr. Roosevelt. He puts his hand in it to pat the soiled Mr. Earle. If he pats this gentleman too hard he'll knock another promissory note out of his pocket.

The humanity of the New Deal has the country gasping for breath. It rescues Mr. Hines. It sends the convicted racketeer, Dan O'Connell of Albany, to plead with Gov. Lehman to run against Thomas Dewey, who was taking the crooks from under the New Deal Tammany wing and sending them to prison. It brings the Fascist Hague of New Jersey and the Communist Browder of New York to the same food trough and has John Lewis fill it. It uses the department of justice to aid Harry Bridges escape deportation and to threaten the prosecution of Pennsylvanians who think Earle and Guffey ought to tell it to the jury.

The humanity of the New Deal has lined the WPA workers up and picked their pockets. The Chavez in-laws in New Mexico form one of forty-eight state exhibits. It deals with corruptionists, criminals, and communists. It has perfected a mobilization for the political use of public money and destitution such as the country never saw before and may hope never to see again.

BLESS THE KELLY-NASH MACHINE.

Gov. Horner and his fellow Democratic candidates have concluded that the best defense of their political sincerity and integrity will be silence. If there were a better one they no doubt would be glad to adopt it. None better has appeared as yet and in the short time remaining before the election it is unlikely that any will.

In April Gov. Horner and his factional associates told the people of Illinois that the greatest problem confronting them was the smashing of the Kelly-Nash political machine. They spoke of nothing else. The bosses must be run out that the people might be free and their political life flow undisturbed toward the greater perfectibility promised by the New Deal. The governor and his friends were so agitated on this subject that they persuaded many thousands of Republicans to vote illegally in the Democratic primaries. They also made it possible for these Republicans to do so.

Now the Kelly-Nash machine is an organization favored by Horner and his associates. The Horner Democrats and the Kelly-Nash Democrats are all good men. Sympathy can be extended Mr. Horner. To win in April it was necessary to say that the Kelly-Nash machine was anti-social, opposed to good works, and given to malpractice. In order to win in November it is necessary to make a complete turn-about, welcome the help of the machine, and accept it as a power for good.

Mr. Horner hopes that this will be understood without explanation. The bosses have prevented the Republicans from reproducing the slogans of the April Democratic primaries and will not permit posters to go up. By controling Mr. Otto Krueger of the Bill Posters' union they can exercise this censorship.

The voters whose recollection extends back to the springtime of wild Democratic flowers may appraise Mr. Horner's political sincerity and integrity for just what it is worth.

THE RAILROAD WAGE DECISION.

At the end of last March the average price of securities sank to the lowest point reached in five years. The immediately disturbing factor was not a war, a decline in industrial production, or fresh demonstrations of a hostile attitude toward business by the government. What was frightening security holders was that the world was about to witness the greatest bankruptcy of all times. It seemed then inevitable that one of the country's biggest railroads, a billion dollar concern, was going to the wall. Such a failure would no doubt have been followed by the collapse of four other companies which were skating on thin ice. The consequences would have been awful to contemplate.

The catastrophe was averted, at least for the time being. But the financial condition of the railroads which had caused the decline in prices has not been relieved. Railroads have not been, and despite a slight increase in business, are not now, selling an adequate amount of transportation service to make both ends meet. Their revenues from the business which they are carrying are not enough to pay their employés and the costs of coal, of maintaining equipment and right of way, taxes, and other unavoidable expenses.

In their desperate plight the railways announced a wage reduction to go into effect on Dec. 1. Perhaps this may have been a strategic move which they had to take to force action in another direction. But whether it was a gesture or not, the emergency commission was on solid ground in vetoing the wage act, as it did on Saturday.

The reduction of wages of railroad workers should be only a last resort. A much better plan is to let the railroads earn enough to pay these wages by taking the interstate commerce commission off their necks. This government organization prescribes the price at which the railroads may sell their services, and the price scale is so inflexible as to prevent the lines from competing for business with other forms of transportation.

With the termination of the wage controversy, the railroad brotherhoods can now join with their employers in a determined effort to abolish the interstate commerce commission or modify its activities so railroads may bid for business exactly as is done in other commercial enterprise.

HISTORIC ILLINOIS.

It has been estimated that the tourist business in Louisiana brought $44,000,000 to the state last year. The Kansas City Times is moved by amiable envy to remark that this suggests the dollars and cents side of old landmarks and historic spots and notes that though Kansas has had a movement on foot to mark the historic spots in that state, little has been done about it. Other states will doubtless take note of it. In the east the movement is far along. There are few places in New England that are not only marked but brought to the attention of the itinerant in every way. Virginia and Maryland, thanks chiefly to the patriotic zeal of their daughters, are not behind. In Illinois we have shown some midwest enterprise, but there is more to be done. The Lincoln country is marked but Illinois history is not confined to the Lincoln tradition, as TRIBUNE readers who studied the historical map published by this paper a few weeks ago will have realized. The east with its longer and richer history has an easy advantage over midwestern states, yet Illinois has two centuries of history beginning with Marquette and passing through many colorful experiences.

The dollars and cents aspect in the age of what the French call tourisme is not to be scorned, but it is not the most important or the most gratifying. Illinoisians are proud of their commonwealth and every generation should be encouraged to know and honor its history and the men and women who made it. We hope our historians and patriotic societies and citizens will emulate the eastern communities in preserving and marking places which deserve memory.

ILLUSTRATING CHILDREN'S BOOKS.

[Hartford Courant.]

Alice, it will be recalled, began her trip to Wonderland because she was bored, and she was bored because the books her sister was reading had no illustrations. And ever since wise publishers have remembered Alice's boredom when they prepare books for children. For all of Lewis Carroll's genius, one fears that even Alice herself would be forgotten today were it not for Tenniel's illustrations. Peter Rabbit would doubtless still be drinking camomile tea in the house under the fir tree if Beatrix Potter had not provided the charming water colors that illustrate his misfortunes in Mr. McGregor's cabbage patch. Even the current hero of juvenilia, Ferdinand, the bull that loved to smell the flowers under the cork tree, might be just another animal were it not for the pictures by Robert Lawson; the hopes for Wee Gillis, Ferdinand's successor [his real name was Alastair Roderic Craigellachie Dalhousie Gowan Donnybristle MacMac, but that took too long to say, so everybody just called him Wee Gillis] are likewise based in no small part on Mr. Lawson's illustrations.

The Tenniel, Potter and Lawson illustrations are roughly a generation apart, but experiment indicates that the caterpillar smoking a hookah, Peter trembling in Mr. MacGregor's toolshed and Wee Gillis stalking the stag are equally satisfactory to the modern child. Different as are the styles and subjects of the illustrators, there is some common denominator that appeals to the fancy of childhood. Precisely what it is may be difficult for the adult eye to see. All three of the artists are superb draftsmen, but accuracy of line alone in a drawing makes no appeal to a child. An adult finds a fantastic quality in all three, but reality itself must be so fantastic to a youngster that a mock turtle, a rabbit wearing a blue jacket and a bull that likes to smell flowers may not seem at all out of the way.

A grown-up can only speculate about the workings of a child's mind and imagination. Why they like certain illustrations and heartily detest others is beyond us, and when they grow old enough to tell us with any accuracy they no longer are the children in whose imaginations we sought to enter. There is something in a child's mind that no adult can grasp. Perhaps it is just as well for both.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office.

NOW IT CAN BE TOLD.

Oyez! Oyez! The nation's curiosity about the meaning and origin of the words "tisket" and "tasket" is about to be satisfied. We submitted this problem to the Line's scholars recently after advancing a few fallacious theories of our own, and E. A. M., one of the column's best researchers, a gentleman and scholar who knows his way around a library, has contributed a satisfactory explanation. Cabaret patrons and radio listeners for whom these words have become an obsession should give three rousing cheers.

When related to the children's game in which "tisket" and "tasket" have been sung for centuries, the words are not nonsensical. They have a definite meaning. "Tasket" comes from the Old Northern French "tasque," a tax. It means "a little task"; that is to say, a forfeit, which is a part of the game's ceremonial. [Other French words have passed into English in a similar form; for example, "hatchet," from "hache," and "pocket" from "poche."]

"Tisket" is a reduplication of "tasket" with a change of vowel sound, a common occurrence for which "tittle tattle" will serve as an illustration. It also has a feminine suggestion; when the forfeit in the game goes to a girl it is a "tisket;" when it goes to a boy it is a "tasket."

The Oxford dictionary, in its large or concise form, is the source of the clews that brought E. A. M. to this discovery. See under "task."

LITTLE GIRL'S LITTLE DOG.

One time I had a little dog
To whom I gave much care.
I couldn't turn around or take
A step, but he was there.

And when I stepped upon his paw
My hair rose three feet high,
And I would try to comfort him
While he would howl and cry.

If ever I did wrong or when
My head was hanging low,
My little dog did not sit up
And say "I told you so."

He'd push his little snout right up
And lick my face and neck.
O, he was just a little dog,
And not much use, but heck . . .

I sure do wish I had him now.
I have his bone and biscuit.
Or . . . I could get another dog.
I wonder . . . should I risk it?

Colorado Pete's Double.

Bunn the Baker of Baraboo isn't the only old Line contributor who has a double or a pretender. Colorado Pete, who is dead, is also in the same fix. This column has received several letters stating that he still lives, but it is obviously a case of Doppelgänger. The latest communication on the subject, signed "Constant Reader," says:

"Good old Colorado Pete didn't die in either Texas or Minneapolis. He is the head of an insurance organization now a stone's throw from the Tribune Tower. [H. G. Shimp.]"

A WRITER'S PETITION.

O lead me, gentle Christ,
On simple paths
Where flower the true expressions
Of my being.
My only aim
The steady, deep desire for useful meaning,
For unselfish gain of wisdom
And for beauty!
Help me, Lord, to grow in grace,
Inspire my mind to rich increase
Of purpose;
All my errors, may it please Thee,
Vindicate.
I dedicate my woman's sober thought
To labor's need, to honest work
And sacrifice
That I may mould my Phrase Ideal,
And in return for gift of life
Give back a gift of mine
Beyond all price.
O guide me, gentle Christ,
Never to part
With seeking, holding, prizing Thy perfection
In my heart.

Heresy Toward Elms.

Evanston has entirely too many elms for a successful Indian summer. Instead of turning to bright combinations of yellow and red, the old maidish elms change to a sickly brown. The poor Evanstonians don't know what they are missing this time of year.

Orgetorix.

[The Linemaster will supplement this aspersion of the classic elm, with which he agrees, by observing that all of Chicago's trees are weak in autumnal coloring every year. They do a few tricks in yellow, but red displays are beyond their reach. City air seems to cramp Jack Frost's artistic style.]

Nowadays everything in the modern home is operated by switches except the children.

Serega.

Cruising this Urbs in Horto in search of the red autumn leaves that the poets and nature stylists write about, we have found the classic color this year only in a few shrubs, species unknown, and a small patch of poison ivy.

THE MENTAL MENU OF THE TWO YEAR OLD.

MORE questions come to this department relative to the training of the 2 year old than are concerned with any other period of childhood. By this time the tot has grown out of his immediate surroundings and is anxious to venture on exploring expeditions. He can get about without assistance and do much for himself. This means that some one must be within call who can answer questions and direct his energies. A newborn curiosity must be satisfied and things must be explained. If there is a garden, it is an ideal spot in which to permit him to begin his investigations. In after years he may recall the patch of yellow flowers close to the back fence that made such an impression.

Of course, diet is important, but few mothers will go wrong because at this age tastes are rarely finicky. Furthermore, the youngster is taking more interest in his food—what it is, where it comes from, and how it grows. Perhaps it is not too early to start a few simple courses in dietetics. The heart needs this, the muscles require some of that, and the blood, too, must be fed. If muscles are soft, a food game may be played and after a bit the child will link his edibles with the hunger of his organs.

But of even more importance is a well balanced mental menu. The brain is developing rapidly and it is vital that personality traits which are now crystallizing shall be cast into those which are desirable. We must recall that the child is beginning to think for himself, to want to do, and the time is at hand for the formation of proper habits. Can he go into the next room? Yes, of course, but there may be certain parts of the house where he should not be alone. In like manner he should not go outside the gate nor across the street. Not that the bogy man will get him nor that he will be injured if he does, but that it just isn't attempted unless mother or father is along. After a time the urge will be submerged automatically.

The reason so many boys and girls dash into the street is twofold: [1] there is no other place to play and [2] they lack ideas of space.

It is none too early, however, to teach the lessons of safety. Some maneuver which brings with it pain or a narrow escape with the element of surprise will rarely be sufficient. "Once burned, twice shy" does not seem to hold good for many of these tiny people. This is where an older child can help so much and admonitions from a playmate seem to have more force than those from either parent. Of course, there will be bumps and falls with a minimum of damage. There is no occasion, however, for broken bones and severe scalds if supervision is reasonably keen.

If he wants to be let alone, well and good, provided he is in no danger, but if he insists upon a jaunt to the corner, some one must go along. If it is inconvenient for mother or some companion to make the journey, the promise of "another time" will satisfy him, but it must be fulfilled. Junior can be reminded at the start of the trip, "Now I can go with you."

One mistake that I am sure is made frequently is in obliging the youngster to remain at one form of play quite too long. At this time his ideas are naturally flighty and we must wait another year or two before we may expect much concentration. A dozen different toys may be desired in as many minutes. Interest will gradually center upon some one, and it is not unusual to find a child absorbed in a single gadget for half an hour or more. Those that "go" have a greater fascination.

Anything out of the ordinary makes a vivid impression and, for the sake of emotional stability in adult life, every fearsome experience should be avoided whenever possible. Children are quick to sense panic on the part of those who are about them, and great control should be exercised by the mother in meeting an emergency calmly. We cannot overemphasize the mental damage which may be inflicted by incidents which are frightening to children. In fact, behavior patterns in later years may date back to such episodes.

Instinctively the lad will run to mother whenever his own resources have been exhausted. We see this over and over again, for doesn't mother symbolize comfort, protection, and peace?

OVERLOOKING NAVY DAY.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—At Great Lakes Navy day Thursday newspaper photographers cluttered up the grounds taking "pictures" which thousands of us who know what the navy means to this country would have enjoyed so much this morning seeing on the back page.

Instead on page 7 of your paper we find a clipping, "City Celebrates Navy Day, etc."

On the last page among interesting pictures we notice one of "the mansion of the governor general at Canberra, Australia, to be occupied by the duke and duchess of Kent, etc., etc."—a picture which could have been printed in any edition, since its importance to us Americans rates zero.

And where are the pictures from Great Lakes, Ill.? In your waste basket with other noteworthy things, which will include this letter shortly.

In past years I have watched THE TRIBUNE grow and use its columns for advertisments from time to time as well as our association for business purposes. We many times have felt your policy of narrowness and lack of courtesy in many instances were due to politics. As various items of public interest come along you swing first one way, then contradict yourself in another way. Why don't you try printing things of interest to the American people instead of the constant English influence you attempt to exert by playing up to their activities and ignoring our American form of interest in things-American?

C. M. HOWARD.

WHAT CAN HIS PHRASE BE?

New York, Oct. 27.—For years many residents of the "Middle West" have thought this designation a misnomer; an unfortunate appellation.

In truth, it is unworthy of this important area of the greatest country in the world, which should have a name in keeping with its locale and destiny; one that would be complete in itself and lend itself easily and happily to world-wide fame and use. Thus it would not be an appendage—as middle-west of what?

Why doesn't THE TRIBUNE offer a substantial prize for the winner of a contest to find an adequate and beautiful name?

I should like to enter such a contest and believe I already have the winning name.

EDMUND MEYWALD.

DOESN'T LIKE OUR POLICIES.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—I've been reading THE TRIBUNE 25 years daily and will continue to the end. But don't get it into your head that because of that I like your policies. They leave me indifferent.

Orr's cartoon, the "Air Raid," is the bunk. I don't give a damn what kind of régimes countries want to have so they leave others alone.

Japan, Italy, and Hitlerland are.

FINDS FIREMAN A GOOD COMPANION.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—In reply to "A Fireman's Wife": I, too, am a fireman's wife, and wish to thank Mayor Kelly sincerely for that day off each fireman gets once in two weeks. At the present time all firemen work 84 hours a week, which is a lot more time than other city employés. I don't think they get too much time off. In fact, I'd like to see them get a day a week off instead of every two weeks. They certainly deserve it, putting in so much of their time to preserve life and property any time of the day or night when duty calls them.

The time my husband has off he spends in fixing things up around the house or taking his family for an outing. All of his time is spent in a worthwhile manner, and I am sure if "A Fireman's Wife" was a good companion to her husband she would be glad to have him home to help her on the day he is off. I am speaking the sentiments of several of my firemen wives' friends.

ANOTHER FIREMAN'S WIFE.

THESE CHANGED TIMES.

Barrington, Ill., Oct. 27.—I am a business man and farmer and will continue, thanks to the parents who endowed me with stamina, to take all of the New Deal's raw deals practiced by Roosevelt.

Times have changed since I was a boy. The smallest school child is now looking forward to social security. These youthful minds are not able to grasp the fact that there is no such an animal; only taxes, taxes, and more taxes. It is beyond my understanding how even the most gullible sucker can swallow Roosevelt's line of bull.

Our fine workmen are becoming parasites on account of the trade agreement with foreign countries. It is ridiculous to suppose that we can or wish to compete with eight cents for a twelve hour day of foreign labor. How can the farmer vote for a party that killed our pigs and purchased our pork from Poland, plowed under our cotton and bought from Egypt, imported cattle, corn, and other farm products?

GOOD DOCTORS AND TREATMENT.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—In the last four months I have been a constant reader of THE TRIBUNE. For years before it was impossible for me to read a paper with comfort. It was Cook County hospital and its staf of fine doctors that were responsible for my good fortune. I have spent four months in ward 56, had two operations and the best care and treatment without one cent of cost. I could not have been in better hands if I could have afforded a private hospital. Now happy and in the best of health.

BACKING FOR BANK AMENDMENT.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—We are glad to tell all interested persons that the fund being used to finance the campaign of education concerning the proposed constitutional amendment has been contributed principally by stockholders in our state banks throughout Illinois. There are several thousand of these and the individual contributions have been small. The total fund amounts to much less than two cents for each voter in Illinois, and all of it is being spent for publicity.

No poll workers are being hired and no money is being spent to improperly influence the result. Surely there is nothing wrong in disseminating information about a public measure so important as a proposed constitutional amendment.

It is the judgment of those actively supporting this amendment that our banking laws should be completely revised and brought into harmony with the banking laws of the nation and the other states of the Union.

FLOYD E. THOMPSON,
Chairman, Constitutional Amendment Committee.

THE CITY'S GROWING PAINS.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Speaking of transportation matters, would not the coördination of our many suburban services be a boon to our city. The business district is completely belted with right of ways and tracks in North Water, Canal, and 16th streets and Grant park. If provision were made for the use of these tracks by all suburban trains, or some other arrangement were made whereby loop bound passengers could be delivered at the station most convenient to them and crosstown passengers might be able to make the trip with a minimum of difficulty we would have a real rapid transit system and Chicago would recover somewhat from its growing pains.

As to subways, will some engineer discuss the feasibility of subterranean travelling sidewalks under the loop streets?

EARL A. HAYFORD.

RATS A GROWING MENACE.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—Rats are increasing at a rapid rate. Our city fathers are becoming alarmed, and rightly so. There are two simple ways of at least reducing the menace. Enforce the city ordinance relative to garbage disposal and bring back our cats. "Shoot a dog and raise a cat" should be a good motto for the present. In the Austin community a cat is a rarity while dogs and rats are becoming a menace.

R. W. O.

A LAW; NOT A CUSTOM.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—It is not an "old custom." There is a city ordinance with police power requiring women to take their hats off in the theater. Passed about thirty years ago.

MUSSOLINI OPENS 'MOST POWERFUL' RADIO CENTER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 31.—Italy's new imperial radio center, which Premier Mussolini, in an inaugural address, called "the most powerful in the world," was opened today at Prato-Smeraldo [emerald meadow], five miles outside of Rome.

Fascists hailed the powerful directional short wave center as a remarkable feat of radio engineering, capable of broadcasting "Fascist thought" to the Italian empire and to the farthest corners of the earth.

In opening the new station, Mussolini sent greetings to all Italians in the colonies and foreign lands who "are proud of being Italians." Other speakers said the station would "echo faithfully the pulsing life of the new Italy of Mussolini."

Four Transmitters Operating.

The new station has four transmitters in operation. Two are of 100 kilowatts each and two of 50 kilowatts. These are located in the station's main building.

The 100 kilowatt transmitters operate on directional short wave intervals of 25 to 50 meters, and those of 50 kilowatts employ intervals of 15 to 25 meters.

Two additional transmitters of 50 kilowatts each are planned for the near future. They will be located in a smaller building 800 feet from the main structure. One of these will be the multiple wave length type, functionable on any wave length with intervals of 14 to 60 meters. It will serve for experimentation in sounding new wave lengths, transmitting directions and time scheduled without interfering with regular programs.

Have Directional Antennae.

A vast antennae network spreads over the center's grounds. Included are directional, bi-directional and omnidirectional antennae capable of radiating beams to any part of the world. Fourteen steel towers support the network. Six of them tower 350 feet, the others are 280 feet high.

Each antenna can be used to broadcast in two opposite directions, making it possible to obtain 22 separate beams of directional radiation with only five separate wave lengths.

Special multiple antennae, with bi-directional radiation, shaped like the figure "8," make it possible to broadcast simultaneously to northern Europe, the Miditerranean basin, Lybia and other African centers.

BOOKIE HOLDUP GANGSTER GETS 20 YEAR TERM

George Brown, an ex-convict, was sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge Robert Jerome Dunne in Criminal court. He was charged with robbing the cashier of an Oak Park elevated lines station of $315 after he and a companion, Charles Lane, had stolen an automobile belonging to Dr. Russell Boothe, 6452 South Honore street.

Brown and Lane, according to police, were members of a gang which preyed on handbooks. James Gilfoy, the leader, was shot and killed Sept. 22 in an attempted holdup at 3633 South Halsted street. John Bonzala, the proprietor, and Mrs. Lucille Budassi, a passerby, also were slain. Brown was not with the gang on this robbery, but Lane is being held for murder in connection with it. Brown was in Joliet penitentiary from 1931 to February, 1938, for larceny.

RUTH ETTING'S EX-MATE IS SUED OVER SHOOTING

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Myrl Alderman today sued Martin [Colonel Moe] Snyder for $225,000 as a result of the shooting in the presence of Ruth Etting two weeks ago.

Snyder is in jail, charged with attempted murder. Alderman charged in his complaint that he was shot by Snyder, Miss Etting's former husband, "maliciously and without cause."

Alderman will be summoned to a deposition hearing next Saturday by S. S. Hahn, attorney for Mrs. Alma Alderman in her $150,000 love piracy suit against Miss Etting, who said under oath she and Alderman were not married. Hahn said Mrs. Alderman has letters written by Miss Etting to Alderman.

DICTATORS TO CUT UP REMNANTS OF CZECHOSLOVAKIA

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering arrived in Vienna today on the eve of a conference in which Germany and Italy will arbitrate the territorial despute between Hungary and Czechoslovakia. Europe's two authoritarian states will fix the frontier between Hungary and what is left of Czechoslovakia in negotiations opening Wednesday in Vienna's Belvedere palace.

In recent discussions between Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop of Germany and Premier Mussolini of Italy in Rome, the Italian viewpoint won. The Italians favored greater concessions to Hungary than the Germans were willing to compel Czechoslovakia to make.

Czechs to Keep Bratislava.

Well informed sources in Berlin said that Germany and Italy have agreed that the important city of Bratislava shall remain in Czechoslovakia, but that Kaschau will become Hungarian. The Germans and Italians do not expect that a plebiscite "will be necessary" in disputed areas of Czechoslovakia.

"It is important that a new order be created in southeast Europe that promises to last eternally," the Hamburger Fremdenblatt said. "Germany will see to it that her friend Hungary obtains satisfaction for its national claims within the rights of ethnographical [racial] self-determination without further delay."

The Frankfurter Zeitung said Germany and Italy will see to it that a solution is found which "Prague can accept with honor."

May Revise Trianon Treaty.

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Germany and Italy are striving for a new order in southeastern Europe based on racial nationalism. The two totalitarian states in arbitrating the territorial dispute between Czechoslovakia and Hungary this week may revise the Trianon treaty in an effort to satisfy the entire Danubian area.

The German foreign office mouthpiece, Deutsche Politisch-Diplomatische Korrespondenz, said that "injustices" done to Hungary by the Trianon treaty in 1920 would play "an essential rôle" in negotiations at Vienna Wednesday.

What was "stolen" from the Magyars by this treaty, the organ said, must be returned to Hungary.

The treaty, negotiated between the victorious allies and Hungary after the world war, stripped Hungary of about 70 per cent of her territory, reducing her from a country of about 109,000 square miles to one of about 35,000 square miles.

Czechoslovakia acquired only about 24,300 square miles from Hungary, whereas Rumania obtained about 38,600 square miles, Jugo-Slavia about 8,100 square miles, and Austria about 1,900 square miles.

Charges Poles Stir Terror.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The Czechoslovak general staf today accused Poland of provoking disorders in Ruthenia, easternmost section of the dwindling republic, by sending organized bands of terrorists across the northern frontiers.

Military headquarters asserted that Polish army officers were directing the activities of the bands. Previously Prague officials had charged that large bands of Hungarian terrorists had been sent across Ruthenia's southern border to create a situation favorable to foreign intervention and possibly annexation of Ruthenia by Hungary. That would give Poland and Hungary a common frontier.

EXPECT CHICAGO INDICTMENTS IN U. S. MILK QUIZ

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—Officials here expect a federal grand jury in Chicago to return approximately 100 indictments this week charging monopolistic practices in the milk business. Those named, it is believed, will include officers of milk distributing and marketing companies, labor leaders and, possibly, public officials.

The grand jury report, which under the law must be made by Nov. 5, will mark the end of the first phase of the most thorough investigation of the milk industry ever made by the government. The jurors went into session in July and have heard 250 witnesses. They have subpenaed tons of records from milk concerns and labor unions and have taken more than a million words of testimony.

25 Lawyers Study Reports.

The government started investigators working on the case sixteen months ago. They piled up a huge mass of information which has been studied by twenty-five lawyers of the department of justice.

In charge of presenting the evidence are Thurman Arnold, head of the attorney general's anti-trust division, and Leo J. Tierney, special assistant attorney general. Chicago's district attorney, Michael L. Igoe, also had a share in the investigation.

Arnold, Igoe, and Attorney General Homer S. Cummings conferred last week on final arrangements for the indictments. It is expected they will meet again tomorrow.

Favor Free Competition.

It is the government's contention that alleged violations of the anti-trust laws have caused too great a spread of costs between the farm producer and the consumer. It is argued that free competition [or possibly federal control] would give farmers a larger share.

Among large companies whose affairs are under investigation are the Borden and Bowman companies. The Pure Milk association, the Associated Milk Dealers, and other trade organizations have been looked into. The affairs of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union also were considered. Allied branches of the milk business, including the ice cream, cheese, and butter industries, were brought into the scope of the inquiry.

One of the voluntary witnesses was Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of Chicago's board of health.

Foresee Political Effect.

It is regarded here as likely that bringing out the charges a few days before election will have a political effect. One hope, apparently, is that farmers will be convinced that Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace has their interests at heart. Another hope is that the consumers will give the administration credit for an attempt to cut the costs of milk distribution.

Sensational disclosures, if any are made, might also ease Wallace's path in his attempt to dominate the country's milk markets. Already he has taken control, after a farmers' referendum, of producers' prices in ten milk sheds. New York is one of the cities affected.

Wallace tried the scheme once in Chicago and failed. His AAA set both farm and consumer prices in the summer of 1933, but independent milk dealers fought his program and he gave it up early in 1934. A year later he tried with a farm price only, but than plan collapsed.

URGES INDUSTRY AND AGRICULTURE TO CO-OPERATE

Cut farm production costs, narrow the gap between consumer and farmer, and pull together. This was the advice Dr. Joseph C. Blair, new dean of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois, gave business men and agriculturists here yesterday. He spoke at the luncheon of the Agricultural club in the Great Northern hotel.

Dr. J. C. Blair.

Dr. Blair said the only successful way to unite the interests of agriculture and industry is by education. Then he added:

Dr. Blair believes one of the country's foremost tasks is to teach farmers how to reduce costs of production and thus raise their net income.

SETTLE TRANSIT MUDDLE NOV. 14, U.S. JUDGE WARNS

Wilkerson Calls on City for Franchise Promise.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson said yesterday he would expect all parties to the traction problem to be ready to go ahead on Nov. 14 on a final settlement of the muddle. Unless reorganization of the elevated and surface lines companies appears possible then, and the city is ready to grant a unified franchise, he said the companies will have to be liquidated.

"It looks as if we may reach a point where it is possible to put these properties together provided the city will grant a franchise to the new company," Judge Wilkerson said during a hearing on the Shaw plan for merger of the two systems. He asked that the city be prepared to make known its attitude on the merger plan and the prospect of granting a new ordinance to the lines.

Shaw Modifies Plan.

Walter A. Shaw, traction adviser to Judge Wilkerson, reported that he had made several modifications in the merger plan he proposed on Sept. 26. His plan was drafted on instructions of the court. During the last three weeks Shaw has been conferring with representatives of the companies on objections they offered to his plan.

Shaw's amended plan conforms in many respects to the so-called Abbott plan for reorganization of the four surface lines companies.

Shaw made two principal changes in his plan: One change meets objections of holders of surface lines first mortgage bonds that the Shaw plan did not give them new first lien bonds for their present ones. The other modification was to increase the allotment of securities to owners of the elevated system.

The consolidated company which Shaw originally proposed would have a capital consisting of 45 million dollars of new bonds to be sold for cash, $72,718,350 of first mortgage income bonds, 85 million dollars of preferred stock and 1 million shares of common stock. He proposed that holders of a like amount of surface lines first mortgage bonds get the new income bonds.

Proposes Compensation.

Junior securities of the surface lines would be exchanged for 50 millions of preferred stock and the elevated company would get 35 millions of preferred stock in exchange for all of its 91 million dollars face amount of outstanding stocks and bonds. The common stock would have been given to the owners of the surface lines first lien bonds to compensate them for giving up their prior position.

The surface lines mortgage bondholders objected to receiving income bonds on which interest would have to be paid only if earned. Shaw agreed to give them regular first mortgage bonds.

More to Elevated Owners.

Shaw would increase the distribution of securities to the elevated by giving them 7 million dollars of income bonds and part of the common stock in addition to the 35 million dollars of preferred. Holders of 70 million dollars of surface lines junior securities would be given $46,556,987 [instead of $50,000,000] preferred stock and part of the common stock.

There would be a total of 2,685,519 shares of common stock without a stated value. The elevated would get 1,105,802 shares and the surface lines junior securities holders 1,579,717 shares.

HOLD VOLUNTEER FIREMAN WHO LIKED TO WORK

Henry Lorenz, 25 years old, a volunteer fireman of Lisle, was held in Du Page county jail at Wheaton last night in bond of $5,000 on charges of arson. He was arrested early Sunday after he had attempted to set fire to the garage of a Lisle resident, Foster Buck. Lorenz was questioned by Sherif Arthur Bennett about the attempted arson and also about twelve recent fires in the village. Lorenz confessed trying to burn the Buck garage and also confessed starting four of the twelve recent fires. He denied having had anything to do with the eight other fires. He told Sherif Bennett he thrilled at sounding the loud village siren summoning the volunteer firemen to a fire. "It was a lot of fun," he said.

'END OF WORLD' BROADCAST QUIZ STARTED BY FCC

Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—The federal communications commission today began an investigation of the dramatic radio broadcast last night that caused many listeners to believe men from Mars had attacked the United States. Some women fainted, other became hysterical, and thousands telephoned to authorities and newspapers for verification of the world's end.

The Columbia Broadcasting system was asked by Frank R. McNinch, chairman of the commission, to turn over an electrical transcription and the script of the dramatized version of H. G. Wells' imaginative story, "The War of the Worlds," which caused the furor.

"I withhold final judgment until later," McNinch said, "but any broadcast that creates such general panic and fear as this one is reported to have done is, to say the least, regrettable."

Harvard Senior Dies After a 50 Foot Fall Down Cliff

Nashua, N. Y., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—John Forsythe Meigs Jr., 21 years old, of Havre De Grace, Md., a Harvard university senior, died here tonight of injuries incurred in a fifty foot fall down a cliff of Joe English mountain Sunday afternoon. A member of the Harvard Mountaineering club since his freshman year at the university, Meigs was regarded as one of the club's best climbers. His father is a retired naval officer.

NEW FURNITURE MEANT TO KEEP FOLKS AT HOME

Slipper Men Finally Come Into Their Own.

Fireside chairs, a low bed with bookcases built around two sides, a Mae West chair, and other pieces of furniture for the domestic minded are being exhibited in the current furniture market which opened yesterday. Both in the Merchandise mart and the American Furniture mart, indications were that the furniture manufacturers are conspiring to keep families at home.

New and enticing chairs upholstered in warm, colorful fabrics anticipate a great wave of fireplace hugging, one manufacturer's representative explained. Men who have been slipper men at heart for years will now come out in the open, it is expected, and tell their wives frankly that they long only to stay home.

A Frivolous Object.

The Mae West chair is a purely frivolous object thrown in as a concession to wives. It is of pale blue satin, has voluptuous curves and a petticoat flounce trimmed in lace.

In keeping with what the manufacturers term the back-to-the-home movement much stress is laid on recreation rooms and furnishings. A bar of bleached reed, with high stools to match, a tiered cocktail table of the reed, and a movable rattan tray were found in the Merchandise mart. Picturesque and comfortable, empress or peacock chairs also were made of reed, which is the core of rattan, obtained from a Tahitian vine.

Swing Bed Featured.

In a modern furniture group in the Merchandise mart, a swing bed was featured. Twin beds swing in to fit a double headboard with two concealed lights to tempt the reader.

In the American Furniture mart, a mahogany fishing board, combining sideboard and liquor cabinet, also appeared directly to masculine tastes. Product of one man's hand carving over a two and one-half month period, it has reels and rods for legs; lobsters, catfish, trout, and other fish cavort over its surface.

Swedish Modern Demand Rises.

Swedish modern furniture continues to be increasingly in demand, according to exhibitors in both marts. English modern is being introduced by one manufacturer, combining traditional and modern designs. An exhibit in the Merchandise mart showed bedroom furniture in curly maple woods, modern, yet with a Chippendale influence felt in the design. Brass hardware was distinctly Chippendale.

"Mother had a bad cough, tried several remedies, but found no relief till she used REM. It helped me, too."

Mr. Henry P. Brown
3332 Berteau Ave., Chicago

Thousands of others, like the Browns, have discovered that REM brings prompt relief from coughs. That's why they're glad to "pass the good word along." There are definite reasons why REM brings relief so quickly:

(1) REM is made specifically for coughs resulting from colds.

(2) REM is a real cough medicine, not just a "tickle stopper."

(3) REM is thorough, because it works two ways. . . not only in the throat, but also systemically. That's what makes it so very much more effective.

So if you have a cough resulting from a cold, don't fool around with it! Go after it with a real cough medicine like REM.

"LARGEST MONDAY'S VOLUME OF THIS YEAR"

—EDWARD SIMON, Vice-president GOLDBLATT BROS., INC.

Mr. Daniel F. McMahon
Chicago Tribune
Chicago, Illinois

Dear Mr. McMahon:

I am happy to inform you that the six full page ads which we ran in the Sunday Tribune on October 23rd, produced the largest Monday's volume of this year.

Our ten stores showed an increase of 15% over the corresponding figures of a year ago. They reported a record business at the opening hour, and crowds throughout the day in every department.

Of particular interest was our Semi-Annual 1¢ Drug Sale which was part of the six pages. This produced the largest volume in the history of the departments involved.

Goldblatt's have used the Chicago Tribune as an important advertising medium for many years. Last Sunday's advertisement was another typical example of thrifty Chicagoans' overwhelming acceptance of Goldblatt's greater values.

Yours very truly,

Six Full Pages in Sunday Tribune Produce 15% Sales Increase for Goldblatt Bros.' 10 Department Stores

Sunday, October 23, Goldblatt Bros. placed six full pages of advertising in the Chicago Tribune.

Next day, the Goldblatt Bros.' 10 department stores enjoyed the biggest Monday's sales volume of this year.

"Our ten stores showed an increase of 15% over the corresponding figures for a year ago," writes Edward Simon, vice-president of Goldblatt Bros., Inc.

"They reported a record business at the opening hour, and crowds throughout the day in every department."

"Of particular interest was our Semi-Annual 1c Drug Sale which was part of the six pages," continues Mr. Simon. "This produced the largest volume in the history of the departments involved."

Would you like to establish new sales highs?

With 10 stores located in the Loop, neighborhoods and suburbs of Chicago, Goldblatt Bros., by the results secured from their advertising, demonstrate the Tribune's market-wide circulation.

No other medium penetrates so deeply into every income, age and social strata to deliver the sales coverage which advertisers require today.

Every day of the week the Tribune now reaches over 700,000 families in Chicago and suburbs. It is the only Chicago newspaper with majority coverage of this great metropolitan market.

Ask a Tribune representative to help you work out an advertising plan which will get you a greater share of the business which is now available in the great Chicago market.

Coincidence.

Carl Van Doren, whose biography of Benjamin Franklin is just out, and Ruth MacKay of Chicago, author of a new book on finance for femmes, "Money Without Men," were swapping stories at a recent authors' function in Cleveland. Mr. Van Doren told a nice tale of coincidence, nearly as pleasing as that one of Alexander Woollcott's about Anne Parrish coming upon a book in a Paris bookstall that she had read as a child and opening it to find her own name in a childish scrawl in the front.

While he was doing research for his biography Mr. Van Doren was told that one of the earlier Poor Richard almanacs was in the possession of Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, and that it was the only one in existence of this particular almanac, originally priced ten cents, and is now worth a fortune. The author went to see it. A curious chance had preserved the almanac for the biographer of Benjamin Franklin. There, in faded letters in the front of the book, was inscribed the name of Mr. Van Doren's own great-grandfather, who originally had owned the book.

Overheard at an avenue book store [by Maurice Lazare]:

"You may send me Gibbon's Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, Ruskin's Seven Lamps of Architecture, and a couple of books to read."

And Sylvia B. Smith was in a bookstore when a woman came in and asked for My Son, My Son by Joseph, Joseph.

Haunted Chicago Apartment.

When Jessie Royce Landis comes to Chicago to appear in Dame Nature at the Erlanger next Monday evening she probably, because of her interest in psychic phenomena and para-psychology, will make Thoda Cocroft, Chicago head of the American Theater society, tell her her true ghost story of a haunted apartment.

Some years ago Miss Cocroft and her husband, Gene Whitmore, rented an apartment on the near north side, and as her husband was out of the city on the first night of their occupancy she was there alone. She awoke suddenly, turned on the light, and saw a man's hat in the middle of the bed, a hat that had not been there when she went to sleep. She thought at first her husband had come home, but he had not and there was no explanation of the hat's appearance.

The following evening they were sitting in the living room when a key turned in the lock. Mr. Whitmore sprang to the door to throw it open, but there was no one there. Those were initial experiences. There were sounds in the walls, the dishes rattled in the pantry and sometimes crashed from the shelves. The Whitmores couldn't keep a maid more than a day or two because of the ghostly happenings. When they left town they leased the apartment furnished, but the new tenant stayed only one night and declined to come back. She couldn't stand the unexplained phenomena.

One day a friend who had dropped in said: "Why, this is the apartment where So-and-So died!" She named a Chicagoan, wife of a well known author, whose mysterious death aroused interest some years ago. A year of desperate unhappiness had preceded her death. It was the visitor's theory that the very walls still vibrated to the agony to which they had been witness and that the unhappy woman's spirit still pervades the apartment.

Plan Dinner to Precede Party of Dance Club

BY JUDITH CASS.

YESTERDAY'S mail brought to a group of subsubdebs and very young beaux their first formal dinner invitations. Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Cochran, and Mr. and Mrs. Sangston Hettler are entertaining at dinner at the Churchill hotel on Saturday, Nov. 12, for some of the girls and boys who will be going on later that evening to the first party of the Dance club. This club, composed of freshmen in high school, holds its dances at the Girls' Latin school.

The Dinner Dance club, to which sophomores, juniors, and seniors belong, is holding its first party of the season next Saturday. This club meets at the Belden-Stratford hotel. Miss Alicia Pratt directs both groups and parents chaperone the parties. Dr. and Mrs. William F. Petersen and Dr. and Mrs. James Herbert Mitchell have children in both clubs; the Roger Fahertys, Mr. and Mrs. George Fox, and Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Janus will chaperone the Dinner Dance club's first party. Mr. and Mrs. Janus just recently moved here from San Francisco; they have twin sons in school at the Boys' Latin.

Cards are out to a tea Mr. and Mrs. David Anderson Crawford will give to introduce their debutante daughter, Miss Elizabeth Williamson Crawford, on Sunday from 4 until 7 o'clock at the Crawford apartment, 209 Lake Shore drive. Mr. and Mrs. Crawford will give a dinner-dance at the Blackstone hotel on Dec. 21 for their daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Stacy Mosser have decided to give a tea at their home in Winnetka on the afternoon of Saturday, Dec. 24, to introduce their daughter, Sarah. Miss Mosser will be at home from Bryn Mawr college for the holiday season.

Woman's Exchange to Hold Sale Nov. 9.

It may seem early to be thinking about Christmas shopping, but that is exactly what the directors of the Chicago Woman's exchange want every one to start doing before Wednesday, Nov. 9. On that day the annual Christmas sale of the exchange will be held in the ballroom of the Drake hotel.

The directors always plan an early sale, for that enables them to place advantageously the orders that are taken at the sale. Self-supporting women make the exquisite things that are sold at the sale and at the shop that the exchange conducts at 942 North Michigan avenue the year 'round.

Mrs. William M. Spencer, president of the exchange, is being assisted in planning the sale by Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams and young Mrs. "Cy" Adams, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey Jr., Mrs. Louis S. Sudler, Mrs. Frederick L. Spencer and her sister, Mrs. Walter W. Crawford; Mrs. Charles F. Glore, and Mrs. Allyn Warren, among others. Young Mrs. Adams has charge of getting together a group of young girls to assist in serving luncheon at the sale. Mrs. Abraham K. Selz is planning the luncheon.

Mrs. Sudler and Mrs. Dewey will model house coats and negligees at the sale and the daughter of one of the directors will model a new skating dress that the exchange is featuring.

Reception Sunday for Larz Holloway.

Celebrating the return of their brother, Larz A. Holloway, Mr. and Mrs. John Whitcomb Holloway have cards out for an "at home" from 4 until 7 o'clock Sunday in their apartment at 203 Kedzie street, Evanston.

Larz Holloway, who has been studying voice in Paris, has been at the summer home in the Berkshires of his parents, the Harry C. Holloways, since September. He and his parents are arriving in Winnetka today. It is expected that young Mr. Holloway will remain here until after the holidays, when he will return to Paris.

Jonathan Corwith are the names Mr. and Mrs. Corwith Hamill [Joan Smith] have given to their first child, a boy, born yesterday at St. Luke's hospital. The baby is a grandson of Mrs. Harold Cornelius Smith and of

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Dusolina Giannini made her Chicago debut in the Civic Opera house last evening in a thrill packed performance of "Aïda," and immediately established herself as one of the great dramatic sopranos of our time.

Before the curtain had closed on the first scene of the first act the brilliant Monday night audience knew that furs and jewels and personalities had become matters of secondary importance and that something extraordinary was taking place upon the stage. For this awkward acting, 36 year old Italian-American was doing things to the music which we had almost forgotten could be done.

Aïda usually accepts with comparative calm her anomalous position [being loved by an Egyptian captain who is sworn to send her father and her countrymen to the cleaner's]. Not so Mme. Giannini. Her "Ritorna Vincitor" was smoking with passion. Phrase after phrase seemed torn from her very vitals.

And yet—here is the miracle—this terrific emotional drive did not bend the song out of all semblance to art. Instead, the feeling behind it found in the performance itself—in its musical elements—a triumphantly perfect expression.

In phrasings and colorings of inexpressible magnificence Mme. Giannini allowed the emotional burden of the song to reveal itself. You never get the feeling in listening to her that certain departments in which she happens to be technically strong are carrying the bulk of expressive duty. Rather is the impression strong that she is doing exactly what she wants to do and that technical problems hardly exist. As each period cries to be externalized, the proper means are automatically at hand.

Still, it is fun to dwell for a moment on the equipment which permits her to perform such wonders with the music. Mme. Giannini's breath control permits her to compass a long melodic line, fortissimo, without a trace of agitation. The number of tone colorings is amazing, and the number of states which they help to convey—passion, tenderness, fear, and more than fifty-seven others—cannot fail to impress the most hardened opera-goer.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

War Admiral-Seabiscuit Influence.

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 31.

Robert Taylor—All he has to fear at MGM is an athletic heart.

Mickey Rooney—The best money-maker since Black Beauty.

John Barrymore—Running better than ever since Elaine Barrie added a whip and blinkers to his racing equipment.

Don Ameche—This colt, by Laughing Boy out of Snicker, was knifed on European invasion, but likes American tracks.

Nancy Kelly—This fleet miss went to post for her first outing in "Submarine Patrol." Despite wet track, she was picking them up and laying them down in classy fashion. Can't be overlooked.

Hedy La Mar—Best looking filly in training at this track. She runs in the silks and prints of Reginald Gardiner, British patron of the arts.

Katharine Hepburn—In training for the $100,000 Scarlett O'Hara handicap. If she starts, bet the family jewels on her.

Virginia Bruce—Minnesota bred youngster constantly on improve. Last performance in "There Goes My Heart" of stake caliber.

Paul Muni—Looks like a "sleeper" in Juarez handicap. Sizzling morning works.

Tyrone Power—Zanuck has entered him at every distance, regardless of youth, and he keeps scoring. He should be sharp as a revolver shot under Jocky Jesse James.

Loretta Young—Handled badly by stable connections. Dr. Myron Selznick, track vet, recommends studio transfusion, and a few extra bales of long green.

Alice Faye—No filly has improved so sharply. Claiming race graduate now holds her own with handicap champions.

Paulette Goddard—Hustling filly recommended by courage.

Sonja Henie—Does her best work in refrigerator.

Bette Davis—Has never turned in a dull race stable; however, believe she is off her feed, as she hasn't struck for more pay in months.

Spencer Tracy—A nose in front at every post, and pouring it on through the stretch. A killer-diller from Milwaukee, with more zing than Milwaukee beer.

Priscilla Lane—This youngster is rapping on the Academy door already. Warner stable nabbed a real filly in the Fred Waring auction sales.

Anita Louise—Has developed with racing. Will reach the winners' circle.

Binnie Barnes—If stable connections would pick her spots, she'd be overnight sensation.

Andrea Leeds—Won't run again until bandages are removed. Has form players on crutches as she has never run back to first great effort in Stage Door mile.

Mrs. Moody Keeps Her Poise as Tennis Films Burn at Lecture

Helen Wills Moody was as calm on the lecturer's platform yesterday when speaking at a luncheon of the English-Speaking union as she is on the tennis courts. The old newsreel films that illustrated the lecture caught fire, but even that did not disturb her poise.

And far from displaying the "poker face" for which she is famous, Mrs. Moody charmed every one with a pleasant smile. She punctuated the amusing aspects of her talk with a little musical chuckle reminiscent of Claudette Colbert in one of her cinema comedies.

Mrs. Moody, who was introduced by Charles S. Garland, former Davis cup captain, described English audiences as "wonderfully impartial," well informed, and perfectly mannered. French audiences, she said, are more excitable and noisy, not being sure whether they want their betting choice or their favorite player to win.

The audiences at America's Forest Hills are generous in their applause of foreigners. Often the Americans want a foreigner to win if they take a fancy to his looks.

SYNOPSIS.

David Beddoes, young American and his cousin, Alison Young, going to a party at Lady Wibbe's stumble by mistake into the house next door. While they are talking to the spinsterish woman, who receives them, they hear a woman scream and a body fall. The spinster explains it is a parrot. Young Penelope Wibbe says their strange neighbors have no parrot. But they acquire one next day. David learns his former love, Betsy Greentree, lives in the mysterious house. Betsy's father died after losing his money. While traveling in Europe with her aunt, Fanny Rush, Betsy met and married an Englishman, Geoffrey Scarpath. David sends a letter to Betsy, which is unanswered. He confronts Scarpath, who explains that Betsy is suffering from a chronic nervous condition and can have no visitors, that she is being cared for by his sister Evelyn. David gains a secret interview with Betsy and learns she is miserably unhappy. When the specialist, Dr. Broderick, insists on her taking the medicine, which always makes her feel worse, Betsy grows desperate. Alison's friend, Dr. Colin Ladbroke, leaving her flat one night, finds Betsy unconscious on the threshold. Revived, she explains Penelope helped her escape. Colin plans to have his friend, Dr. MacConochie, examine Betsy, after he learns Dr. Broderick is a drug addict. Betsy refuses to return with Geoffrey to his London flat. Fanny Rush arrives and stays with Geoffrey, whom she greatly admires.

INSTALMENT XXXVIII.
MISUNDERSTOOD GAIETY.

Up in Edinburgh MacConochie had come down with flu.

"It's a rotton disappointment," said Colin, taking Alison aside. "But one thing I'm comfortable about: He's not wanting to call off this appointment, as another man might have done. In other words it means only a rather tiresome delay."

"You don't seriously suggest that most doctors could have been got at?" demanded she, skeptically.

"Got at! No. Nothing quite so crude in our profession—though a damned sight more deadly. If it was another nerve man, he wouldn't see Broderick's patient without first writing a kid-gloved note full of complimentary apologies—for fear of giving offense. A general practitioner would decline out of pure funk. You see why, don't you?"

"You tell me."

"Right! One day a patient of his will be wanting Broderick's opinion. Broderick looks him over, gives directions, and asks: 'By the way—who's your medical adviser? Jones! M'm. . . .'" Here Colin scratched his chin with the polite dubiety which damns. "'I see. . . . Robinson, now is a man I can heartily recommend. Take my advice, try Robinson,' and the trick is turned."

"Beastly!"

"But, don't you see, above criticism. Nothing derogatory's been said. And it won't end there. Broderick will take care to drop hints in just the right places—a shrug will do it. Quite soon poor Jones' patients will be edging away as though he were a leper. Word has got around that he's a dud. As likely as not he'll be driven into selling his practice—what's left of it!—and starting from the bottom up in some provincial hole."

Her eyes blazed. She caught suddenly at his hand.

"You're Jones!" she cried vehemently. "All this you're saying may happen to you. O, Colin, it mustn't! Stop, before it's too late!"

"S'sh!" he cautioned, pushing the kitchen door to. "Having her know won't save the pieces."

"Elizabeth?"—with scorn. "She won't hear—nor will David. They're in a blissful dream. It's you, you that's in danger. O, dear, it's too late now, I expect! And I dragged you into this mess. Don't deny it! If it wasn't for me you'd never have known Elizabeth existed. Now if this petty-minded prig of a doctor has his revenge on you, I—O, what can I do?"

"This," he replied, and planted a kiss on her upturned cheek.

She gasped. It had come so unexpectedly! Delirious for a moment, she told herself she had invited this—and that it wasn't yet, couldn't be, what she wanted. Even so, she had no power to repulse him when a second time his lips came near. They found hers, for a longer pressure.

"How silly!" she whispered shakily. "That oughtn't to have happened—or, this, either." She brushed away the moisture blurring her sight, and laughed. "Leave go!"

He released her slowly, but touched her warm cheek where the tear had lain.

"Like a nice, ripe peach," he murmured, though impersonally. "Is it the first time I've said it?"

Meanwhile, conversation in the living room had flagged. David wore an air of embarrassed constraint—and with reason. Any moment now Elizabeth would be asking the one question he dreaded. She had glanced up at him. That meant it was coming, and what the devil he was to say. . . .

"Well," she began, twiddling her toes in and out of her threadbare mules, "you collected your mail, looked at second hand cars. Was that all?"

The word cars made him think again of his night's adventure—which had been carefully kept from Elizabeth. Gosh, what a near thing! He rubbed his beauty spot, which still throbbed. He'd explained that by an ingenious yarn about bashing his head against Colin's doorpost, in the dark. . . .

"Move, you!" called Alison as crumpets hot and buttery poised over his head. "Three each—so the greedy person will have to toast more for himself. Betsy, here's your fudge. It beats mine hollow—but you're not to touch it till you've had your tea like a good child. That goes for you, too, David! Paws off!"—for already he was fingering a lump with awed respect.

"Elizabeth! This isn't your doing?" he marveled. "A first class star-turn, and you've been keeping it under your hat!"

If a shadow overhung them, it did not mar appetites or put a curb on high spirits. Wedged around the fire, with the curtains shutting out the clammy December dusk, they fought happily over the food, drained the blue teapot twice over; and towards the finish waxed riotous.

David was ragging Elizabeth about their morning excursion.

"Easy girl to amuse," said he wolfing fudge. "Cheap, too, I'll tell the world! Take her up and show her Selfridges. She'll go goofy with joy!"

"O!" cried Elizabeth. Diving under a sofa cushion she drew forth a small object which she rubbed lovingly against her sleeve. "Now," she giggled, "shall I give you a performance?"

David groaned. "My God, it's a mouth organ! You can't play that, girl! Hand it to your uncle."

"I'm rather out of practice," she apologized, fitting her lips over the keyboard. "What shall I try first? O, I know! Shenandoah!"

Most competently she ground out the tune.

Elizabeth was warming to her work—quite literally, for what with the roasting fire and enthusiasm her cheeks burned peony red, while her hair, for once no marvel of neatness, sprayed moistly about her eyes.

David had wormed close to her. His right arm, for want of space, was buttressing her shoulder, but she seemed unaware, for appreciation, after that long period of being humbled and crushed, had gone to her head. Wistful she still looked, but only as she had done in childish days when she had so longed to be accepted by the older, unpampered crowd, and had shrunk from intruding. Something of this the man beside her comprehended. His fingers closed protectingly on the slim little waist, and the blood in his veins began to pound.

Alison dropped her cigaret and went down on all fours to hunt for it. The same extravagance dealt the musician a clump on the head which sent her wallowing, weak with laughter, amongst the cushions.

And then. . . .

And Fanny? Of course, charging past him like this she took what she beheld for some drunken debauch.

Fanny's estimate of young Americans was not high. These days one heard all too much about cocktail orgies and the abominable practices known as necking and petting, but to find these going on in London, with her own Greentree niece as arch-culprit, brought her to the verge of apoplectic seizure. Sick, indeed! Clearly the whole thing was an hysterical fraud. That dark young hooligan had been hugging Elizabeth, and Elizabeth had been enjoying it!

Alison was risen now—stammering up to her.

"Mrs. Rush! O, do forgive us!"

Engagements Announced

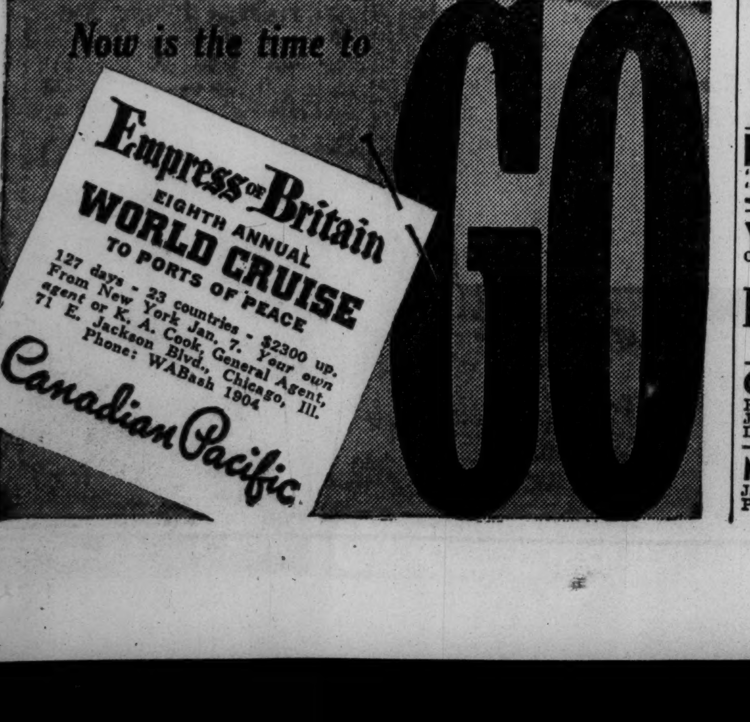
Mr. and Mrs. Ashby DuBose of Cleveland have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Frances Cleveland, to George Randolph Groendyke of New Orleans, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Barton Groendyke of Chicago. The wedding will take place in November.

Miss Cleveland was graduated from the Sophie Newcomb College for Women, Tulane university, New Orleans. Mr. Groendyke was graduated from Amherst college.

At a tea on Sunday afternoon, Dr. and Mrs. Henry William Cheney of Chicago announced the engagement of their daughter, Carol Eleanor, to Robert Wheeler Swett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Swett of Beverly Hills.

Miss Cheney attended Lawrence college at Appleton, Wis. Mr. Swett attended the University of Wisconsin and the Babson institute. No date has been set for the wedding.

Dr. and Mrs. Oakel F. Hall of West Lafayette, Ind., announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen Fowler, to Franklin Webb Stone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bushnell Stone of West Lafayette. Miss Hall, who has lived in Chicago, and her fiancé both are graduates of Purdue university. The wedding will take place next spring.



GASOLINE ALLEY—NOT A CHANCE

Father Should Loom Large in Family's Life

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Hollywood stars get to be stars partly through a "build-up"—an elaborate proceeding, a campaign, in fact, of anecdotes, personal incidents, what the star likes to eat, what height heels she wears on her shoes, whether she takes her hot bath before she goes to bed or goes to bed before she takes her hot bath!

Writers get their build-up when their work is to be launched.

Foods, even, get their build-up. This food has vitamin B, another vitamin A, G, or F. And so it goes, and some of it is a decidedly deserved build-up, like that given to milk, we'll say, as an absolutely safe and solid example.

But the build-up that's been hovering around in the back of my mind lately is one that is underdone rather than overdone. It has to do with father and the children.

And the question I want to ask you [so you'll ask yourself] is: Do you build father up to the children?

Children, as I've said before, are only too ready to look up to their parents. They need to love and admire those two protectors and arbiters of their destiny, their father and their mother. Remember that to your children you are giving a sample of what a man and woman can be; and later they will become conscious of you as that, not just as parents but as people. But now they are aware of you only as parents whom they should be able to love and admire. Given half a chance boys and girls will do both, but in far too many families it is mother who receives the lion's share of these two commodities.

This isn't fair to the children and it certainly is not fair to their father.

'Forgetting' a Date Requires Good Excuse

BY DORIS BLAKE.

One of the popular evening sports, according to reports here tendered, is giving a girl a "standup." That's what they call being left waiting at the front door. We hear so often of this cruel jest on the part of young men, that we wonder what inspires it. It is not kind. It isn't funny. It is not nice.

We have a sneaking suspicion, however, that young men would not deliberately commit the offense. That perhaps they have been forced into a date against their will. That they were caught offhand, perhaps, without an alibi and so take the means described as their way out. It is a cowardly way out.

A young man who willingly or unwillingly committed himself to meet a girl at a set time to take her out, should either call up hours ahead with a good excuse or, if he lacks the courage to talk to the girl, send a message explaining his inability to appear the particular evening and send it in time for the girl to make other plans.

It would be better, of course, if he did not commit himself at all when talk of the "date" was on.

If, perchance, one has a real excuse for not appearing, if something came up the last minute, it still is unfair not to get word to the girl somehow.

We can't let this go without a caution to the young women not to force a date unless you are willing to gamble on disappointment.

You get a young man in a corner from which his idea of escape is not to appear at all.

Women in All Fields to Be at Press Meeting

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Whether a Chicago woman is a college professor or a beauty culturist, a social personage or a hotel housekeeper, a candy manufacturer or a singer, a church worker or a railroad executive, a lawyer or a dietitian, a labor union leader——

In other words, whatever an outstanding Chicago woman's interests are, the chances are she is a club leader. And so the chances are she is among the 3,000 club leaders who will attend THE TRIBUNE's press conference tomorrow and Thursday at the Medinah club.

"Chicago has more organizations per capita than any other city in the world," Jerome G. Kerwin, associate professor of political science at the University of Chicago, commented yesterday. Several years ago he made a survey showing this fact. Applications for tickets to the press conference would indicate that this still is true.

Represented will be literally hundreds of units of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, the League of Women Voters, the Garden Club of Illinois, the American Legion auxiliary, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Federation of Temple Sisterhoods, the Ladies of Isabella, the Catholic Daughters of America, the Order of the Eastern Star, the Illinois Federation of Music Clubs, church guilds and societies, the Infant Welfare society.

Also represented will be the National Grandmothers' club, the Mount Holyoke club, the Association of Records Librarians of North America, the Girl Scouts, the Woman's club of the Chicago Ethical society, the juvenile police schools, the Proportional Representation league, the Chicago Graded Union of Sunday School Teachers, the International Mothers of Twins association, the Oak Park Republican Women's club, the Women's Trade Union league, the Women's division of the Jewish Charities, and the Diocesan Guild of Catholic Nurses.

Advertising men and women, journalism students, editors of community newspapers, publicity women, and executive secretaries of organizations also have requested tickets.

"Publicity is a constantly changing field," was the reason one veteran publicity woman gave for requesting a ticket.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Carelessness, poor management, and hurry are responsible for disproportionately large food bills in most homes. The woman who knows that she simply must reduce the cost of eating at her dinner table finds that it's easy to reduce food bills 10, 15, even 20 per cent, if she goes about it with a will.

Homemakers who really are interested in cutting food costs may do well to study this thirteen point program for stretching the marketing pennies.

THIRTEEN WAYS TO SAVE MONEY ON FOOD.

1. Do your marketing personally. Only in this way can you pick up food values, be sure of the best quality fruits, meats, and vegetables, and keep informed as to relative costs.

2. Choose reliable dealers and clean stores in which to shop. Become acquainted with the dealer so that he'll take a personal interest in giving satisfaction. This does not mean that you should always patronize the same store, however. Go elsewhere; whenever there are real bargains to be had. Compare prices in various stores, but don't forget to compare quality at the same time.

3. Market twice a week and have your menus planned in advance so that you'll know what you want to buy and can purchase it rather quickly. But have the menus flexible enough so that you can make substitutions whenever you see a particularly good buy.

4. Buy in quantities whenever possible. This point refers to staples and canned goods only. Watch advertisments for bargains. For example, buy a dozen cans of tomato juice when it sells for a nickle a can instead of getting two or three cans at another time when the price is several cents higher.

5. Buy plenty of cereal foods, for they're nutritious and filling, and very inexpensive. Include oatmeal, cream of wheat, cornmeal mush, and other hot cereals at breakfast time. Buy rice for rice puddings, Spanish rice. Keep macaroni and spaghetti on hand to serve on nights when meat is omitted from the menu.

6. Don't skimp on fresh milk for drinking, but use evaporated milk for cooking purposes. It has as much food value and usually is considerably cheaper. Chill it, whip it, and use it in place of whipping cream for desserts. You may use evaporated milk for coffee and plain milk for cereals to save on cream. Eat cottage cheese and plain American cheese often.

7. Eggs right now are very expensive. Use them in ways to stretch them. For example, one egg in a custard with spinach or in a salad with beets will serve two persons, but if you're cooking breakfast eggs you'll need one apiece. During seasons when eggs are cheap use them plentifully, for they are very important to the diet. When economically possible, each child should have one a day and each adult two or three a week. Buy second or third grade eggs and save pennies. They're no different in food value than the selected ones.

8. Learn to use inexpensive meat cuts. Have meat and vegetable stews or pies frequently. Also remember that baked beans with a little salt pork spell economy and will be welcome several times a month.

9. If you know of a good brand of cheap coffee, and there are some, use it. Finely ground coffee for drip coffee-making methods usually goes much farther than coarser grinds.

10. Follow the seasons in purchasing fruits and vegetables. Right now oranges and grapefruit are plentiful. Don't buy them by size. Sometimes the largest oranges are least juicy. They should be heavy for their size. Strive for variety in vegetables. Root vegetables usually are cheaper, but, green, leafy ones are just as necessary nutritionally.

11. Buy dried fruits—prunes, apricots, figs, raisins—in bulk when possible. Use them often, for they're economical, considering their food value.

12. Don't omit desserts, but make them simple. Make flavorful bread puddings from slightly stale bread. Serve baked apples, canned or fresh fruits, fruit shortcakes, plain cupcakes, oatmeal cookies, gingerbread.

13. Be a careful buyer. Watch weights and add up your bill as the grocer does it. He might make an error. Always return unsatisfactory goods. This does not mean being suspicious or crotchety. Every dealer has his patience tried now and then by unpleasant persons. Being careful does not imply being unpleasant.

"Doll" Type of Waistline

SIZES

FROCK IN JUNIOR SIZES.

One of the focal points of fashion this season is the waistline. Designers have concentrated attention upon it as they never did upon any other detail of a frock. One of the most ingenious creations is the "doll" waist, a slim, snug, fitted and demure panel that makes the midriff seem like an infinitesimal something between fullness and fullness. By the latter we mean the shirred bodice and the equally shirred skirt. The frock illustrated today is typical of the "doll" type. It has a clever neckline, too, heart-shaped and girlish. It may be trimmed with ruffling to match that used on the sleeves. Printed fabrics are especially attractive for this version of the frock.

Another delightful scheme is crush resistant velvet with high neckline and the waistline panel of cardinal red suede crêpe. If you use plain silk crêpe, you might give the neckline, sleeves, and skirt some petal motifs in bright colors.

Style No. 2728 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19 years. Size 15 requires 3⅜ yards of 39 inch material.

Exercise and Posture Keep Abdomen Flat

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Said a saleswoman in a de luxe dress house to us the other day:

"Please pound home to your fair readers the imperative need of a flat tummy if they want to look like anything in this year's clothes!" But why this year, said we? Yes, this year more than ever, she argued. Bouffant skirt, slim slip of a dinner gown, gathered or shirred afternoon frock or your plain tailored requires the flat abdomen. You can get away with hips with a large bust, but the protruding abdomen ruins the effect of our smartest numbers.

The saleswoman confided that often women aren't aware of the fact that they protrude. Young women are least conscious of their silhouette destructiveness and they are the ones most intent on a figure revealing type of frock.

The remedy begins with posture, naturally. Keep your body tall and straight, deliberately flatten back your stomach and you have the figure of youth. Exercise should be sufficient to strengthen the abdominal muscles. Persons who do little exercise or none at all invariably are round tummied. Not your golf enthusiasts, nor tennis players! Nor skaters! It's the women who get all their exercise in a rocking chair or its modern equivalent, an easy lounge chair, who are the victims.

Take one good abdomen exercise and work at it until you feel the flattened hardened muscle result. But do the one exercise twenty, thirty, forty times a morning: Sit on the floor and simply try to touch your toes with your finger tips, keeping legs stretched straight ahead. Go forward, back, forward, back, many times.

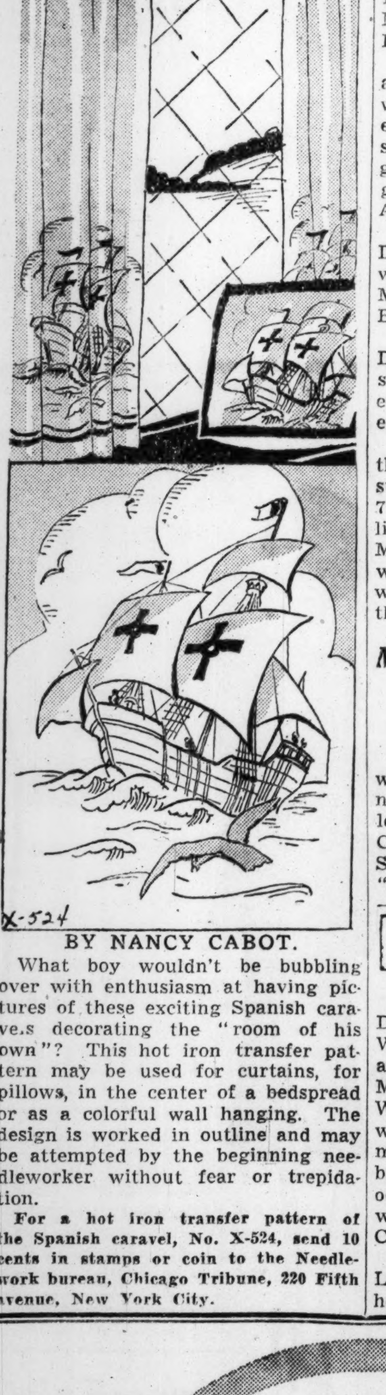
Spanish Caravel Exciting Motif of Transfer Pattern



X-524

BY NANCY CABOT.

What boy wouldn't be bubbling over with enthusiasm at having pictures of these exciting Spanish caravels decorating the "room of his own"? This hot iron transfer pattern may be used for curtains, for pillows, in the center of a bedspread or as a colorful wall hanging. The design is worked in outline and may be attempted by the beginning needleworker without fear or trepidation.

For a hot iron transfer pattern of the Spanish caravel, No. X-524, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

the Alfred E. Hamills of Lake Forest. Young Mr. and Mrs. Hamill live in Wayne.

Word has come from New York of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Webb Harrison [Betty Nash], formerly of Chicago. The baby has been named Anne Carter. Mrs. Harrison's sister and brother-in-law, the junior Oliver M. Knodes, moved last month from Winnetka to Springfield, Mass.

The Lake Shore Chamber Music society will present the Russian trio in the first of six recitals this morning at 11:30 o'clock at the Arts club. Mrs. Daniel Taylor is president of the society.

Prenuptial Parties for Honor Merrell.

The Sidney S. Gorhams are entertaining at dinner at their home in Winnetka tonight for Miss Honor Merrell and Gordon Loud. Tomorrow the Walter S. Carrs and their son, Robert A. Carr, and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Sampsell, will give a dinner at the Carrs' apartment, 1301 Astor street.

Thursday the Robert McKennas, the Roger Q. Whites, the Theron Chapmans and Mr. and Mrs. William D. Cox will give a dinner-dance at the Saddle and Cycle club for Miss Merrell and Mr. Loud, who will be married Saturday afternoon. Friday night Mr. and Mrs. John H. Merrell will give the bridal dinner at their home, 209 Lake Shore drive, where the wedding reception will be given, too. Only relatives and members of the small bridal party are invited to the dinner Friday.

Mrs. Andrew MacLeish of Cragie Lea, Glencoe, is giving a dinner tonight for her son, Archibald MacLeish. Mr. MacLeish is coming to Chicago to give the William Vaughan Moody lecture at the University of Chicago tomorrow night and a lecture in the William Maddox Memorial series at Rockford college on Thursday evening.

The Chicago board of the Northwestern University settlement will meet for tea this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Le Roy Kramer, 1320 North State street, to make plans for a bridge benefit to be given on Nov. 29.

Mount Vernon Alumnae to Give Tea Today.

A large committee of former Mount Vernon seminary students will entertain at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Woman's Athletic club for President and Mrs. George W. Lloyd of the school. The school was founded by Mrs. Elizabeth Eddy Somers, a former Evanstonian.

Some of those on the committee for the tea are Mrs. William F. Petersen, Mrs. John C. Slade, Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, Mrs. Oliver H. Eddy, Mrs. Charles G. Little and Mrs. Paul B. Magnuson Jr.

The Cercle Français will present an unusual program this afternoon when one of its members, Mrs. Frederic G. Griesel, will sing and act songs from the current Folies Bergeres in Paris. The program will be given in the clubrooms in the Fine Arts building.

Later in the afternoon Prof. Henri David of the University of Chicago will speak, and tea will be served. Miss Mary West and Mrs. Jules C. Bloch will pour.

The architects' ball, to be given Dec. 2 at the Drake hotel, is occasioning many cocktail parties, for every time a committee meets, apparently, it is a cocktail party.

The Chicago Rhythm club, one of the sponsors for the ball, will give such a party today from 5:30 until 7 o'clock at the apartment of Franklin Lyons, 50 West Schiller street. Mr. Lyons, Francis Stanton and Edwin M. Ashcraft III. head the club which is in charge of the music for the ball.

Maria Reining, Vienna opera star, will make her debut here tomorrow night when she sings the feminine lead in "Die Meistersinger" with the Chicago City Opera company. On Saturday night she will sing in "Madame Butterfly."

WEDDING

The wedding of Miss Betty Frances Ditfurth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Ditfurth of River Forest and Barrington, to Robert Francis McLaughlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. McLaughlin of Oak Park, will take place on Nov. 12. The ceremony will be read by the Rev. Herbert Prince at the Barrington Methodist Episcopal church. A reception will follow at the Barrington Hills Country club.

After the wedding trip Mr. McLaughlin and his bride will be at home in Chicago.

LAST TUESDAY'S QUESTION.

Question 10: Opponents reach three no trump without mentioning a suit and without a bid from yourself or partner. You become the opening leader. You hold:

♠Q 5 4 ♥J 10 9 ♦Q 8 7 3 ♣J 6 2

What card do you lead?

Answer: Correct lead is heart jack. This is far safer than a lead of any other suit, and is even more constructive. A "conventional" lead of the "fourth best" diamond would be very foolish, since the diamond suit is very weak and it is extremely unlikely that it can be established for even two tricks. [Twenty points demerit for diamond three lead, 40 points demerit for any other lead.]

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question 18: The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

DUMMY

WEST
♠K J 8
♥Q 10 7 3
♦Q 5
♣K 10 8 7

You opened the three of hearts, East played the eight, and declarer won with the jack. Declarer now leads the jack of clubs. What card do you play, and why? [Short explanation will suffice.]

TODAY'S HAND.

SOUTH

♣Q 10 5

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 spade
Pass	3 spades	Pass	4 spades
Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the spade queen as the safest discernible lead. Declarer won with the king, returned a trump to the ace, and discovered a spade loser was unavoidable. He then took the heart finesse, losing to West's queen. West cashed the high spade and, in obedience to East's high club signal, shifted to a club. The contract was down before declarer really had caught his breath.

Declarer beefed vociferously over his "hard luck" in losing the heart finesse and finding a 3-1 trump break. Actually, he had only himself to blame for his defeat. There was one other splendid possibility which he had overlooked entirely. Of course, he could do nothing about the trump break, but most certainly he should have deferred the heart finesse until he had investigated another line of play. That was to lead a club from dummy in the hope of finding the jack in East's hand. Actually, of course, East had the A K J, and two successive club leads from dummy would easily have established South's club queen, so that a heart could be thrown off from dummy. This would have permitted the ruffing of the third round of hearts, a far better chance to bring home the heart suit without loss than the 50-50 percentage involved in the finesse.

There's Style Plus Comfort in New Corsets

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Self-assured clothes collectors who never face a mirror may mistakenly try on the newest clothes hopefully, but only too soon comes the bad news. No one can wriggle into the wasp waisted dresses for either daytime or evening without some good remote control. Girdles, corsets, or what you will, if you want a new streamlined dress to fit revealingly and properly, you'll have to wear the suave satin new 1938 models.

These magic smoothies are the most comfortable things you've ever worn—a few bones where they do the most good, bones inserted and planned by experts with all the skill of an engineer, to hold without constriction, to smooth away without a single minute of discomfort.

Believe it or not, the old fashioned laced in front corsets are back. You lace them with wide flesh colored satin ribbon. They'll take inches off your waist line as well as keep any unseemly bulge under control.

Underlayers for strapless ball gowns, without which no wardrobe is complete, are designed especially for such creations. Strapless brassieres are made of half and half lace and form fitting satin lastex; the top of the garment is elastic, and the back half is a two inch band of flesh colored satin lastex. Evening girdles to wear with such brassieres are built high, to control spare tire bulges, to nip in the waist comfortably, and long enough to smooth the hipline.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Eye makeup—even for daytime—is now eminently respectable. But it isn't so expert as it might be. We urge you to adopt it, because even the most beautiful eyes are glorified by it, and because in this season of picturesque makeups your eyes are important. But do get some practice.

Please, please forego the thin penciled line of eyebrow. It's hard—such an obviously false note robs the face of character. And it's particularly trying to the aging face. It draws attention to eye lines. Besides that, it's out of fashion!

You can lift your brow line if you like. In fact, you should if you think it's too droopy. Have an expert clear the underbrush, leaving enough to give a raised, but natural line. Use mascara to darken your brows if they're thin. If they're heavy a pencil will do the job nicely, but be sure you don't draw it straight across. Color the brow with short vertical lines rather than one long horizontal swoop. You'll find the effect much softer and more natural looking.

Use shadow this year if you never did before. The shadows are prettier than ever and most of them are creamy so you don't have to pull the skin when you apply them. What shade you use should depend on several things; costume color is now considered the most important. It used to be natural eye color, but now we know any woman can wear just about any color when the makeup aids harmonize with the costume shades. This year there is a great vogue for iridescent shadows, both for day and for evening.

Quiet Dignity Marks Elegant Opera Evening

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

The first subscription performance of the Chicago City Opera company's 1938 season last night had fewer fripperies in dress and much more dignity than the grand opening on Saturday night. The crowds in street dress who arrived early went directly to their seats in the dress circle or balconies, not waiting to gape at bookholders or those in evening dress, who occupied main floor seats.

A generous sprinkling of ermine and chinchilla trimmed velvet wraps of an older style were observed on many women of distinguished appearance. These music lovers slipped quietly through the entrance and on to their seats, white hair sometimes piled high in pompadour, sometimes neatly coiled on the nape of the neck, but always nude of ornamentation. During the intermissions they remained in their seats, or so it seemed, at least, to reporters anxious to identify them.

No one, however, missed Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine's graceful carriage and twinkling eyes. Mrs. Edmund Mansure's costume was enlivened by a cross of blazing diamonds. A wine colored dress and coat were becoming to Mrs. Frank Fuller.

Feminine parties always are popular on Monday nights. One last night was made up of Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, Mrs. Harriet Bent of Harrisburg, Pa.; Mrs. Warren Fairbanks, and Mrs. Charles C. Adsit. Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne and Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr., great music lovers, shared a pair of tickets. Mrs. Edwin Dewes and her daughters, Miss Dorothy and Miss Elisabeth, all three tall and slim, were back again in their Monday seats.

Three more stunning fur evening wraps couldn't be imagined than the silver fox coats worn by Mrs. R. Townsend McKeever and Mrs. Charles S. Davis, and the mink coat of Mrs. Hayden B. Harris.

Representatives of the younger generation were not numerous last night. Miss Valeria Harris, in striped lamé, the Paul Rowans, who came with her mother, Mrs. Alden B. Swift, and Mrs. Loyal Davis; Mrs. William Alden Little and her brother, Sterling Dickinson; William Morris, who sat with his mother, Mrs. Edward Morris, and the Howard Emigs; Miss Margot Atkin, Mrs. Clyde Bedell, the junior Mr. and Mrs. William M. Collins, and the Leonard Ettelsons were some of the younger people. Mrs. Ettelson made a dramatic entrance swathed in form fitting plum satin coat, complete with hood, banded in sable.

Hails Giannini as New Star in Chicago Opera

the evening. The dark beauty of her voice and the intensity and sincerity of her performance helped give the presentation as a whole its exciting drive and depth.

Noble characterizations by Giovanni Martinelli, George Czaplicki, Mark Love, and Virgilio Lazzari kept the men's end of the performance to a high level.

Dorothie Littlefield took the principal part in the lavish ballet which brightened the already bright fourth scene. The opulence of all of the costumes of "Aïda" could not but suggest to us on this Halloween evening that the poorest super at the opera was better off in the way of personal adornment than the most imaginative and untrammeled children in the richest neighborhoods in town.

LOMBARDI WINS NATIONAL LEAGUE AWARD

WAR ADMIRAL AND SEABISCUIT TO RACE TODAY

$15,000 at Stake—Winner Take All.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—Visitors poured into this city from all sections of the country tonight to see tomorrow's long awaited race between Glen Riddle farm's War Admiral and Charles S. Howard's Seabiscuit, son and grandson, respectively, of Man o' War, at Pimlico's inaugural.

Hotels are jammed and everywhere you go the main topic is the match event. Baltimore has been a horse racing town since colonial times.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, vice president of the Maryland Jockey club, and the man who gets credit for staging the Pimlico special, looks for the greatest throng in the history of the ancient Baltimore track.

Many Like War Admiral.

A majority of the crowd seems to favor the chances of War Admiral. Big time plungers, commissioners, handicappers, and the inevitable touts checked in in large numbers after the metropolitan racing season came to a close at Empire City Saturday.

Both Seabiscuit and War Admiral are in tiptop condition. Trainer George Conway said War Admiral never had come up to an important test in better style, and Trainer Tom Smith was just as jubiliant over the way Seabiscuit had completed his early morning chores.

The weather today looked ideal, and if the sun continues to beam as radiantly, the race will be run on schedule. While there was some rain late last week, the track is fast, and according to the terms of the race the track must be fast.

Chairman Decides on Track.

Jervis Spencer Jr., chairman of the Maryland racing commission, is to decide at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow if the going is satisfactory. If it isn't, the match will be postponed until Thursday. Should the track be satisfactory at the specified time, and a change occurs later, the race will be run as scheduled, unless one of the horses defaults.

War Admiral was given his final trial on the week-end, when he covered the full special distance of a mile and three-sixteenths in 2:02 in the mud. He demonstrated his sharpness of foot by stepping the first half mile in :49. Seabiscuit last worked out on Thursday, when he turned the same distance in 2:00 2-5 on a fast track.

In the event of a deadheat, it was announced by the Maryland Jockey club, wagered money will be returned to the players.

War Admiral Is Favorite.

Among the bookmakers War Admiral is the favorite. In their opinion the son of Man o' War will pay less than 1 to 3 in the mutuels. They declared that War Admiral is essentially a Maryland horse, that he was raised at Riddle's farm at Berlin, Md., that a majority of the Marylanders will back him for sentimental reasons and that the thousands of $2 and $5 bets on him which will flow into the mutuel machines will offset any large commissions which might come in for Seabiscuit.

War Admiral has scored eighteen victories out of twenty-two starts. Only once in his racing career was he out of the money. Seabiscuit has competed eighty-three times and won thirty-one races.

Winner Take All.

The weight of only 120 pounds will favor War Admiral the bookmakers believe. Riddle's colt weighs only 960 pounds and the 120 pounds will not anchor him as would 132 or more in a handicap.

The race is winner take all. The Maryland Jocky club has hung up $15,000 and a trophy. Each owner has posted $5,000 forfeit. In the event both horses start, the forfeit money is returned to the owners. If a walkover occurs the purse is reduced to $5,000 and the nonstarter forfeits $5,000.

SKETCHES OF RIVALS.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Sketches of the principals in tomorrow's match race follow:

War Admiral is a four year old son of Man o' War-Brushup. He is a brown colt standing 15 hands 2½ inches, weighing 960 pounds. He has won $257,050 with eighteen victories, two seconds, and one third in twenty-two starts. He was 3 year old champion of 1937 with eight straight victories, including the Kentucky Derby, Preakness, and Belmont stakes. He is quiet around the stable but fractious at post. He likes to run in front.

Seabiscuit is a 5 year old son of Hard Tack-Swing on. Hard Tack was sired by Man o' War. Seabiscuit is a bay colt standing 15 hands 2 inches, weighing 1,040 pounds. He was bred by the Wheatley stable and was sold as a 3 year old for $8,000. He has faced the barrier eighty-three times in all parts of the country, scoring thirty-one victories, twelve seconds, and thirteen thirds. He has earned $331,045. He was out of the money only once in the last two years. He is a great stretch runner. He holds the Pimlico track record of 1:57 2-5 for a mile and three-sixteenths, distance of tomorrow's race.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Perfect One, a 5 year old son of Donnaconna, late yesterday rang down the curtain on the 157 day Chicago racing season in style befitting his name. The Rumage gelding won the Endurance Test, closing feature of the last day of racing at Sportsman's Park, on a perfect day which came as a perfect conclusion to a perfect meeting.

The Endurance Test is literally the Grand National on a dime. Set at 2⅛ miles, it is the longest race of a program in which the little half mile track favors distances of from 5 to 7 furlongs. The jockies who ride in it must have a touch of steeplechaser and a dab of cowboy in their make-ups.

Atkinson Takes Long Ride.

Yesterday it was Ted Atkinson who had all of those requisites as he took Perfect One to the front and kept him there each of the five times the field swept by a grandstand and clubhouse jammed with the largest crowd of the meeting, more than ten thousand having come out to say adieu until racing returns to Chicago next May.

Perfect One finished six lengths in front of It's Keen, which beat out the 8 to 5 favorite Wanderobo for second. The winner paid $13.20.

The Sportsman's Park meeting concluded yesterday was the most successful in the track's seven years' history. Daily crowds averaging 7,500 attended the meeting. The daily mutuel handle averaged $224,076 until yesterday. After the sixth race the tote board showed an intake of $246,156.

The Dearborn handicap, first of the closing features of the meeting, was

HAWKS SET FOR OPENER, BUT THE LABOR GOES ON

Three Lines Ready to Oppose Americans.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks, world champions of the hocky business, skated feverishly in Chicago Arena yesterday, will skate some more today and tomorrow at their home base, Chicago Stadium. Their exhibition game which was to have been played in St. Louis last night, was called off for lack of ice, making necessary a much more rigorous practice schedule for the season opener against the New York Americans in the Stadium Thursday night.

While the players were gliding, Chairman Joe Farrell of the committee on opening night hoopla was busy too. Among the festivities planned for Thursday will be the presentation of the Stanley cup. Gabby Hartnett, manager of the Cubs, will hand the world championship trophy to Manager Bill Stewart of the Hawks shortly before the opening faceoff.

They're Old Friends.

The ceremony will have more than the usual sentiment background. Both Hartnett and Stewart, who is a National league baseball umpire, are New Englanders and have been friends for many years. Stewart, a former ball player, is said to have been the first man to tip off Cub Scout Jack Doyle back in 1921 that there was a skinny kid who knew how to catch with the Worcester club. Doyle looked at the kid, who was Hartnett, and the rest is a saga in the baseball scouting profession.

There also will be a pennant unfurling, the first ceremony of the kind. The championship banner will be exhibited over the arena after the fashion of the flag displays at Golden Gloves spectacles.

While the Hawks are working hard at their drills the personnel experimenting has ended. The team is set, at least for the first few weeks of the season. It is said that there will be no line juggling, except in the case of injuries or other emergencies.

Defense Is Set, Too.

There will be three lines of fixed personnel. Paul Thompson, Doc Romnes, and Mush March will form one; the newcomers, Baldy Northcott, Russ Blinco, and Earl Robinson, another, and Johnny Gottselig, Cully Dahlstrom, and Joffre Desilets still another. The lines will not be designated as first, second, and third lines, as per custom. Manager Stewart expects to vary starting preferences, which is a happy state of affairs for a cup defender.

There was no competition for the defense jobs. Earl Seibert, Art Wiebe, Alex Levinsky, and Bill MacKenzie form the quartet. Mike Karakas will remain as goalie, though the Hawks were well pleased with the showing of Paul Goodman. Goodman will be farmed to some team not far from Chicago with overnight recall strings attached.

This year each National league team is allowed to "dress" sixteen men, one more than heretofore. This gives them two utility players, Jack Shill, who can play left wing or center, and Roger Jenkins, who can play right wing or defense.

Toronto Second on List.

The players all are in good physical condition, which is a good thing, for the schedule makers sorta soaked the champs. They will play three games the first four nights of the season, which really is pouring it on.

After they open the season Thursday night the Hawks will get out of town to make way for six day bike racers. On Saturday night the champs will play the Toronto Maple Leafs, runners-up in the Stanley cup playoffs, then will hurry to Montreal to play the Canadiens Sunday night. Sunday night hocky in Montreal will be an innovation. Heretofore Saturday night has been the big hocky night every place in Canada.

After the game in Montreal, however, the overworked Hawks will have a full week to rest up for their fourth game. They will play the Canadiens in Chicago on Sunday night, Nov. 13. They will engage the Rangers on the same rink the following Thursday night, and the Maple Leafs Sunday, Nov. 20, before again taking to the road for three games in four nights.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Ceferino Garcia will have an advantage of seven pounds over Henry Armstrong in their welterweight championship bout in Madison Square Garden Wednesday night. . . . Armstrong, who holds both the lightweight and welterweight titles, expects to enter the ring at 135 pounds. . . . Barney Ross says Garcia is one of the hardest hitters in the ring. . . . Prospects of a knockout victory will attract a crowd of about 15,000, according to Promoter Mike Jacobs. . . . Ran into Keith Topping, one of the greatest ends Stanford has produced, at the Notre Dame-Army game and asked him if he would like to join the 1939 College All-Stars in Chicago. . . . "Wish I were eligible," he replied. "My participation in the 1936 game against the Detroit Lions was the most fun I ever had in football." . . . It was due largely to the work of Topping and Wayne Millner at end that the All-Stars held the Lions to a 7 to 7 score.

Personal to Lynn Waldorf: "Was that one of my plays you used to send Jefferson over the goal to beat Minnesota?" . . . It undoubtedly was, because it appeared from newspaper reports that trickled into New York, to be the same play I gave him to whip the Gophers in Dyche stadium in 1936. . . . Some of the boys from the Ivy league like to poke fun at Notre Dame's subway alumni in New York, but as Tom Meany points out, "the latter still can dig up $4.40 a throw for tickets, which is more than can be said for the Wall street and Park avenue alumni of many other colleges."

Bill Stewart Jr., son of the Blackhawks' manager, is captain of the Lawrence academy football team of Groton, Mass. . . . He's a 180 pound quarter back. . . . Pa Stewart says Bill will enter Harvard next year. . . . Jay Wyatt, Big Ten football official, has worked on sixty-nine gridirons in eighteen states during his thirty years as a whistle tooter. . . . Eddie Brannick, secretary of the Giants, is touring Italy. . . . Members of the Wembly hocky team in England are forced to skate with telephone directories on their heads until they master balance. . . . Holy Cross hasn't lost a home football game in four years. . . . Kid McCoy, one time claimant of the middleweight and welterweight titles, seconded George Sutka in the latter's recent bout with Dave Clark in Detroit. . . . Five major league clubs are bidding for Ira Hutchinson, brilliant young Seattle pitcher. . . . One of them is the Yankees. . . . Guess who'll land him.

GOLDBERG GOES TO HOSPITAL WITH BAD LEG

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Pitt, hitting the stretch unbeaten and untied for the first season since 1929, kept the pressure on today for the renewal Saturday of the rivalry with Carnegie Tech.

Although Marshall Goldberg, full back, was in the hospital with a leg injury received in the Fordham game, team handlers said the injury was not serious and he probably would report tomorrow.

Goldberg was hurt in the first quarter, but stuck at his post and in the final period scored the two touchdowns that gave Pitt its first victory over the Rams in a four year series.

As boisterous Pitt students paraded the campus and downtown streets in an unauthorized "victory" holiday, word came from athletic headquarters there would be no holiday for the team.

LIONS PROVE A RUNNING GAME HAS ITS POINTS

Razzle-Dazzle Absent—and Not Missed.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The flying cleats of Bill Shepherd clawed a rent in the razzle-dazzle argument Sunday. Aerial legerdemain, circus catches and fancy scores were missing as Shepherd and his Detroit teammates trampled the Bears, 13 to 7, with a generous application of old fashioned football. And the customers liked it.

Detroit confined itself to the old rock 'em, sock 'em game, proving again that there are no substitutes for blocking and tackling. By all the arguments for open football, it should have been a dull, uninteresting contest, following, as it did, two such pitching spectacles as the Cardinal and Cleveland affairs.

Game Proved Some Things.

Instead it produced the outstanding game of the season to date in the western division of the National league and left the 24,385 spectators completely satisfied that they had seen an expert demonstration of good, sound football, embellished with adequate thrill by the explosive charges of Shepherd, the 26 year old father of two sons who played with the fervor of and much more skill than a collegian.

Razzle-dazzle unquestionably has a place in the changing pattern of the game. Detroit proved conclusively, however, that it is not an indispensable part of entertaining, crowd-raising football. Conscientious application of those time honored fundamentals, blocking and tackling, can produce the same thrill that comes with a long pass and a couple of laterals. Ball carrying and bodily contact, the two principles on which the American game was founded, still form the backbone of the sport.

Bears Appear Overrated.

Detroit's victory, achieved on two field goals and a touchdown, made the Lions' co-favorites with the Green Bay Packers in the western division championship race. As a matter of fact, the Lions should be the favorites with Green Bay second. They have beaten the Packers and Bears, their only rivals for the championship. The Packers, although beaten only twice, have suffered their two defeats at the hands of the other contenders. The Bears won, 2 to 0, early in the season and the Lions, 17 to 7, two weeks later.

The Bears are left with only an outside chance of winning the title. Apparently Coach George Halas' club has been overrated. Halas and Bear fans have been waiting for several weeks for it to unleash the coördinated, overpowering attack for which the club has been famous in other seasons and was believed to possess this year. So far, however, it has been none too impressive. When it failed Sunday against Detroit, the one team for which it could have been expected to be red hot, there remained little on which to argue its right to a rating of greatness.

Green Bay Is Next.

It can redeem itself Sunday and move back into the championship picture by whipping Green Bay in Wrigley field. A triumph would bring Green Bay down to its level with three defeats apiece, leaving the outcome of the Packer and Bear games with the Lions in Detroit as the deciding factor in the race. Cleveland apparently has worked off the enthusiasm that attended the appointment of a new coach. Green Bay gave it a thorough licking Sunday. The Rams are heading for another fall next week unless the Lions become so completely satisfied with themselves that they ignore the first principles of competition—respect for every foe.

Other games Sunday bring together the Cardinals and Giants in New York, Washington and the Pirates in Pittsburgh, and Brooklyn and the Eagles in Philadelphia. The Cardinals have been idle since losing 7 to 0 to Philadelphia in Erie, Pa., last Wednesday and go east with a new center, Ed Kawal, former Bear and Redskin veteran, who was signed as a free agent. Kawal was released by the Redskins before the All-Star game when he held out.

[1924-'29 league award by baseball writers; 1931-'38 Baseball Writers' association award.]

Ernie Lombardi, the large nosed catcher who swung a wicked bat for the Cincinnati Reds during the 1938 season, was picked as the National league player most valuable to his team. The voting of a committee of twenty-four members of the Baseball

ERNIE LOMBARDI.

Writers' association, as announced yesterday, showed the Cincinnati star had accumulated 229 points out of a possible perfect score of 336.

The second in line for the fleeting honor was Bill Lee, the Cubs' right handed ace who carried the pennant burden during the last few weeks of the strenuous race. Lee's work was recognized with 166 points. Arky Vaughan, the Pirate shortstop, who topped his team in hitting, was accorded 163 points. Mel Ott, the Giants' home run artist, was fourth with 132, followed closely by Frank McCormick, the Reds' freshman first baseman, with 130.

Ten Choose Lombardi.

Lombardi, who was the league batting champion for the year, was picked first in the balloting by ten of the committee members. He was placed second on five ballots, third on three and was mentioned once each for fourth, fifth, sixth and ninth. Lee and Vaughan each drew five first place votes. The last catcher to be recognized with the National league award was Gabby Hartnett, now managing the Cubs, in 1935. Joe Medwick was picked last year and finished eleventh this time.

Lombardi, who has been with the Reds since 1932, served with Brooklyn in 1931, having been brought up from the Pacific Coast league. He has a lifetime batting average of .320 and in each of his seasons as a Red has figured in more than 100 games.

Hartnett Gets One.

Ott, Hartnett, McCormick and Mace Brown, Pirate relief pitcher, each received one first place vote. Points were distributed as follows:

Ernie Lombardi, Cincinnati	229
Bill Lee, Chicago	166
Arky Vaughan, Pittsburgh	163
Mel Ott, New York	132
Frank McCormick, Cincinnati	130
Johnny Rizzo, Pittsburgh	96

ZALE BATTERS DOWN CLARK IN SECOND ROUND

Jimmy Bounces Off Floor Eleven Times.

Tony Zale, Gary middleweight, scored a second round knockout over Jimmy Clark of Jamestown, N. Y., in Marigold Gardens last night. Before being counted out by Referee Tommy Thomas, Clark was knocked down twelve times—eleven in the first round. During the 3 minutes 53 seconds Clark was in the ring he spent 1:33 on the canvas.

The 1,441 spectators applauded when Clark was saved by the bell in the first round, but it was obvious he would be unable to absorb Zale's two fisted barrage much longer.

Clark's Defense Is Futile.

Clark showed none of the skill or stamina with which he won the 1936 American Olympic Golden Gloves 160 pound championship. He had no defense for Zale's wildest punches and every head blow knocked him down. Zale weighed 159 pounds and Clark 158. Gross receipts were $1,758.

Supporting matches were won by Bob Tinsley, Chicago lightweight; Henry Schaft, Minneapolis 155 pounder, and Dick Kist, Danville, Ill., welterweight.

Tinsley Beats Swenson.

Tinsley defeated Don Swenson of St. Paul and Schaft conquered Jimmy Sheppard of Peoria in contests of eight rounds. Kist knocked out Johnny Panek of South Chicago in two rounds.

Tony Musto of Blue Island is awaiting the bell that will send him into action against Max Marek, heavyweight trial horse from the Catholic Youth organization, in a ten round bout tomorrow in the Park Casino.

Musto, who gained notice recently by whipping Jorge Brescia, ended training yesterday in Trafton's gymnasium with loosening up exercises. The Marek assignment is Musto's first major contest in Chicago.

Tony weighed 195 pounds yesterday. Marek weighed 185 as he concluded boxing drills in C. Y. O. center. Max, who sparred three rounds with Mike Sinko, will take a complete rest today.

Tom Kenneally vs. Jack Bloss [6].
Henry Wacker vs. Scotty Withers [6].
Mike Sinko vs. Clarence Brown [4].
Gene Thompson vs. Johnny Nelson [4].
Joe Lubin vs. Nelson Berrard [4].

Vincent Pimpinella, New York welterweight, yesterday was signed to substitute for Jackie Burke in a ten round headliner with Milt Aron in Marigold Gardens next Monday. . . . Two contests have been added to the show headed by Ken Overlin and Nate Bolden in White City Friday. Frankie Kainrath, Catholic Youth organization 124 pound boxer, is paired with Sonny Batson for five rounds and Gene Spencer with Jimmy Buckler for six rounds. . . . The Illinois boxing commission yesterday concurred in the National Boxing association's indefinite suspension of Tommy Farr. . . . Jack Blackburn, trainer for Joe Louis, next week will return from Hot Springs, Ark., where he is recovering from an illness. F. M.

PASTOR FLOORS BRACKER TWELVE TIMES; WINS IN 4TH

Pastor battered Bracker to the canvas twelve times.

Hostak Meets Krieger in Title Bout Tonight

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Al Hostak knows as well as any one that anything can happen in fifteen rounds, but the new world's middleweight champion says he isn't worried about his first defense of his title tomorrow night. Hostak meets Solly Kreiger of New York, whose boast is that he never has been knocked out.

Fight Decisions

At Louisville, Ky.—Emil Joseph beat Ray Ingram [8].

Armstrong, Garcia End Drill for Bout

New York, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs' satisfied smile beamed through the box office window today as Henry Armstrong and Ceferino Garcia wound up training for their 15 round welterweight championship bout in Madison Square Garden Wednesday night.

"It looks," said Jacobs "as though we might have a sellout. There are plenty of seats left, but the advance sale indicates a full house."

In that event, there'll be 18,000 jamming the big sports palace, and a gate of a little more than $100,000.

Armstrong Prepares Defense.

Garcia, the Filipino from California who has stopped 11 of his last 12 opponents, did no heavy work in his practice today.

Armstrong, who came out of St. Louis by way of Los Angeles and blasted his way through three fight divisions with 39 straight victories, 35 by the knockout route, put in a heavy workout sharpening his defense against the Bolo punch and the equally dangerous Garcia left. This Bolo punch is a right uppercut thrown with a hook motion.

Expect Slugging Match.

The match between the colored champion, who won the crown from Barney Ross last May, and Garcia, who earned the challenger's spot by almost knocking Ross out earlier, shapes up as a test involving two of the most dangerous punchers in the 147 pound division since Jimmy McLarnin and Billy Petrolle were taking things apart.

Garcia was the early betting favorite, but the odds have dwindled now until indications are for 5 to 6 and take your choice by the time they climb into the ring.

HARTNETT TALKS PLAYER DEALS WITH ROWLAND

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Gabby Hartnett, whe led the Cubs to a pennant but didn't have much luck trying to dent the Yankee armor in the world series, formally transferred himself yesterday from the temporary rôle of a nimrod to that of a winter baseball executive.

After chasing pheasants through Wisconsin, Minnesota and the Dakotas, all the time thinking he could run away from his world series woes, Gabby hung his hat in the Cubs' downtown offices and asked if there was any work to be done.

The answer he got was that there was plenty [as if Gabby didn't know it after witnessing what happened to his boys in the series] but that not a wheel could be turned until he had offered suggestions. Gabby is supposed to name some players now wearing foreign uniforms he would like to have and some of his own players he wishes to peddle in trades.

Cubs After Big Game.

Hartnett, at least for publication, has no suggestions to offer immediately. He didn't even talk business with President-Owner P. K. Wrigley, saying, "There is plenty of time for that. I'll be here every day."

But, concealed under his hat the manager has an unlimited batch of ideas on how the team can be rebuilt to remedy some of the defects so noticeable this season despite the pennant winning feat.

Without going far enough to mention any names, Hartnett admitted he would welcome anybody in the shape of a pitcher, a hitter, or even a catcher. He'd take any number of each variety if available but he knows the winter marts are not going to be laden to that extent with talent. In fact the Cubs may find the marts close to barren because they are after big game and haven't much to offer in return unless the other side of a deal can be salved with money.

Talks With Rowland.

Hartnett spent most of his first business day talking with Clarence Rowland, the club's trading ambassador. Rowland, having managed the White Sox into a pennant and world title in 1917, is the fellow who will attempt some deals as soon as the line of attack is mapped. Rowland started talking more than a year ago about a fellow named Joe Ducky Medwick of the St. Louis Cardinals, coming to the Cubs.

In connection with Medwick, or First Baseman Johnny Mize, coming to the Cubs, there is a suspicion that Capt. Billy Herman, the Cubs' second sacker, may be involved. Herman has managerial ambitions and the officials of the Cardinals' club haven't named their field leader for next season. Of course, the Cards would have to include a second baseman in the deal and to make it look like an even swap the Cubs would have to resort to their bank roll.

Nothing further has been heard from Utility Infielder Tony Lazzeri who after asking whether he could, upon request, have his unconditional release, announced that it had been granted him.

Tony Galento Posts $5,000 in Challenge to Joe Louis

New York, Oct. 31.—[Special.]—Tony Galento, the battling New Jersey bartender who is ranked by the N. B. A. as No. 1 challenger for Joe Louis' heavyweight title, will post a $5,000 challenge check with that organization on Thursday in an attempt to force a match with the champion. Galento made the announcement today when he was told Louis would arrive in New York tomorrow to confer with Promoter Mike Jacobs with reference to a couple of Madison Square Garden fights for next January and February.

ILLINOIS PREP BASKET GROUP MEETS THURSDAY

Henry C. Porter, assistant manager of the Illinois High School Athletic association, yesterday said the basketball committee would consider several amendments Thursday night in one of the preliminary meetings of the state convention.

Several experiments are planned, he said, and the twenty-five men comprising the committee will discuss them at length. The committee will meet in Champaign. The state association meets at the University of Illinois Friday.

Among the basketball experiments up for discussion will be the fan shaped backboard; the bounce of a regulation basketball; and the new rule which provides for two additional feet of space behind the baskets.

Rule Now Optional.

This rule, which is optional now, provides that any high school, if it wishes, may extend the baskets two feet farther into the playing court, leaving a space of four feet behind the basket where plays may be formed. The baskets now protrude two feet into the court. No Illinois school may object if it finds opponents have placed their baskets four feet inside, Porter said, but no high school has to adopt the idea this year. The playing court remains unchanged in size.

A series of experimental basketball games are planned for this season, Porter said, embodying some changes in the rules.

The Illinois football committee on rules meets to consider the annual questionnaire and to elect a representative to the national rules committee.

The annual meeting of the state association is scheduled for 3 p. m. Friday. Porter said approximately 300 high school principals were expected.

WALDORF FEARS WILDCATS WILL HAVE LETDOWN

J. Ryan Sr. Says Badgers Are Tough.

The biggest problem confronting Northwestern this week as preparations get underway for the Wisconsin game in Dyche stadium Saturday is to guard against a letdown as a result of the Minnesota victory.

Coach Lynn Waldorf sounded the warning yesterday when he said the Badgers are in a "good psychological spot to score an upset. Wisconsin will be at full strength for the first time in several weeks and if we let down, they will be favorites to take us."

Jack Ryan Sr. Gives Warning.

Waldorf's fears were seconded by Jack Ryan Sr., father of Jack Ryan, star Wildcat half back, who each fall scouts the Badgers for Northwestern. The elder Ryan reports Wisconsin is a greatly improved team over last year and that in Howard Weiss, the Purple will face the best full back in the conference. He added that Wisconsin's line will outweigh the Wildcat forwards and will probably prove to be the best line Northwestern has met this year.

If the Wildcats can maintain the pace they set in the second half of the Minnesota game they will be difficult to stop. A check up revealed Northwestern ran 48 plays from scrimmage to 12 by the Gophers.

Squad in Good Shape.

Minnesota fumbled on two of its plays and each time the Wildcats recovered. On another occasion Ollie Hahnenstein intercepted a pass. Minnesota gained but fourteen yards in the second half and did not advance the ball past their 32 yard line.

A light workout was in order for the Wildcats yesterday. Aside from minor bumps and bruises, the Wildcats emerged from the Minnesota game in good shape.

SCHMITZ REJOINS BADGERS.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—Vince Gavre, senior quarter back from Port Edwards, was selected by Coach Harry Stuhldreher today to captain the Badgers in the Northwestern game in Evanston Saturday. Gavre scored the only touchdown in the Indiana game and also led Wisconsin against Iowa.

With the squad in its best condition, practice will be stepped up accordingly in preparation for the Wildcats. The regulars were given a rest today, but at least two contact scrimmages will be held before the squad leaves Friday.

Bill Schmitz, veteran left half back, has recovered from a shoulder injury and will be back at his old position. As a result Roy Bellin will be shifted back to right half, thus giving the Badgers their best back field combination since Schmitz was hurt in the Pittsburgh game.

INDIANA REGULARS REST.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—Indiana university regulars, wearied after the Wisconsin trip, which marked their fifth consecutive game of the season, were excused from active practice this afternoon as they began preparations for their invasion of Boston college Saturday.

Coach Bo McMillin gave the regulars a chalk talk on what to expect from the aggressive eastern team after sending them through limbering up exercises.

Joe Nicholson, the squad's No. 1 forward passer, suffered a shoulder injury in the Wisconsin game and will not be able to play against Boston. Russ Higginbotham, sophomore guard, suffered a leg injury but may be able to play Saturday. Frank Petrick, veteran end, who suffered a broken finger in the Illinois contest, will be ready, trainers reported today.

ZUPPKE RESTS ILLINI.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—With no game scheduled for Saturday, Coach Bob Zuppke gave the Illinois varsity a complete layoff today, but tomorrow will start preparations for Ohio State, which comes a week from Saturday.

The Illini emerged from the Michigan game in good condition. Bob Thomases, sophomore who started, did well enough to be a contender for Jim Reeder's left tackle job.

Whether Mel Brewer, disabled quarter back, will be available against Ohio State is not known, but there is a chance that he can play.

PURDUE SEES OPPORTUNITY TO ANNOY OHIO

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—Purdue's unpredictable football squad, defeated only once in six starts so far this season, although tied by Fordham and Iowa, scents a real opportunity to confound the experts who figured the Boilermakers for a lowly rating this year as it meets Ohio State in Columbus Saturday.

Although the Buckeyes, sharing the conference leadership with Northwestern, are expected to rule as favorites, Coach Mal Elward makes no secret of the fact that he is banking on the speed of Purdue's attack, coupled with the courage of the eleven, to provide the spark for a possible Boilermaker victory.

Although battered and bruised in the grueling battle with a Hawkeye eleven that had been aroused by campus critics, none of the injuries appeared serious. Coach Elward hopes to have the full Boilermaker strength available.

With the exception of Pete Timperman, sophomore, who apparently has won a permanent assignment at right tackle, Elward does not contemplate any lineup changes of moment.

OHIO FEARS PURDUE.

Columbus, O., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—Ohio State fears Purdue. Coach Francis Schmidt warned the players that "that tie with Iowa, didn't do any good."

The Buckeyes had a rather easy game with New York university and were free from the customary bumps or bruises.

Vic Marino opened a boil on his knee and will be out of practice again this week, but Charlie Maag and Stu White were in uniform today. Inasmuch as 34 players were used against the Violets, none of the players was excused from practice today, but only a light drill on offense was ordered.

MICHIGAN STATE RESTS.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—For the first time this season, the Michigan State squad was given a rest this afternoon. The Spartans absorbed a severe battering at the hands of Santa Clara last Saturday.

Injuries have laid low several of the Spartans and it is doubtful whether they will be able to face Missouri next Saturday. John Budinski, right half back, appeared to be the most seriously injured. He suffered a twisted knee and will be out for two weeks. Paul Derrickson, reserve full back, and Don Maliskey are out with leg injuries.

Walter Nelson, giant end, is still limping with an ankle injury. Ed Pearce, who was State's chief ground gainer against Santa Clara, will take over the right half back post against the Missouri eleven.

BIG TEN SCORING LEAD RETAINED BY LANGHURST

Jim Langhurst, Ohio State's sophomore full back, maintained his Big Ten scoring lead when conference rivals failed to stir up much touchdown action Saturday. Langhurst has scored three touchdowns in three games. The leaders:

	G	TD	PAT	FG	TP
Jim Langhurst, Ohio St...	3	3	0	0	18
Jerry Niles, Iowa..........	3	2	4	0	16
Don Scott, Ohio State....	3	2	2	0	14

Maroons Turn Attention to Harvard Game

Without pausing to congratulate themselves on their first victory of the season, over DePauw last Saturday, Chicago's Maroons went to work yesterday preparing for the game many of them regard as the prime assignment of the year, against Harvard at Cambridge Saturday.

This will be the first game ever played between Chicago and Harvard. They will meet again on Stagg Field next year.

Each Has One Victory.

Neither team had won a game this season up to last Saturday, when Harvard crushed Princeton, 26 to 7, and the Maroons passed DePauw dizzy for a 34 to 14 verdict. But Harvard's record, in terms of scores and opponents, has been better than Chicago's and the Crimson team will be the favorite.

Assistant Coach Kyle Anderson, who scouted Harvard, came back yesterday impressed with Harvard's speed and dexterity, and began immediately to demonstrate Harvard formations via the freshmen.

Coach Shaughnessy indicated that he will start the team which played most of the way against DePauw. This would mean Valorz, Wiedemann, Bex, Plunkett, Maurovich, Howard, and Wasem in the line, and Sherman, Hamity, Davenport, and Nohl in the backfield. The Maroon team will depart for Boston Thursday.

HARVARD STUDIES PLAYS.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Harvard's squad came through the Princeton game in such excellent condition that every man except one was on the field today for practice. The lone absentee was excused because of a class.

Don Daughters, who suffered a slight concussion in the game against the Tigers, was back in action, along with Bob Burnett, half back, who suffered a leg injury last Wednesday. There was every prospect both would be available for the intersectional game with Chicago next Saturday.

The Crimson had a brief workout today against Chicago plays before rehersing its own offensive. Then, after a signal drill, the varsity was excused and the second team scrimmaged against the Jayvees.

Iowa Battle Is Serious Matter to Minnesota

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—Iowa is down near the foot of the Big Ten conference football standings, but you can't convince Coach Bernie Bierman and the Minnesota players that the Gophers are in for a soft touch in the home finale Saturday.

Instead of the usual Monday routine of a chalk talk and a study of the pictures of the Northwestern game, Bierman had the Gophers out on Northrop field for an every-day practice session.

X-rays were taken of George Faust's injured hip, Harold Van Every's leg, and Capt. Francis Twedell's hand, but all were negative.

IOWA STARS RECOVER.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—The Iowa football squad came through its game with Purdue last Saturday without serious injury. Frank Balazs and Nile Kinnick are expected to reach peak form for the game with Minnesota.

Only Bob Allen and Dick Evans were injured in the Purdue game. Allen, regular guard, suffered a hand injury and Evans, regular end, a sprained wrist.

Balazs, regular full back, who has been out for over a month with a twisted knee, played Saturday. Kinnick, who was injured in the opener, looked better Saturday than he has at any time this year.

Jack Dempsey to Referee in Peoria Boxing Show

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—Jack Dempsey will referee at an amateur boxing show in the armory tomorrow night.

Michigan May Lose Kodros for Two Weeks

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—Michigan's football spirits, buoyed by a chance to share the Big Ten title, were dampened today by the announcement that Center Archie Kodros might be lost for at least two weeks.

Kodros suffered a rib injury in the Illinois game Saturday and preliminary reports indicated he would not be ready for this week's intersectional meeting with Pennsylvania and possibly will not be able to play against Northwestern in two weeks.

Kodros has had little relief in Michigan's five games and an immediate seach for reserves was begun. Horace Tinker, first substitute, will be in line for the starting berth if other transformed linemen do not make the grade. Guards Jack Brennan and Fred Olds and Tackle Dennis Kuhn worked tonight snapping the ball from center as possible candidates.

Half Back Tom Harmon, who was Michigan's only other casualty last week, was reported in shape again after resting from injuries.

PENN STAR RETURNS.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—Coach George Munger of Pennsylvania today received word that Full Back Jim Connell will be able to play against Michigan.

Connell was excused from practice to recover from a back injury suffered in the second period of the Navy game. X-ray pictures revealed no serious injury and Connell will be on hand for work tomorrow.

All of the other varsity players were in their customary positions, the first string back field consisting of Frankie Reagan, Jim Coulter, Mike Burke and Herb Rainwater, the latter substituting for Connell. Bill Miller and Bill Koepsell alternated with Burke and Reagan.

MAKES HOLE IN ONE.

Ray M. Spangler of 1011 Grove street, Evanston, made a hole in one on the 155 yard third hole at the Arlington Country club yesterday.

Fear Sheridan of Notre Dame May Miss Navy Game

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—Benny Sheridan, who scored the touchdown that put Notre Dame ahead in the 19 to 7 victory over Army, may be lost to the team for the Navy game in Baltimore Saturday. Sheridan wrenched his right arch in making a cutback after his 30 yard run and ensuing 1 yard touchdown plunge.

Coach Elmer Layden excused the varsity squad today and worked with B team, which will stage Navy plays in practice tomorrow and Wednesday. The Bees finished an undefeated four game schedule by beating the Purdue B team, 12 to 6, here Saturday.

Joe Thesing will move into the No. 1 full back spot tomorrow, Layden said, on the basis of his performance against Army and his seniority over Milt Piepul, a sophomore, who started the Army game. Piepul was hurt early in the game, after he had made several substantial gains. Thesing, a junior letterman, made a 48 yard touchdown run, and averaged nearly ten yards a trip, getting 133 yards in fourteen attempts.

The Irish will be strengthened in their quest for the sixth victory by the return of Chuck Riffle, right guard who was injured before the season opened. Riffle scrimmaged last week and he probably will see action against the Middies.

NAVY IS BRUISED.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—In spite of injuries ranging from cuts and bruises to the broken nose of Lem Cooke, quarter back, the navy squad was intact today except for Cliff Lenz, the 200 pound sophomore back, as preparations were begun for the Notre Dame game.

Lenz has a number of bruises and strains, but probably will be available for Saturday's game. Cooke also will play, with a special nose guard.

Rex Trimble, big guard, who received a spinal injury in the Virginia game, will be ready to play.

DE PAUL MEETS CATHOLIC NEXT IN HOMECOMING

De Paul university will play Catholic university of Washington, D. C., in its homecoming game Saturday in Wrigley field. Coach Ben Connor is hopeful that two weeks rest will bring De Paul back to its early season form. The team was badly battered in its games against Montana and North Dakota.

SOCCER GAME TOMORROW.

The Manhattan Soccer club will play the Italian Sport club in Mills stadium tomorrow night.

THIS MAY UPSET ALL YOUR IDEAS ABOUT ANTI-FREEZE

THIS anti-freeze story may startle you. It is contrary to long-established beliefs. Tests made over a period of 7 years in 800 cars prove that "Zerone"* makes a perfect mixture with water and that you lose little or none by evaporation or separation. Radiator losses are due mainly to mechanical causes—leaks, sudden stops, etc. Where there is [illegible]ing, the losses are of the whole solution—"Zerone" and water—and such losses are in about the same proportions as the original protection.

So, first, use "Zerone" in accordance with directions on can or protection chart. Second, never assume that it's the water only, or "Zerone" only, that has been lost when your cooling solution is low. Check strength of the solution, and replace the indicated combination of "Zerone" and water. Otherwise, you may have too much protection or too little, affecting performance and safety.

The materials from which "Zerone" is made are so effective you need less for protection. Replacements, if any, cost you little. So you are wiser to start with Du Pont "Zerone." Remember, it's only $1.00 a gallon. Du Pont, "Zerone" Division, Wilmington, Delaware.

NICKEL-A-DUCK CONSERVATION PLAN WORKING

Production Is Held to Five Cents a Bird.

BY BOB BECKER.

The "nickel a duck" plan seems to be working out, as American sportsmen were told it would. This is the latest report to come from the Canadian marshes where Ducks Unlimited workers are about ready to end their field work for the season. When that organization started its big program in Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba to reclaim drainage districts, save stranded ducklings, flood marshes, and otherwise help the waterfowl to produce normal hatches, it was figured that ducks could be produced for about a nickel a bird.

After one season in the northern marshes the field representatives state that it seems to be working out that way. Figures on what it cost to save 570 ducks which otherwise would have been lost to drouth at Many Islands and Cypress Lakes, Alberta, during August, show that approximately 5 cents per bird was expended during the rescue operations.

An Itemized Report.

Here's the bill submitted by Sam White of Ducks Unlimited [Canada], who organized a rescue crew of school children and borrowed an extra car and trailer for the job:

Mileage [two cars]	$15.90
Meals for drivers and kids	4.10
Blowout of trailer tire	7.50
Per diem for one man	2.50
	$30.00

Mr. White also bought some wire mesh and a bundle of lath. These, however, were permanent equipment. Hence it cost but 5¼ cents per bird to save these ducks . . . not much more than the price of a shotgun shell.

Since Ducks Unlimited has been busy in Canada and hunters have learned how this organization is actually growing more birds in the marshes, hundreds of Illinois sportsmen have gotten behind the Illinois division of this movement, according to L. H. Barkhauen, Illinois chairman of Ducks Unlimited. When we were in the Bath and Snicarte, Ill., section a few days ago we noticed that even some of the day shooting places were displaying Ducks Unlimited literature and urging all hunters to take a membership in the organization so that the work in Canada may continue next year.

Comes Back to Hunter.

As one veteran duck shooter in this day shooting place pointed out to us in a discussion of growing more ducks in Canada:

"Every duck hunter wants more and better duck hunting. In supporting Ducks Unlimited he has a chance to help himself to more hunting because every nickel he contributes goes to raise more birds in the big waterfowl breeding areas in Canada."

CONDITION OF FEATHERS FAIR; MAY PLAY AGAIN

New York, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Officials of St. Mary's hospital today announced that the condition of Beattie Feathers, half back on the Brooklyn Dodgers professional football team, was fair. Feathers sustained a fracture of the frontal sinus when tackled in the first quarter of yesterday's game with the Washington Redskins, National league champions.

Dr. M. T. Reynolds, Feathers' physician, later said the former Tennessee star seemed to be "resting comfortably," but that it would depend largely on Feathers himself whether he played again this season.

"In a case of this kind you have to be pretty careful," said Dr. Reynolds, "although examination so far has shown no symptoms of involvement of the brain or spinal cord. In addition to a fracture of the frontal sinus, there also is a possibility of a fracture of the third cervical vertebra."

N. U. STUDENTS STRIKE, BUT FAIL TO GET HOLIDAY

Several thousand Northwestern university students tried to force a holiday yesterday to celebrate Northwestern's football victory over Minnesota last Saturday. The strike failed.

Campus gates were picketed before 8 a. m., and students were prevented from going to class. A few who sneaked into classrooms were made to leave. Handbills announcing "No School Today" were handed out, and a petition demanding a holiday was presented to President Walter Dill Scott.

The students later gathered at Patten gymnasium where Dr. Scott and Coach Lynn Waldorf spoke. Dr. Scott said he could not allow the holiday, and pointed out that the students had had Saturday night and Sunday to celebrate. The meeting and strike broke up finally when a speaker suggested that there would be plenty of time to celebrate the work in Churchill when Northwestern won the Big Ten conference title.

Writers Give Pitt Eleven No. 1 Rating

New York, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The Panthers of Pittsburgh again top the Associated Press poll of sports writers. Of the 115 writers who participated in the third poll, 105 picked the Panther eleven as the best football team in the land.

The Panthers piled up 1,139 points, their highest total in the three weeks they have headed the game's first ten. They are 238 points ahead of Texas Christian which romped over Baylor Saturday and climbed from fourth place to second in the rating.

Gophers Drop to Twelfth.

The Horned Frogs got eight of the ten remaining first place votes. Tennessee and Holy Cross, neither of which threatened to enter the first five, got one each.

Newcomers to the first ten this week are Duke, which rode in on the heels of a two touchdown walloping of North Carolina, and Northwestern, which toppled Minnesota Saturday on the football field and did it again today in the ballot box. The Gophers were second a week ago. They are 12th today.

Here Are Ratings.

The first ten [first place votes bracketed, points scored on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis]:

	Points.
Pittsburgh [105]	1,139
Texas Christian [8]	901
California	692
Notre Dame	670
Dartmouth	624
Tennessee [1]	610
Northwestern	406
Santa Clara	390
Duke	274
Fordham	149

Second ten: Oklahoma, 139; Minnesota, 125; Southern California and Holy Cross, 42 each; Alabama, 13; Michigan and Cornell, 12 each; Iowa State, 11; Texas A. and M. and Carnegie Tech, 7 each.

MAROON PAPER RAPS OBSOLETE FROSH OUTFITS

Of these eight, three allowed themselves to be quoted by name. The Maroon quotes Azad Sarkisian, half back, as follows: "While I don't expect anything better, I say that the equipment given us is not adequate, especially the shoulder pads and helmets. I know it's only freshman stuff, but I had to take my shoes back four times before I got anything I could wear."

Allen Wisley, guard, is quoted as saying "my equipment is so old I think it's going to fall off me any minute. But I guess the stuff is adequate."

Wally Beatty, back, said: "I think the shoulder pads we are given are terrible. They do more harm than good."

In an editorial the Maroon calls for an investigation and says: "Once again the athletic department has been charged with penuriousness . . . the university should not expect men to expose themselves to injury merely because of a depleted budget."

Nelson Metcalf, director of athletics, said he had not heard of the complaints, and that he would investigate. Metcalf said: "Item for item, our equipment costs are well above the average of the conference. Some of the equipment used by freshmen is last year's varsity equipment, and some is new equipment bought especially for the freshmen. At the start of the season we discarded all the equipment which we regarded as no longer adequate."

B'NAI B'RITH TO PICK CHAMPIONS IN SWIM FINALS

B'nai B'rith Youth organization swimming champions will be crowned tonight in the Covenant club, 10 North Dearborn street, as the first annual meet closes. Twenty-three events are listed, including diving and exhibition numbers, and competition in three groups, juniors, intermediates and seniors.

Al Schwartz, former Olympic swimmer, is chief starter and Jack Baskin, Dave Farber, Isador Baskin, and Tommy Kaplan are timers. Ralph Silverstein is chief judge and Dan Lazar and Jack Kellner will be the referees.

Lester Sutker, in the open class of the intermediate division, will point for three titles, in the 40 yard free style, 40 yard back stroke and 40 yard breast stroke. Albert Bilow, in the junior bracket, will aim for the 40 yard free style and 40 yard breast stroke championships.

The meet will start at 8:15 p. m.

Senators Retain Harris as Manager; Raise Salary

Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—(AP)—President Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators signed Stanley R. [Bucky] Harris today to manage the team for another year at a slight raise in pay. At 42, Harris ranks second only to Connie Mack in point of continuous managerial service in the major leagues. Next year will be his sixteenth consecutive season.

IT'S PERFECT DAY FOR PERFECT ONE AT SPORTSMAN'S

Wins Endurance Test by Six Lengths.

captured by Speedy Booger, which went to the post teamed as an entry with Denote. The winner is owned by Mrs. J. Carozzo and was ridden by Jocky J. G. Wilson. The son of Jamestown never left the result in doubt, going to the front at the start and winning by a length and a half. The Carozzo entry returned $6.

Gato, the gelding whose pa, Whichone, used to run on the big time with stars like Equipoise, made good in the Chicago handicap, which carried the largest purse of the day, $1,200. After winning its first start at Sportsman's by five lengths, Gato came back on Oct. 22 to run a not too good sixth. Joined up with Shining Heels as the Benny Creech entry yesterday, Gato immediately redeemed himself by going into a lead which had increased to a handsome eight lengths at the finish. It appeared as though the entry would run one-two until Masterpiece came up in the stretch to take the place from Shining Heels. The entry paid $9.

The daily double of $101.60 was provided by Whipsnake and Tartarus. The former, ridden by Jocky Conley, was fairly well played and won all the way. Tartarus, a 7 to 1 chance, came up to take the highly favored Our David at the top of the stretch. Tartarus, ridden by the veteran Mel Knight, rewarded his backers with $16.20.

12 TEAMS ARE PAIRED FOR SIX DAY BIKE RACE

Twelve teams will compete in Chicago's fortieth international six day bicycle race which starts in the Stadium Sunday night. Manager Harry Mendel, who finally has completed the task of pairing the riders, believes that the field is one of the strongest to compete in Chicago in many years. He has lined up the outstanding riders of the United States, Germany, Canada, Italy, France, and Belgium.

The complete list of teams, with the home of each rider, follows:

Jimmy Walthour, New York, and Al Crossley, Boston; Torchy Peden and Doug Peden, Victoria, B. C.; Gustav Kilian and Heinz Vopel, Germany; Cesar Moretti and Alvaro Georgetti, Italy; Jerry Rodman, Chicago, and Bobby Thomas, Kenosha; Marcel Guimbretiere, France, and Gerard Debaets, Belgium; Jules Audy, Montreal, and Cecil Yates, Chicago; Henry O'Brien and Eddie Testa, San Francisco; Raymond Bedard, Montreal, and Archie Bollaert, Detroit; Charley Yaccino, Chicago, and Albin Jurca, Kenosha; Mickey Rodak, Chicago, and Reggie Fielding, Toronto; Ewald Wissel, Germany, and Angello De Bacco, Newark, N. J.

Mendel has made one change in the teams as originally announced. Cecil Yates, Chicago youngster, has been paired with Jules Audy, while Eddie Testa will ride with Henry O'Brien to make a California team.

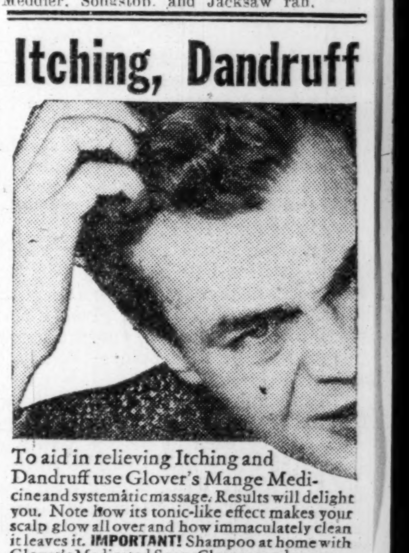
Itching, Dandruff



To aid in relieving Itching and Dandruff use Glover's Mange Medicine. Note how its stimulating effect will delight you. Notice how the scalp glows and how immaculately clean it leaves the hair. IMPORTANT! Shampoo at home with Glover's Medicated Soap. Cleanses and removes the Mange Medicine's clean pine tar odor. Your Druggist sells both.

Your Barber knows the value of Glover's Mange Medicine Treatment. Ask him!

WE SAY OLD QUAKER BEST WAY TO SAVE MONEY ON WHISKEY

960 Out of 1,000 Men—in Dramatic Survey—Confirmed Our Belief that Old Quaker—Now 3 Years Old—is an Amazing Bargain at This Price!

● You'll welcome this news! You can save money on whiskey without cutting corners on quality. Why do we say so? Because the judgment of 960 out of 1,000 men is that Old Quaker—now 3 years old—is a mild, ripe, full-bodied whiskey. But—we call your attention to the fact that Old Quaker sells at an amazing low price.

We actually sought out 1,000 men—from 22 states—asked them to try Old Quaker and give us their unbiased opinion. "Smell it!", we said. "Taste it! Swallow a drink of it! Then, tell us what you think!"

Not one of these men knew the name, age or price of the whiskey he was trying. Yet 960 praised its smoothness, mellowness, mildness. So again, we say:—Look at Old Quaker's rock-bottom price.

The above photographs show F. R. Marsh, New Jersey Salesman, making the famous Old Quaker whiskey trial.

"It's mild—that's what I like about it," says Dan J. Negas, Atlanta Hotel Man, of Old Quaker.

What This Means To You

If these 960 out of 1,000 men are right, then Old Quaker has got something you want! It's got fine quality at a low price! Make this same simple trial yourself! Convince yourself that Old Quaker is good news for every thrifty drinker!

MAJ. G. E. MASON DIES AT 98; GRAND OLD MAN OF G.A.R.

Given Michigan Degree 72 Years After Class

Maj. George E. Mason, the "grand old man" of the Chicago Grand Army of the Republic and of the University of Michigan, died early yesterday in his home at 525 Roscoe street. He was 98 years old.

Maj. George E. Mason.

Maj. Mason was born in Paisley, Scotland, in 1840 and was brought to Chicago by his parents in 1844. After attending elementary and high schools here he enrolled in the University of Michigan.

Enlists in Union Army.

In April, 1861, when he was within three weeks of receiving a bachelor of arts degree from the university, he enlisted in the Union forces. He rose to captain and major, serving in the 12th Illinois infantry and with the 2d division of the 16th army corps in the Atlanta campaign.

Returning to Chicago in 1865, he and a partner established a general foundry business which later became the Excelsior Iron works, of which he was president. Later he became president of the Dell Rapids Quarry company, crushed stone dealers.

From 1873 to 1880 Maj. Mason was a trustee of the Chicago Public library. From 1885 to 1892 he was a west side park commissioner and one of the leaders in the project to pave Chicago's streets with asphalt. In 1900 he represented Chicago at the international exposition in Paris. A year later he was made member of the board of inspectors of the Bridewell.

Gets Degree 72 Years Late.

In 1933 the bachelor's degree he had earned 72 years before was conferred upon Maj. Mason by the University of Michigan. It showed officially that he was graduated as a member of the class of 1861. He was the school's oldest living alumnus.

A veteran member of the G. A. R., Maj. Mason also belonged to other patriotic societies. He was president of the Society of the Army of the Tennessee and president of the Grand Army Hall and Memorial association.

He lived with his niece, Miss Rose La Mair. Others who survive are his son, Carlile Mason, and his grandson, George Mason, both of Los Angeles, and a granddaughter, Mrs. Geraldine King of Chicago. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at Rosehill cemetery.

SECOND AUTOIST DIES OF TROLLEY CRASH INJURIES

Herman Kelly, 22 years old, died yesterday in the County hospital from injuries received Saturday night when an automobile in which he was riding collided with a street car at Hubbard street and Damen avenue. Sam Barr, 35 years old, 2554 West Lake street, a passenger in the automobile, died shortly after the accident. Both were colored. Fifteen passengers in the street car were jarred by the crash.

Fred Woodward, 53 years old, of Libertyville and his son Walter, 29, were injured early today when their automobile smashed into the side of a moving Milwaukee railroad freight train at St. Mary's road, north of Libertyville. They were taken to the Condell Memorial hospital there. They will survive, physicians said.

Ninety-nine persons lost their lives in Cook county during October, according to figures given out last night by Coroner Frank J. Walsh. This was the same number killed in October, 1937. Thus far in 1938 there have been 797 fatalities in the county as against 883 for the first ten months last year.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 702 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 544 were killed in Chicago, where 16,662 were injured in the same period.

More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

Mrs. Lucia Roberts Dies; Morgan Park Teacher

Mrs. Lucia Roberts, a teacher in the Clissold elementary school in Morgan Park for fifteen years, died of a heart attack yesterday in the home of a daughter, Mrs. Gwendolyn Eames, 11100 Hermosa avenue. Mrs. Roberts was 60 years old. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Eames home.

8 JURORS CHOSEN TO HEAR DIXMOOR SPEED TRAP CASE

Eight jurors were selected yesterday as the trial of five officials and policemen of Dixmoor, better known as Specialville, started before Judge William J. Lindsay in the Criminal court. The defendants are charged with conspiracy growing out of alleged operation of a speed trap in the village.

Mayor Special in court.

Those on trial are Mayor Charles Special, Charles A. Braun, justice of the peace, and Policemen Robert Grecco, Tony Bater, and Charles Paduano. Braun is also charged with malfeasance, but will not be tried on this charge until after the conspiracy trial.

Attorney George A. Bellows, representing the defendants, announced at the start of the trial that he would waive a jury. Assistant State's Attorneys Richard B. Austin and Alexander Napoli, however, refused to comply with this offer. The four remaining jurors will be selected this morning and the state then will begin presentation of its case.

BUICK'S OUTPUT TO BE BIGGEST IN ITS HISTORY

240,000 Cars Scheduled for Domestic Market.

Because of an unexpected heavy demand for automobiles, the Buick division of the General Motors corporation is starting the largest manufacturing program in its history. This was disclosed in Flint, Mich., yesterday by Harlow H. Curtice, president and general manager of Buick.

Harlow H. Curtice.

The previous record of the Buick organization was the sale of 263,833 cars in the twelve months ended in August, 1927. The present program calls for the production of more than 240,000 cars for domestic shipment in the 1939 model year. In addition there will be export shipments sufficient to bring the total above the old record, officials said.

Orders 36,000 Tons of Steel.

The company, to meet its increased production requirements, placed orders for more than 36,000 tons of steel in October. This was the largest single month's commitments in many years and was much larger than the October, 1937, purchases. The October order raised total purchases of steel for the 1939 models to date to about 90,000 tons.

A substantial part of this steel is being produced in the plants of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation and Inland Steel company in the Chicago area.

Production of the 1939 models to date has totaled 38,000 cars, Curtice said. The increased schedules for November and December will bring the output of the new models to more than 93,000 by the end of 1938.

Plants to Use Full Capacity.

"The next two months will see the Buick plants at Flint operating virtually at capacity, with employment at the peak for this year," Curtice said. "Unusually heavy demand for the new models caused a further upward revision of production schedules and a revamping of our manufacturing plans for the rest of the year. We are looking to an output of some 50,000 more cars than were originally projected. Cars are now coming off the assembly line at the rate of 1,300 a day and our revised schedule calls for the production of a total of 87,117 of the 1939 Buicks for domestic shipment through Dec. 31."

Curtice said that the Buick plants are operating on two shifts, five days a week, and employment has been increased to more than 14,000.

U. S. Treasury Gets Lower Price for Its 91 Day Bills

Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau said the price of ninety-one day treasury bills declined slightly today. He said 100 million dollars of the bills were sold at an average price of 99.993, equivalent to borrowing at 0.027 per cent, compared with an average of 99.994, equivalent to 0.026 per cent in similar transactions a week ago.

Brink's, Inc.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me a report on Brink's, Inc.?—M. A. D.

Answer: Brink's, Inc., is an outgrowth of a drayage business, originally begun in Chicago in 1859. The business developed into a general express service, and was incorporated under Illinois laws in 1879 as the Brink's Chicago City Express company. It was reincorporated in Illinois under the same name in 1919. The title Brink's Express company was adopted in 1920 and in 1934 the name was changed to Brink's, Inc.

The principal business of Brink's, Inc., today is moving money in armored cars. More than 100 billion dollars in cash, valuables, and securities is handled annually by the company. This service was first begun in 1891. Gradually it eclipsed the express business of the company in importance and that branch of the business was sold in 1929.

Services performed by the company include collection, transportation, and safeguarding money, securities and other valuables, change and deposit services and pay roll and guard services.

The company and its three active subsidiaries operate in 26 states, in Canada and in the District of Columbia. About 500 armored trucks and 2,500 safes are owned by the company and its subsidiaries. It also has a good sized arsenal of firearms.

The company did not report its earnings prior to 1936. The capital stock was very closely held until early in 1937. Net income last year was $446,860, or $8.94 a share. Net income in 1936 was $422,205.

Funded debt totals $105,000. There are 50,000 shares of $5 par common stock outstanding. Par value of the stock was reduced from $100 on April 15, 1937, and 20 new $5 par shares were issued in exchange for each old share. A stock dividend of 100 per cent was paid on the old $100 par shares a month before the splitup.

Dividends paid in recent years were $300 a share in 1935 and $380 a share in 1936. In 1937 a dividend of $25 was paid April 10 on the $100 par stock following the 100 per cent dividend, and $5 a share was paid later in the year on the new $5 par stock. Two payments of $1 each have been made thus far in 1938, the last on July 28. Total assets were $2,472,057 on Dec. 31, 1937. Current assets amounted to $994,647 and current liabilities were $512,770 on that date.

MEMBER BANKS INCREASE LOANS TO COMMERCE

Holdings of Government Obligations Expand.

Loans made by the member banks of the federal reserve system to commerce, industry, and agriculture resumed their upward trend in the week ended Oct. 26. This was disclosed yesterday in the weekly report of the federal reserve board on member bank conditions in 101 leading cities. The loans had declined in the preceding week.

The increase last week was moderate—7 million dollars—but it indicated a continuation of an upward trend in bank loans to business that has been under way most of the time since early in the summer.

Decreases Shown in East.

A substantial part of the net gain over the preceding week occurred in the St. Louis and Dallas reserve districts, which had gains of $4,000,000 and $3,000,000, respectively. Smaller gains were reported in the Chicago, Cleveland, and Boston reserve districts. Small decreases were made in the New York, Philadelphia, and Richmond districts.

The banks increased their holdings of direct obligations of the federal government by 80 millions and of fully guaranteed government obligations by 3 millions.

Comparative Figures.

Following are comparisons of the principal assets and liabilities of the weekly reporting member banks at the close of business Wednesday [last six ciphers omitted]:

Merit Ratings—1.

The unemployment compensation section of the federal social security act provides for the setting up of "merit rating" systems by the states. Under this procedure employers who have stable pay rolls will be rewarded by having their pay roll tax for unemployment compensation reduced.

For example, the merit rating practice goes into effect in Illinois in 1943, three and one half years after the beginning of benefit payments to the unemployed. At that time the state's record of benefit payments will show those companies which have laid off a relatively large number of workers and those which have made few layoffs.

Accordingly, employers will be given favorable or unfavorable employment ratings. The regular unemployment tax payable to the state is 2.7 per cent of pay rolls. Under merit ratings those with the more stable employment may pay 1.8 per cent or 0.9 per cent or no tax at all to the state. Those with the most unfavorable ratings may have to pay as high as 3.6 per cent.

Tomorrow: More about merit ratings.

ONE POLICY PROTECTS YOUR ENTIRE FAMILY

Now you can protect your entire family . . . yourself, your wife, your children . . . with one policy in one company, with only one regular premium deposit to make!

This new plan of protection is more than Life insurance. It combines savings and insurance . . . liberal, two-way protection . . . for every member of the family.

First, it provides a "nest egg" for future use. This money is paid in a lump sum at age 65 . . . the Social Security retirement age.

Second, it provides family protection. If any member of the family does not live to age 65, the full amount of that person's insurance is paid to the named beneficiary. Moreover, if you do not live to age 65, all future premium deposits are waived.

The plan includes cash, loan, extended and paid up insurance values. Children reaching age 21 can, with your approval, take personal policies for equal amounts without evidence of insurability.

RAILS AND LABOR PLEDGE EFFORTS TO END PAY ROW

Roosevelt Promises Aid on Legislation.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Railroad management and labor assured President Roosevelt today they would cooperate in an effort to settle their wage dispute peacefully. They received in turn the chief executive's promise of active support for legislation to help the carriers.

George M. Harrison, labor leader, is highly pleased.

John J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, and George M. Harrison, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives association, conferred separately with Mr. Roosevelt.

Both said the President expressed confidence that a helpful railroad legislative program would be presented by an informal committee of six for consideration by the next congress. Mr. Roosevelt appointed the committee—three representatives of management and three of labor—some months ago.

Chicago Meeting Called.

Pelley added that Mr. Roosevelt said he would "do everything he could to get such a program enacted into law." Pelley said he was asked to find out from the individual railroads what their attitude was toward a report made Saturday by the President's special fact-finding committee. Pelley said he would gladly do that, and later he summoned the railroads' heads to meet in Chicago Friday at the Blackstone hotel. The railroad association's annual meeting will be held at the same time.

The fact-finding committee report asked the railroads to withdraw their order for a 15 per cent wage reduction, scheduled to go into effect Dec. 1. About 930,000 rail employés have voted to strike if the wage cut, estimated by officials to total $250,000,000 annually, is made effective.

The fact-finding committee was appointed by the President to hear both sides of the dispute and report back to him. It acted during the 60-day period which must elapse, under the railway labor act, before either the wage cut make take effect or a strike may be called. That period expires Dec. 1.

Enochs Tells Attitude.

The only suggestion of rail management's attitude toward the recommendation to withdraw the pay cut order came from H. A. Enochs, chairman of the carriers' joint conference committee, which is legally empowered to act for the carriers in the dispute.

"A strike is so far, far away, in my opinion," Enochs said, "that there is no use to get worried about it."

Enochs said his committee would meet again in Chicago Thursday to draft the report which it will make Friday to the railroad presidents. He said it probably would ask to be relieved of further responsibility in the controversy. He added that he believed his committee had gone as far as it should and that the final decision on the recommendation should be made by the railroads themselves.

Meanwhile, the representatives of labor also were discussing action to help end the dispute.

"Ready to Move Forward."

Harrison, one of the three labor members of the informal committee of six named to draft a legislative program, said his group was in session and "ready to move forward." He added that he believed that "in a good many respects we can get together."

Pelley said Mr. Roosevelt indicated a belief the informal group might have to be expanded. It now includes, in addition to Harrison, Carl R. Gray, vice chairman of the Union Pacific; M. W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania; Ernest E. Norris, president of the Southern; D. B. Robertson, chairman of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and Bert M. Jewell, president of the railway employés department of the American Federation of Labor.

Asked about the possibility of a huge government loan program to assist the carriers, Pelley said:

STEEL OUTPUT RISES TO 56.8 PCT.; HIGHEST IN MORE THAN YEAR

The nation's steel ingot mills this week will operate at the highest rate in more than a year, the American Iron and Steel institute estimated yesterday. The institute predicted production would be scheduled at 56.8 per cent of mill capacity, a gain of 3.1 points from last week's rate and the highest since the week of Oct. 11, 1937. This will be the second consecutive week in which production has exceeded that of the like 1937 period.

The institute reported 431,000 employés were on the pay rolls of the steel industry in September, compared with 427,000 in the preceding month. September pay rolls totaled $52,365,000, against $52,712,000 in August and, with that exception, were the largest for any month since November last year.

BRITISH POUND TUMBLES AGAIN AGAINST DOLLAR

The British pound tumbled 1⅛ cents yesterday in terms of the dollar. Most other principal European currencies weakened also. The British unit closed at $4.75½. The French franc was .00⅝ cent lower at 2.66⅛ cent. Swiss franc lost .00½ cent. The Belgian belga was unchanged. The Holland guilder gained .02 cent.

Uneasiness over the position of the French franc because of internal political difficulty was reflected in a rise of the discount rates on 90-day forward francs to .09½ cent from .07½ cent Saturday.

Concern over the low values of the pound and the franc was expressed again yesterday by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. He repeated statements of last week that the price levels of the two European currencies required study by the United States to prevent a situation in which American foreign trade may be adversely affected. The situation was not serious, however, Morgenthau said.

N. J. STANDARD SEES HOPE FOR OIL INDUSTRY

The position of the petroleum industry is not so serious but that it can be restored to a profit basis, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, said yesterday in its house organ, The Lamp. It said that if a conservative operating program is adopted and adhered to by producers and refiners in 1939, the industry can regain its balance.

"With product prices so low as to threaten all profits in both producing and refining," it said, "remedial policies should include: Conservative runs to stills; [2] elimination of heavy withdrawals from crude stocks; [3] less insistent development of new flush oil fields; and [4] important states which are not already members of the interstate oil compact, such as Illinois, should become members."

A. & P. Company, Clerks Sign Agreement on Wages

Signing of a new labor contract by the middle western division of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company with the Retail Clerks' International Protective association was announced yesterday. The contract grants annual wage increases totaling $30,000, according to Charles A. Schimmat, director of operations for the company. The agreement sets a minimum weekly wage of $18.50 for women and $20 for men who have been in the company's employ three years.

Stocks Rally from Setback on Rail Report

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 31.—Stocks closed irregularly higher today after an early decline ranging from fractions to 2 points. Final changes were mostly fractional. Of 764 issues traded, 332 closed higher, 250 lower, and 182 unchanged. Volume was 1,093,270 shares.

Disappointment over the railroad wage decision by President Roosevelt's fact finding board brought about a lower opening. Rails were in the forefront of supply, with leaders appearing in blocks running to 4,000 shares. A firmer tone developed as the session progressed, and substantial portions of the declines were regained.

Business News Is Favorable.

Favorable business developments were credited with aiding the industrials to shake off an uncertain start. Chief item was the American Iron and Steel institute's estimate of higher steel operations for this week.

Key steel shares substituted major fractional increases for early losses of around 1 point. United States Steel, Bethlehem, and Republic were favorites.

In the rubbers, General Tire and Rubber turned active and advanced 2⅛ points to 20⅝, a new 1938 high. United States Rubber common and preferred were moderately active and strong. They gained 1¾ and 2½ points, respectively. Goodyear and Goodrich advanced almost 1 point.

In the motors, Chrysler and General Motors made fractional gains, and low priced shares steadied around previous finals. Packard continued active.

Aviation Issues Strong.

Aviation shares were strong as a group. Douglas contributed a gain of 1⅛ points. Curtiss-Wright was active and quarter of a point higher. Wright Aero, traded in 10 share units, rose 5 points. Glenn Martin, North American Aviation, United Aircraft, and Bendix worked higher.

Pathe was the most active stock of the day and gained a quarter of a point to 14. Observers associate the recent activity of the stock to the revived story that du Pont offered a fancy price for Pathe film holdings in du Pont Film Manufacturing. Schulte stores was active, closing at 1, up ⅛.

Public utility issues closed mixed in a narrow range. Electric equipment issues, notably General Electric and Wetsinghouse, firmed around previous finals. Oils closed mixed. Most of the merchandising issues worked fractionally higher.

BUSINESS DONE BY CHECK SHOWS GAIN IN MIDWEST

Checks written against individual accounts in banks in the seventh federal reserve district [Chicago district] in the week ended Oct. 26 showed an increase of 2.9 per cent over the preceding week. This was disclosed yesterday by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

The bank reported that debits to individual accounts [checks written] totaled $1,244,543, against $1,209,222,000 in the preceding week. Compared with the corresponding 1937 week there was a gain of 0.3 per cent. The 1937 week total was $1,240,774,000. The reserve bank's report covers 159 banks in 41 leading clearing house cities.

Checks written against individual accounts in the Chicago banks alone totaled $806,693,000 in the week ended Oct. 26, against $700,710,000 in the like 1937 week.

ROOSEVELT IS ASKED TO HELP FIND FUNDS FOR PAY-HOUR TASK

Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's assistance in finding funds with which to administer the wages and hours law was sought today. A group of officials headed by Secretary of Labor Perkins and Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour administrator, conferred with the President at the White House.

Miss Perkins said no decision had been reached but that no further conferences were planned, leaving the impression that funds would be forthcoming.

"Administration of the act is being hampered by lack of funds," said Andrews before leaving for the White House. "Congress appropriated $400,000 for the administration of the law until next July 30, but about $100,000 of that has been diverted to the children's bureau and other labor department uses."

Andrews said he expected to be able to report within a few days on compliance with the new labor standards act, both as to minimum wages and maximum hours. Twenty-two field inspectors began work today in the larger industrial centers.

MARITIME BOARD TO CONTRACT FOR TEN MORE SHIPS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Vice Chairman Thomas M. Woodward of the maritime commission said tonight that the commission has 37 ships under construction and soon would award contracts for about 10 more. This exceeds the total constructed during the eight years' operation of the last ship subsidy act, he said.

Woodward explained that the commission may award construction and operating subsidies in addition to building its own ships, which ultimately will be sold or chartered.

"Under the operating differential subsidy plan, the commission has thus far granted long term subsidies to six companies for approximately $9,000,000 per year," Woodward said. "These lines are operating 59 subsidized ships. Seven other companies, on a temporary subsidy basis, operate 83 ships which receive approximately $4,500,000 per year."

CHRISTMAS CLUB SAVINGS EXCEED YEAR AGO LEVEL

Christmas savings club accounts with members of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks are $2,771,844 larger than at this time last year, the association reported yesterday. The banks, which operate in seventeen states, will distribute $54,429,205 among 1,326,797 depositors.

The number of Christmas club members increased 99,906 over last year. New York ranked first among the states in the number of members and total deposits with 583,127 accounts containing $24,057,899.

Pennsy Will Run 3 Chicago, Florida Trains This Winter

The Pennsylvania railroad announced yesterday it will operate three trains between Chicago and Florida during the coming winter season. One will leave at 1 p. m., a second at 9 p. m., and the third at 11:40 p. m. The Florida Arrow will run on a faster schedule, reaching Jacksonville in less than 26 hours and Miami in 34 hours 30 minutes. This train will make its first southward trip Jan. 2.

PACKARD MOTOR HAS $2,053,825 LOSS IN QUARTER

Consolidated Edison Earnings Rise.

The Packard Motor Car company yesterday reported for the third quarter a smaller net loss than in the same 1937 quarter. Higher September quarter profits were shown by the Consolidated Edison Company of New York. Reports of most other companies, including the American Rolling Mill company, compared unfavorably with a year ago.

Alvan Macauley predicts fourth quarter profit.

Packard's loss of $2,053,825 in the three months ended Sept. 30 compared with a loss of $2,324,852 in the corresponding three months of last year. In the June quarter of this year the company's loss amounted to $855,535. For the first nine months of this year a net loss of $3,298,790 was in contrast to a net profit of $1,494,205, or 10 cents a common share in the first nine months of 1937.

New Model Cost Is Factor.

Alvan Macauley, Packard president, said this year's third quarter loss included heavy preparatory expense in putting 1939 models into production. He predicted a small profit for the company in the fourth quarter of this year, in view of rate at which unfilled orders and current operations are increasing.

Production was increased during October, he added, but orders from the field are now being placed faster than they can be filled.

Consolidated Edison's consolidated net income in the September quarter amounted to $3,506,027, or 6 cents a share, compared with $3,221,058, or 5 cents a share in the third quarter of last year. This brought net income for the first nine months on a consolidated basis to $26,588,202, compared with $25,710,555 in the first nine months of 1937.

Net income of Brooklyn Edison company, subsidiary of Consolidated Edison, slipped to $1,826,655 in the

Exporters Warn Nationalism Abroad Is Blow to U. S. Trade

New York, Oct. 31.—[Special.]—American business men are greatly concerned over economic nationalism abroad and fear that it may have an adverse effect on foreign trade. Speakers so declared today at the twenty-fifth annual convention of the National Foreign Trade Council. More than 600 business leaders, exporters and government officials are attending the convention, which will continue through Wednesday.

Richard C. Patterson Jr., assistant secretary of commerce, said the United States must endeavor to establish a mutually profitable economic relationship with the totalitarian countries. But, he said, at the same time it must be prepared to meet them as a competitor and insure that "democracy is just as efficient as autocracy."

Farrell Warns of Conflict.

James A. Farrell, chairman of the council, opened the session today. He declared that economic nationalism was one of the most important factors affecting American world trade.

"Instead of coöperation and a sense of the economic interdependence of nations," said Farrell, "the commercial world is divided by lines of cleavage of a character practically unknown to us when our first convention was held twenty-five years ago.

"The issues that divide the world today strike deep at the roots of American thought and tradition. There is an incompatibility between American foreign commercial policy and the policies of countries that pursue the path of economic nationalism and self-sufficiency. It suffices to say that no compromise seems possible between doctrines so wide apart in principle.

Urges U. S. Take Firm Stand.

"We stand on firm ground in advocating the liberalization of international commercial relations, as opposed to policies which place restraint upon the movement of goods through economic channels of trade."

Farrell said that in working out plans for the future this country must consider that it is one of the dominating economic factors in the world today. Half hearted measures, he warned, will only encourage the growth of aggressive action and violation of agreements designed to shut Americans out of foreign markets.

Recent events, however, have shown that American patience may be mistaken for weakness and inability or unwillingness to protect commercial interests abroad, he said.

Fears European Aggression.

Eugene P. Thomas, president of the council, declared that the economic implications of the recent European crisis were that the threat of aggression will be employed to obtain economic objectives and that this country should withstand such efforts.

One of the developments that threatens the present status of the exporters of this country is the growing tendency of the United States to become a high cost producing nation. This assertion was made by Edgar W. Smith, in charge of institutional relations of General Motors overseas operations.

Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National bank, in a radio broadcast to the convention from Berlin, cited the action of the International Chamber of Commerce, at its recent meeting in Paris, in advocating ultimate restoration of the gold standard, adding: "I find myself in complete accord with this action."

AVIATION COMPANIES SET NEW PASSENGER RECORD IN SEPTEMBER

Airplanes carried more passengers in September than in any other month in aviation history. This was reported yesterday by Col. Edgar S. Gorrell, president of the Air Transport Association of America.

Revenue passenger miles totaled 49,480,616 in September, exceeding the previous peak, reached in September, last year, by 4.9 per cent. The high mark was also 7.4 per cent over the August figure.

The sixteen air carriers belonging to the association flew 345,906,887 passenger miles in the first nine months this year. This was 11.3 per cent more than the mileage for the like 1937 period.

United Air Lines reported yesterday that its revenue passenger mileage climbed 5.5 per cent in the first nine months this year over that in the corresponding time last year. The gain was noted on its New York-Chicago-Pacific coast route.

SEC AND STOCK EXCHANGE PLAN BROAD REFORMS

Program Result of Whitney Failure.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—The Security and Exchange commission today announced a program for extensive reform in practices of the New York Stock exchange. It was developed by the exchange and the commission as a result of the Richard Whitney failure.

William Martin, stock exchange head, says rules become effective soon.

This program, which already has been adopted by the governors of the New York Stock exchange, the SEC revealed, calls for thorough revision of many current exchange practices. This includes the separation of broker and dealer capital and the establishment of a 15 to 1 ratio between a broker's indebtedness and his capital.

Will Reform Other Exchanges.

In addition to the exchange's 7-point program, the SEC announced

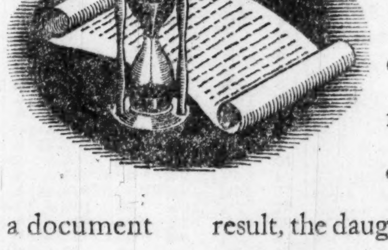
Beware the dangers of an outmoded will



A sense of security rightly arises upon the signing of a Will. But too often that very feeling can make one forget that the effectiveness of such a document can alter amazingly with shifting property values and changing tax laws.

Take this hypothetical case. A Will is filed for probate which was executed in 1929. At that time the estate in question totalled $1,000,000. In the Will are several substantial outright bequests outside the family, amounting to $325,000. The remainder of the estate is left to two daughters.

Unfortunately, since 1929 diminishing security values and rising taxes have reduced the net estate to only $375,000. As a result, the daughters receive but $50,000, which obviously was not the estate owner's intent.

Your Will, properly to express your present wishes, should be reviewed regularly with your attorney—preferably once a year. And in such a periodic review you and your attorney are urged to take advantage of The Northern Trust Company's 49 years of experience in acting as executor and trustee for a large number of important estates.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The decision of the President's railroad wage fact finding board, announced late Saturday, threw rail bonds for a moderate loss today. Other groups of bonds contributed little in the way of activity or important price swings.

The board's conclusion that the carriers should withdraw their action for a 15 per cent wage cut was disappointing to Wall street investment circles. In most cases, however, today's losses were not as wide as had been expected before the opening. Even those issues under pressure at the start met late support in most cases.

Closing fractions to around a point lower were Northern Pacific 6s at 69, Southern Pacific refunding 4s at 69¼, St. Paul 4½s of '89 "C" at 27⅞, M-K-T 5s of '62 at 42½, Illinois Central 4¾s at 47½, off ¾, and Rock Island general 4s of '88.

Utilities and industrials were about steady at the finish. Most foreign loans improved. United States government issues were on both sides of the fence, but changes were small.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks closed yesterday with small net changes. Advances and declines were about equal. Volume was 24,000 shares against 30,000 Friday.

The Tribune average of 20 stocks finished at 11.74, down 0.02. A fair demand boosted Zenith Radio 1 point to 23 at the close. Great Lakes Dredge moved up to a new 1938 high of 27⅞, and then edged off to close unchanged at 27¾. Borg-Warner advanced ⅝ to close at 33. Central and South West declined ⅛ to finish at 2, and Middle West lost ¼, closing at 7½.

Trading was narrow, including 96 issues, of which 30 advanced, 34 declined and 32 closed unchanged.

Volume on the exchange in October totaled 1,054,000 shares, compared with 1,547,000 shares in October, 1937. This brought turnover for the first ten months to 8,953,000 against 12,557,000 in the corresponding 1937 period.

Bank Stocks.

Leading Chicago bank stocks were irregular yesterday in light trading. Shares of the American National Bank and Trust company gained $3, closing at $208 bid, $215 asked. Stocks of the Chicago Title and Trust company, City National Bank and Trust company, and First National bank each closed $1 lower. Other leaders were unchanged.

COTTON

Cotton futures held within narrow limits yesterday. Mills were buyers of the December delivery. Foreigners bought the July and October futures. Closing trades were .01 cent higher to .08 cent a pound lower, October futures showing the most weakness. Reports from Liverpool indicated speculative interest in cotton was small there.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to .08 cent higher, with New York, 9.01 cents; New Orleans, 8.75 cents; Houston, 8.65 cents, and Galveston, 8.60 cents a pound. Prices follow:

Commodities

A slump in foreign demand sent the export price of copper down to 11.16 cents a pound yesterday from a range of 11.30 to 11.39 cents Saturday. The dip followed lower quotations for copper futures in London.

Scrap copper was cut ⅛ cent a pound to 9⅝ cents in line with the markdown in the export price. The domestic price in the spot market held unchanged at 11.25 cents, but copper futures at New York eased 0.06 to 0.09 cent a pound.

The lower copper prices were accompanied by declines in tin and lead futures. Rubber and cottonseed oil contracts also slipped, but cocoa, hides, and wool tops for future delivery were higher.

Final prices for lead contracts were down 0.02 to 0.05 cent. Crude rubber futures lost 0.04 to 0.13 cent a pound. Spot smoked ribbed rubber sheets lost 0.10 cent a pound, closing at 16.70 cents.

Hides futures at New York advanced 0.04 to 0.13 cent a pound, and on the Chicago Mercantile exchange closed 0.05 to 0.15 cent a pound higher. Wool top futures were up 0.20 to 0.50 cent a pound.

Coffee and silk contracts finished irregular, with changes small. Rio coffee was off 0.01 cent to up 0.01 cent a pound and Santos was unchanged to 0.01 cent higher.

PREPARE STATE BILL TO PREVENT TRUCK MONOPOLY

Lawmakers Urge Farmer, Shipper Be Protected.

BY HAL FOUST.

Prevention of motor truck monopolies on Illinois highways is one of the major objectives of a new truck regulation bill to be introduced in the general assembly next January. The bill is intended to protect the farmer, the shipper, the merchant, and the consumer.

Louis E. Lewis, speaker of the Illinois house, and Senator Louis J. Menges, chairman of a legislative commission studying the motor vehicle laws, said yesterday there is need for such legislation.

They warned that the Illinois commerce commission is now considering eight new applications for certificates for common carrier service. Twenty-one motor truck companies already have such certificates, which grant what amounts to a trucking monopoly on the routes assigned to each company.

Cities' Streets Involved.

Issuance of the eight more certificates now being sought, the legislative leaders said, would place nearly all paved highways and many city streets in Illinois under these monopolies.

In the Chicago metropolitan area, most of the rural pavements and many of the city streets are covered by certificates granted to the Willett company and to the Hastings Express company.

A common carrier under the law is a hauling agency which offers its services to the general public. Speaker Lewis and Senator Menges warned that the commerce commission certificates might eventually ban from the roads the trucks of farmers, merchants, coal dealers, all private truck operators, and the "for hire" carriers.

Upheld by State Courts.

"The Illinois courts," says the legislators' statement, "have held that the corporation securing one of these monopolies is entitled to an injunction against any company or individual that competes or injures its business. No similar certificates may be issued over the same route to a second company unless the holder of the original certificate is first given an opportunity to render additional service."

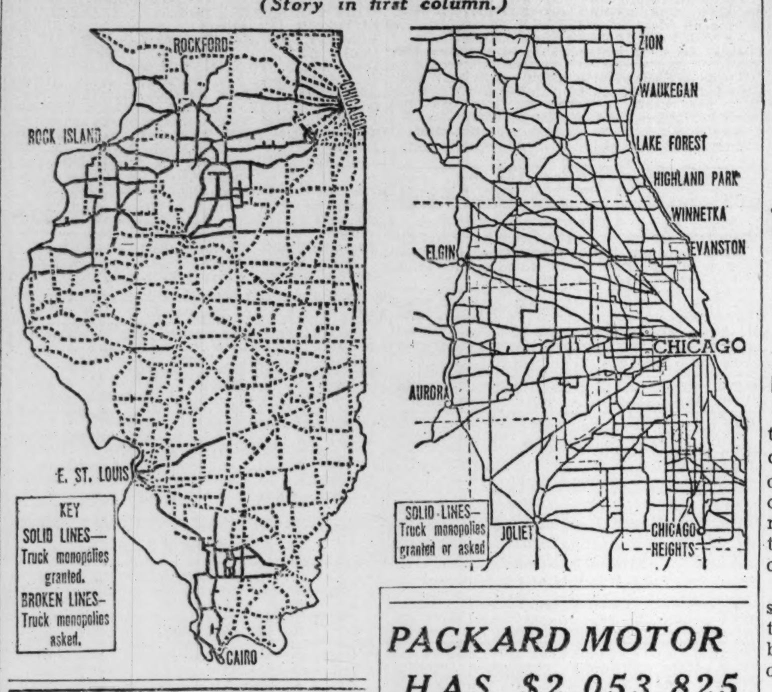
Working with Senator Menges and Speaker Lewis in the legislative commission are Senators John W. Fribley of Pana, Simon E. Lantz of Congerville, and George M. Paypole and Harold G. Ward of Chicago, and Representatives George J. Bauer of Effingham, James P. Boyle of Chicago, Thomas A. Brennan of Rock Island, David Hunter Jr. of Rockford, F. W. Lewis of Robinson, and Charles F. Mansfield of Springfield, secretary.

Dollar Ship Lines Get New Name and New Schedule

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 31.—(AP)—A new name and a new world sailing schedule were announced today for the Dollar Steamship Lines, reorganized and operated now under the federal maritime commission. The new name is American President Lines. The schedule provides weekly sailings from Los Angeles and San Francisco for the orient, fortnightly sailings around the world, and fortnightly sailings from Atlantic coast ports.

Road Monopolies Granted and Sought

(Story in first column.)



Business Bits

Dr. Alfred P. Haake, managing director of the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers, will address members of the Rotary Club of Chicago at their luncheon meeting today in the Hotel Sherman. Dr. Haake will advance the theory that it is up to business management to solve employer-employé problems.

Appointment of Eugene B. Finegan as chief trafic officer of the Milwaukee road effective Nov. 1, has been announced by H. A. Scandrett, trustee for the railroad. Finegan succeeds H. E. Pierpont, who is retiring at his own request after 55 years of service. Since May 1 of this year Finegan has been assistant chief trafic officer. Previously he was freight trafic manager. He entered the service of the Milwaukee road as a stenographer.

Thirty-six years ago Lawrence R. Capron, then 14 years old, was hired as a messenger boy by the Burlington railroad. The man who hired him was Horace Hale Holcomb, then chief clerk in the St. Paul freight office. Today Holcomb will retire as vice president in charge of trafic. He will be succeeded by Capron.

Carlton K. Matson has been appointed public relations director of the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company. Matson is a former newspaper editor.

Appointment of Harry G. Gillis as assistant general passenger agent of the New York Central railroad has been announced. Gillis, former chief of the passenger trafic bureau, succeeds the late Irving M. Taylor.

Oil Firm Cuts Purchases of Crude in Illinois Fields

Centralia, Ill., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Blaming a sluggish market the Sohio Oil company, formerly the Owensboro company, today cut its purchases from Illinois wells. The company is one of the leading purchasers of crude oil in the Illinois basin. Effective today, fifty barrels per day were being purchased by the company from the Lake Centralia field, twenty-five from the Centralia pool, forty from the Beecher city pool in Fayette county, and seventy-five barrels daily from the Clay City, Noble, Olney, Flora, and Fairfield pools.

EGG CONTRACTS DROP IN HEAVY SELLING WAVE

Egg futures, after dipping ⅞ cent a dozen, closed with losses of ⅜ to ¾ cent yesterday on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. A heavy selling wave brought the day's trades to a total of 6,420,000 dozens, the second largest turnover of the year.

Butter futures lost ⅜ to ½ cent a pound. The drop followed weakness early in the day in the cash market, where the price of 92 score butter dipped ½ cent to 25½ cents. Dealer demand fell, and the government financed Federal Surplus Commodities corporation had to take 280,476 pounds of butter, largest day's buying since Oct. 22, to keep prices up to the minimum pegged figures.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Turkeys Come Home

October 31, 1938.

TWENTY-FIVE of the turkeys raised at the Tribune's Du Page county farm came out of the woods the other day kowking and gobbling, looking for feed and a place to roost in winter. Cool weather has reduced the turkey's natural feed supply in the woods. Insects make ideal feed for turkeys but since temperatures dropped to the freezing point recently, insects have been driven into their winter quarters.

The old gobblers knew where to come when picking became short in the timber. They made a beeline for the barnyard where they would be near the corn crib and granary. It was the old gobblers that led the flight of birds into the branches of a box elder tree, the favorite winter roosting place for the turkeys. At nightfall the veteran strutters cock their eyes at the old elder and with a flap of their wings and a hoppety hop from branch to branch they soon find themselves perched in the tip top of the tree for a safe and quiet sleep away from varments.

Twelve Still on Range.

Three old hens and nine young turkeys still are out on the range but are expected to come in almost any day.

The surplus turkeys will be used on the farm during the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays. They are given a chance to stuff their craws daily. The poultry keeper is feeding them about all they will eat of shelled corn and whole oats.

Since the turkeys came home to roost, poultry wire has been placed over the doors of the sheep barn to keep the birds out of the feed troughs used in the cafeteria system of fattening more than 100 show lambs.

Down in the test plots a variety of vegetables has been raised this season for use in the Thanksgiving menu. Pumpkins and squashes have been harvested and stored for winter. A row of parsley is being protected and left in the open ground where the caretakers hope to keep it fresh and green until Thanksgiving. Turnips and celery stalks will be left out in the plots until the ground freezes.

Artichokes Green.

Jerusalem artichokes and the clovers are the only other crops that are still green in the plots. Most of the plot crops have ripened and have been harvested.

Gardeners are spending much of their time threshing, cleaning and sorting seeds to be planted next year. Seeds of the ten vegetable varieties of soy beans raised at the farm this year are being saved.

Sunflower seeds are being threshed. Some will be saved for seed and the surplus kept for use as winter feed for wild game birds and poultry.

An attempt will be made to thresh with a combine harvester some of the edible soy beans grown on a field basis this summer.

SEC AND STOCK EXCHANGE PLAN BROAD REFORMS

Take Action as Result of Whitney Failure.

that it will promulgate rules to make certain of the reforms effective on other stock exchanges throughout the country. This includes the establishment of trust institutions to assume the banking and costodial functions of the brokerage business.

At the same time the federal reserve board today announced two interpretations of regulation T of the board which serve to tighten control over credit to brokers.

The program of the New York Stock exchange, adopted by the governors last Wednesday but just revealed today by the SEC, is as follows:

1. Increase the number of periodic financial statements, or questionnaires, required to be filed with the exchange, and to require annual independent audits of firms doing public business. The exchange will make frequent inspection of member firms without prior warning.

Limit Members' Transactions.

2. Prohibition of margin transactions and the maintenance of margin accounts by member firm and by partners.

3. Establishment of a 15 to 1 ratio between a broker's indebtedness and his working capital.

4. Separation of capital employed in the brokerage business by firms doing business with the public from that used in incurring commitments by the broker as an underwriter or dealer; encouragement of separate corporate affiliates to handle dealer and underwriting activities.

5. A requirement that members, member firms, and partners report to the exchange all substantial loans made to or by such persons or firms unless fully secured by marketable collateral; also, to prohibit the making of an unsecured loan by or to any governor or employé of the exchange unless with written approval of a special committee.

Weekly Reports Required.

6. A requirement that weekly information on underwriting positions by members and any affiliated dealer corporations be filed with the exchange.

7. Establishment of a central securities depository for customers' securities.

1. A 15 to 1 ratio between a broker's indebtedness and his working capital.

2. Prohibition of rehypothecation of customers' safekeeping securities, limit extent to which customers' margin securities may be repledged, and restrict commingling of customers' securities.

3. Require the keeping and preservation of records essential to proper conduct of brokerage business.

4. Establishment of trust institutions to assume banking and custodial functions of the brokerage business.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace said he believed the principles of the SEC recommendations should apply to commodity and produce exchanges as well as stock exchanges.

Exchange Approves Changes.

New York, Oct. 31.—[Special.]—William Martin, president of the Stock exchange, said today in reference to the reorganization program, that all except one of his proposals would become effective within a comparatively short time. The board of governors approved all the changes suggested by the Securities and Exchange commission except the one on the establishment of a central depository for the safekeeping of securities.

Martin pointed out that the exchange was having a firm of certified public accountants study the organization and costs of a central depository. This study probably will be completed in about three weeks.

EUGENE DUFFIELD APPOINTED AID TO MORGENTHAU

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—Eugene S. Duffield today was appointed special assistant to Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. The salary was not disclosed, but the position generally pays about $9,000.

Duffield was sworn in late this afternoon along with John W. Hanes as undersecretary of the treasury. Duffield succeeds Cyril B. Upham, who resigned Oct. 1 to accept an appointment as first deputy controler of the currency. The promotion of Hanes, former Wall street broker, from assistant secretary was announced last week by President Roosevelt.

Duffield was a financial correspondent in Washington from 1933 to 1935. Since that time he has been a member of the Wall Street Journal staf in Washington.

Morgenthau Tells Silver Critics to See Congress

Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—[Special.]—Any demands for changes in the silver purchasing program should be addressed to congress, Secretary Morgenthau said today. He was commenting on a report of a committee of the New York Chamber of Commerce urging repeal of the silver purchase act. The secretary said that congress directed him to buy silver until certain goals had been attained, and that until the laws are changed he has no alternative. He said the administration has no new silver program and that he is not thinking of devaluation of the dollar.

EXTRA DIVIDEND WILL BE PAID BY LIFE SAVERS

Two Other Firms Vote Interim Payments.

A special dividend of 40 cents was declared yesterday on the capital stock of the Life Savers' corporation in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 40 cents. Both are payable Dec. 1 to stockholders of record Nov. 10.

Similar special and regular dividends were paid on Sept. 1 by the company which makes candies.

Interim payments were authorized by directors of two corporations. Crowley, Milner & Co., which operates a Detroit department store, will pay $1.50 on Nov. 25 on the 6 per cent prior preferred stock. The record date is Nov. 15. The last payment was $3 on Dec. 28, 1937.

The Ex-Cell-O corporation will pay 20 cents on Dec. 22 to holders of record Dec. 9. The company's last payment was 10 cents on Oct. 1.

The "ABC" of Times Leadership

THE qualities that make a newspaper preferred reading of above-average persons make it also a preferred medium for advertisers. This is particularly true for financial advertisers. The quality of its news coverage makes The New York Times preferred reading for men and women all over the country who have above-average financial interests. That is why The Times is the preferred medium of financial advertisers. They find it exceptionally productive —for financial notices, bond and stock offerings, corporate and institutional messages.

GRAIN MARKETS ERRATIC; PRICE CHANGES SMALL

Speculative Trading Is Unusually Light.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

	Monday.	Saturday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$0.64¾	$0.64⅞	$0.96¼
Corn	.45	.44⅞	.57⅜
Oats	.25¼	.24⅞	.30½
Rye	.42⅜	.42⅜	.73⅜
Soy beans	.69⅞	.70½	.93⅜

Speculative interest in the grain markets yesterday was unusually small. Wheat and corn futures moved within a range of ½ cent a bushel. Closing trades on wheat were unchanged to ⅛ cent lower. Corn was ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent a bushel higher.

The steadiness in the world's wheat markets developed in the face of a lack of export demand. No sales of North American grain were reported. Dry weather in the American southwest and in Australia had little effect on the markets. Liverpool wheat futures closed unchanged to ⅝ cent lower.

May Revise Corn Loans.

Reports from Washington intimated the AAA was considering a downward revision in the estimate of a normal year's domestic consumption and domestic demand for corn. It was said the federal loan rate would be announced shortly after Nov. 15.

Agriculture department officials said they expected possibly as much as 300,000,000 bushels of this year's corn crop to be stored on farms under government loans. The quantity will be determined to a large extent, they said, by the loan rate. Officials have said the rate will be at least 57 cents a bushel and possibly 61 cents. The higher the rate the more grain farmers would be likely to store. The rate will be determined on the basis of the crop estimate to be issued Nov. 10.

Combat Elevator Congestion.

Chicago cash grain handlers are making efforts to prevent elevator congestion. Lyman C. West, statistician for the Chicago Board of Trade, yesterday reported 1,592,000 bushels of wheat and 1,095,000 bushels of corn had been loaded into boats for winter storage. Receipts yesterday were about 1,500,000 bushels.

An increase of 7,946,000 bushels was shown in the domestic visible supply of corn yesterday. The increase was unprecedented at this season, and was a reflection of the big movement of government owned grain to terminal markets, brokers said. Supplies at leading points of accumulation are 24,674,000 bushels. A year ago they were 4,597,000 bushels.

LOW 1939 WHEAT PRICES FORECAST BY U. S. BUREAU

Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—(AP)—The bureau of agricultural economics forecast today that domestic wheat prices probably would continue low during the 1939-'40 marketing season.

Wheat acreage in the remainder of the world is not likely to be decreased next year, the bureau said in its annual wheat outlook report. With average yields, it added, a crop nearly equal to the annual world consumption would be produced even if acreage in the United States is held to the 55,000,000 acres allotted under the 1939 agricultural adjustment program.

The report said an increase in the domestic wheat carry-over "appears unavoidable" next year if plantings are much in excess of 55,000,000 acres.

Immediate Opportunity

NEW, AMAZING PRODUCT THAT ENJOYS THE SAME POSITION IN ITS FIELD TODAY AS THE ELECTRIC LIGHT DID TO THE KEROSENE LAMP YEARS AGO.

Under our unique merchandising plan men who qualify will be set up in business for themselves, and assisted in getting started successfully.

Permanent; no investment necessary; no lean seasons. We can train any intelligent clear thinkers to sell this electric product and assure him of at least $40 commission his first week.

If you are wide awake and want a business that pays big earnings, investigate this unusual opportunity.

EMPLOYMENT DEPT., 9 A. M. TO 4 P. M.
203 N. Wabash-av., Rm. 618.

Employing 20 Men for Expansion Program

We will be in the city to employ 20 men for a selling opportunity of unquestioned merit. 10 men for north side, 5 men for south side branch and 5 for immediate openings in Gary, Ind. We are establishing these offices due to our expansion in Chicago and nearby cities.

These positions will be filled by men age 21-45 years, who have good education and unusual ambition. ALL LEADS FURNISHED and you are fully protected by a competent, modern lead file system. Large percentage earnings.

Two men will be selected soon who have had experience in the selling of life insurance, vacuum cleaners, or educational work, for an established debit collection route.

Interviews given today [Tuesday] only. Apply Local Executive Offices, 203 N. Wabash, Suite 818. Interview on the hour, 11-12 a. m., also 2-3-4 p. m. Ask for Personnel Director.

MEN—WITH THE FOLLOWING BACKGROUND.

1st—That you have been in the past a willing hard worker.

2d—That you have lived your live clean and can give good character references.

3d—That you can prove that through no fault of your own you are now unemployed.

If you are willing to work hard for an honest opportunity and would be willing to do any kind of honest work so long as you could make a good living at it, I could give you a courteous interview and tell you frankly whether or not you can sell this electrical unit. In the event you are selected you will have the advantage of 2 days of training at our factory branch. Excellent percentage and bonus plan. You should be able to live on $25 a week, comm. and bonus for your first 6 weeks.
